As much as things change, a lot of things remain the same. The college went through a lot of changes from a new headmaster and a new way of doing things, to major renovations and staff members retiring. Although one may count on the Review being a bit off schedule, this year may have set a new record. However, with a lot of effort, we have managed to put it together.

It seemed as if anything that could go wrong did go wrong. Lost pictures, late write-ups, room changes, toxic paint fumes, untimely power outages, equipment failure, budget cuts, and more than half the review staff packing it in early, the 97-98 Review staff faced more adversity than previous years. But as usual it was up to a few to finish up the Review and after much delay the book sits before you.

I would like to thank some key people who never get enough credit for what they contribute to the Review. First of all Mr. Taskey, Mr. Whitehead, Mrs. Wilkes, Mr. Herder, Mr. Murdock and Adrian Kwan have been instrumental in taking many great pictures for the book over the last few years. This year they were also aided for the first time by Ms. Picerno, Mr. Galajda, Mr. Service and Ms. Venters. In the library I would like to thank Mrs. Pilioci, Ms. Marsh, and Mr. Smith who helped with write-ups, by naming the students we just couldn't figure out, and always being patient with the phone we rarely returned. I would especially like to thank the people who continued to work even when the going got tough and the end didn't seem to be in sight. Ben Wood as Grad editor terrorized the graduating class until they handed in their write-ups and candid pictures. Ben Rogers and Stephen Chee put in a lot of hard work as senior editors and deserve much thanks for bringing the Review to completion. And finally I would like to thank Mr. Treasure the Review advisor. He saw through the chaos and missed deadlines, took badly needed pictures and designed necessary pages to put the finishing touches on the book.

It was an honour serving as the editor and chief of the Review. I didn't accomplish nearly everything I imagined or set out to do but I gave it my best shot and hopefully you'll see all the hard work we put into every page of the book and you will remember fondly the school year that was 1997-1998.

A Word from the Advisor...

This was the yearbook that almost wasn't! The yearbook team began with an earnest rush out of the starting blocks but somehow, what had been the promise of a sprint to the tape, faded weakly to become a gruelling marathon with no apparent finish line in sight. To make matters worse, the Review's computer containing valuable files as well as its PageMaker software, did not come back online until well into the Fall term. It was an advisor's worst nightmare. In one of the hottest summers on record, the 1997-98 yearbook was in flames.

Yet out of the ashes of this disaster a phoenix began to rise. Much of the credit certainly goes to the early groundwork of editor Amal Jeevanandam who responsibly undertook to plan the layout and sections of the book with care and vision. He was later, ably assisted by Ben Wood who worked with dedicated passion to bring the Grad pages into focus. They deserve great credit for their many sacrifices and much labour.

The torch that was dropped was picked up ably by Stephen Chee and Ben Rogers who demonstrated great determination and patience by putting the many missing pieces together and by completing their daunting challenge. They worked many long and frustrating hours and the book is a tribute to their commitment. Their efforts were nothing short of miraculous.

So with this background in mind, may you appreciate the special character of this year's Review. Art is nothing without great effort. May you forgive any blemishes or our lapses. It is never an easy task to put together a faithful and accurate record of the school year, even at the best of times. While we sincerely regret the wait for its publication we are confident that it is worthy of your patience. We know that you will enjoy the many memories that are presented in its pages.

Bidding Farewell to Departing Masters...

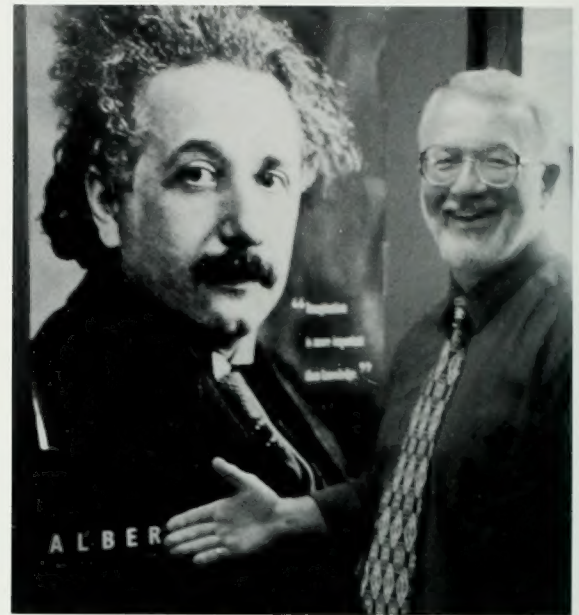

Mr. Fred Hiltz

It is difficult to say goodbye to Mr. Hiltz... a man "born to teach"... a wonderful teacher with thirty-five years experience at St. Andrew's College. Mr. Hiltz joined SAC in the 1960's after graduating in Aeronautical Engineering at U of T and working with Canadair in Montreal. He left SAC briefly to attend Waterloo to acquire a Master's degree in Physics and then studied Advanced Physics at Queen's University in order to work briefly at the Royal Military College for the Defence Research Board. Happily for all Andreans he came back to his home with Mrs. Doreen Hiltz at St. Andrew's in order to raise their family of Greg, Kristy and Doug and to do what he loved best, "teach the kids".

We are deeply grateful that Mr. Hiltz shared his many passions and enthusiasms with us. It seems, many years before anyone had thought of outdoor environmental or wilderness experiences, he was ahead of the pack - encouraging SAC students to participate in camping and survival experiences in Algonquin Park. In the classroom countless Andreans became inspired by his zest for teaching and his ability to challenge and to stimulate students to excel and to attain outstanding achievements and to develop the sound professional habits so necessary to prepare them for University.

Nor was his impact felt only in Physics - all students enjoyed Mozart's birthday - suitably celebrated by Mr. Hiltz. The strains of "The Magic Flute" emanated from the Physics' Lab and a cake was served to mark this special occasion. Enrichment provided by 'Von Hiltz' soothed the soul as well as cultivated the mind.

We can never repay the debt of gratitude we owe, nor ever thank him enough for his dedication to the school, his students and our Andrean community. We wish much happiness to the Hiltz's in retirement.

Mr. Peter Jamieson

Mr. Jamieson made a big impact during his short stay at St. Andrew's. He was an assistant housemaster in Flavelle House and as an excellent piper himself made a valuable contribution to our Cadet Pipes and Drums Corps. In addition to sharing his musical talents with our students he spent many hours on the Rugby field helping to coach our teams. In the classroom Mr. Jamieson taught History and English at the Grade 7 and 9 levels. He leaves SAC to pursue a teaching career in British Columbia. We send our best wishes and gratefully thank him for his time spent with us.

Mr. Paul Vedova

Mr. Vedova joined us from Conestoga College in Waterloo where he taught Mathematics, Physics and Computer Science. He quickly adapted to the challenges of teaching Computer Science to SAC students and enthusiastically involved himself in sports and extra-curricular activities. Although he was only here for one year, we are grateful for his guidance, good sense of humour and his expertise. We wish Mr. Vedova and his wife Dierdre and sons Daniel and Nicholas well in the future.

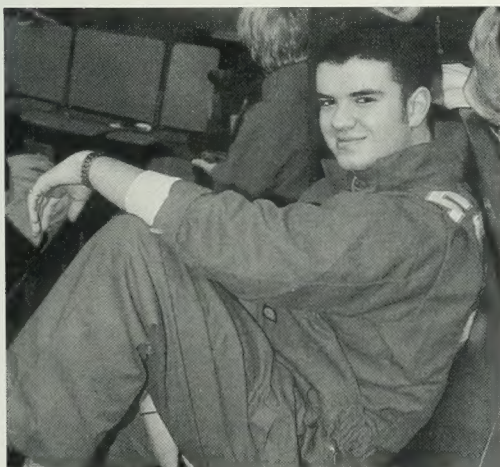

Ms. Amanda Thorne

Ms. Thorne lent her considerable talents to many areas while at St. Andrew's. Her coaching expertise was put to good use in her invaluable assistance to our swimming teams. In addition, she helped students in the Towers library and taught intermediate level science courses during Mr. Shields trip to Nepal. We shall certainly miss her enthusiasm and her friendly good cheer around the halls next year.

Mr. Giles Makins

Mr. Giles Makins joined us at SAC this year as a GAP student from Malvern College, England. He participated fully- from rugby to our school choir and lent his various talents to enrich our sports and academic programs. In only a short time he became very popular with staff and students alike and we appreciated his good humour, enthusiasm and help. We wish him success and thank him for his friendship and time spent at St. Andrew's.

Environmental Video Award

Congratulations to Scott Murdock and Mathieu Soulie as they made the "impossible" possible. These two students were able to produce an award winning video on the environment (The Sustainability of Glass) that took First Place Honours in the Sixth Annual Conservation Video Contest (sponsored mainly by Consumer's Glass). The contest was open to all high school students across the country to display their imagination and creative ideas as they relate to the environment. Below is the article from the Tuesday, June 9th "Era Banner," written by Dawn Liersch. It captures the outstanding achievement of Scott and Mathieu's video

St. Andrew's College students Scott Murdock and Mathieu Soulie prepped themselves by watching television commercials before producing their award-winning video on conserving the environment.

They then mixed energetic music and fast-paced action shots to make recycling glass sell as effectively as the giant advertisers' products.

Their efforts earned them a camcorder for the school, letters of recognition from the United Nations Environment Program and various other prizes, as the top winners of the National Sixth Annual Conservation Video Contest, sponsored mainly by Consumer's Glass.

This is the school's first year entering the contest, but environmental science teacher David Galajda said it certainly won't be the last. However, students will have a tough act to follow in light of Murdock and Soulie's accomplishment.

"We were sent a video showing previous winners, and the class said, 'There's no way we can do this,'" Galajda noted.

"But as soon as we saw their video in class, we knew it would be a winner."

Murdock said they tried to make it like a television commercial — one so tantalizing that it would prevent people from heading for the refrigerator.

Using music from Rock 'Em, Sock 'Em Hockey videos and depicting clips of some of the most eye-catching glass structures in the area, the Grade 12 students also shared novel ideas of how glass can be recycled for future use.

They showed sculptures and vases made from bits of glass by local artisan Brad Sherwood, and explained how glass is blown to make useful household items and fanciful objects d'art.

They also outlined what has happened in the past, when recycling glass wasn't as prevalent.

All this, in a stimulating three-and-a-half minute package.

"We watched commercials and saw what works — things like not having too much talking," Murdock said, adding they produced professional results using only his dad's basic camcorder.

Soulie translated all dialogue into French and he and Murdock took turns narrating the script.

Lynn Johansson of E2 Management Corporation, one of the sponsoring companies for the contest, said the bilingual element helped pushed that particular video to the forefront for judges.

"It won because of a combination of being bilingual, being creative in transmitting a message and because of the quality of the video," Johansson said, noting that it is tough to win.

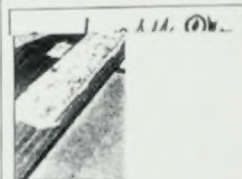

"We have a team of judges from across Canada and it was pretty well scrutinized... This is not just a whimsical process for us."

Galajda, too, stressed the importance of what the students accomplished, noting that their generation will be instrumental in preserving a sustainable environment.

"We have to think about the future now — we have to change," he stressed.

"It all starts with the kids. That's the most important thing."

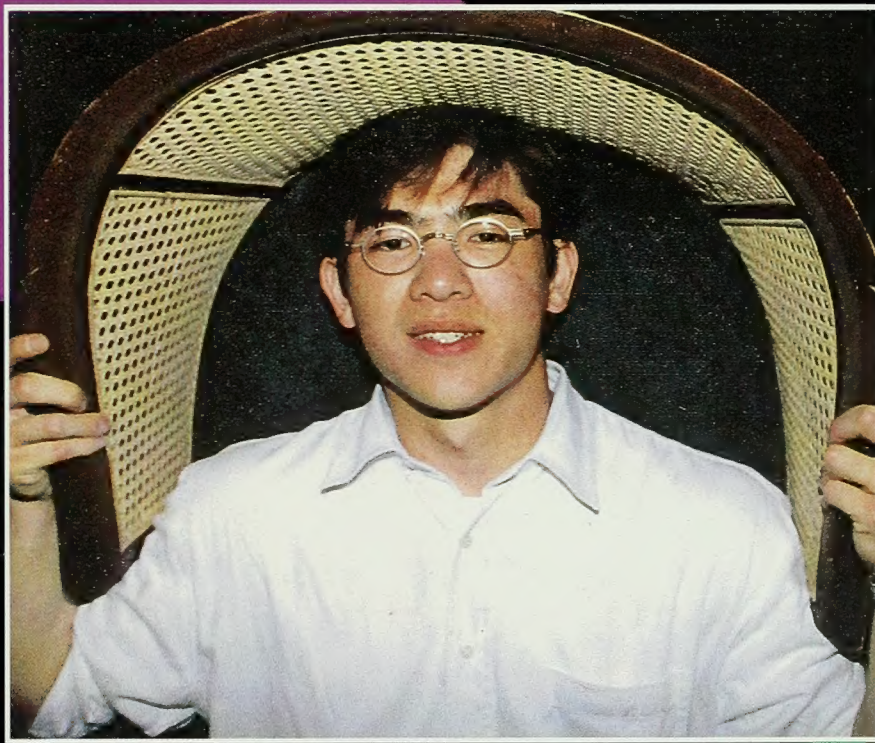

Murdock and Soulie will be honored during a school assembly on June 12.

THE G r a d s

THE PREFECTS

Gregory Meuser

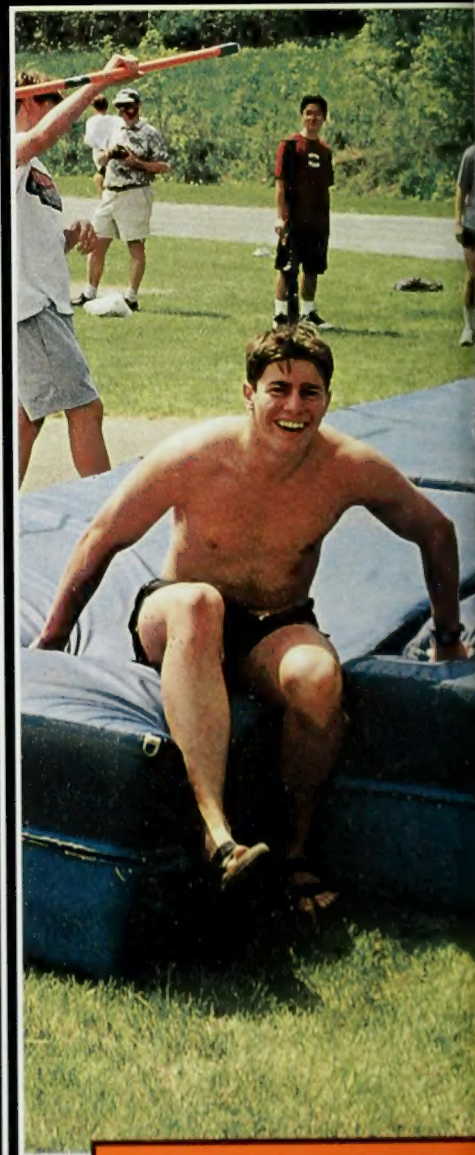

Caring about something to the extent that you care about the school as a Prefect is an experience in which I hope everyone can partake at some point.

If you were to categorize this year's Prefects into a certain type, I think you'd have to call them the 'Idea Prefects'. We did all the regular events (except for Mayfest, for which we substituted a dance later in the term), but there were a lot of things we were working on on the side. Many of these didn't quite get off the ground, but you can just chalk that up to a busy year. One of my fondest memories of this group will always be the Carol Service when we sang 'Amazing Grace' and the 'Dorset Carol'; especially having to do a reading right after that emotional time.

Something that you might not realize unless you're a Prefect yourself, is that you're conscious of someone watching you almost all the time. Whether you act any differently when under this kind of scrutiny is something that depends on your character. I found myself that it brought out my best side. All of us this year really treasured the opportunity to improve on all the previous 'big events' like Homecoming and the Formal. Obviously with every change you make, there are some people who are going to be unhappy. It is important to try to understand why changes are being made. This year I felt confident in Mr. Staunton insofar as the new directions in which he was steering the school. I was privileged to be able to work in such close proximity with him and the administration, as were all the Prefects, and often we would leave our meetings with him with a new insight into the running of the school. It was very important to us to know why things happened, to guard the traditions that were already in place, which, happily, are quite safe with the new administration.

It is a great catalyst to be directly involved with something that you love, whether it be family, friends, or a job. Caring about something to the extent that you care about the school as a Prefect, in my view, is an experience in which I hope everyone can partake at some point in his life. I know that for us as Prefects, that concern for the school and the people in it brought us closer together, and helped us become more capable people. It is an incredible feeling, and one that I will always have, and one that I know all the Prefects share.

Well, the year is at a close. It was fun, and not so fun. I want to first thank in no particular order because if you made it to my comment I like you. Mr. Kimmerer- 3 years we fought about school work but if I never told you this, I loved every minute of it. Every time you harassed me it showed me that you cared and I can never thank you enough—keep in touch because I now that I am not a student I hope we can be PALS.

Senorita Picerno, I wish to god I had more room to write about you, you are the greatest teacher in the school and one of my best friends. I will never forget Ottawa. I will never forget your advice about girls and I want you to marry me—just kidding—I would never have gotten through this year here without your wisdom-you kept me on the good side of the force and you kept me laughing. I wish I had more space to tell you how much you really mean to me- you are like a sister and always will be.

Mr. Service, You are a great friend. I loved hanging out in Ottawa with you and I know we will stay in touch like your friends from Ashbury. Always giving me cars to talk to was the best gift anyone could have given me. I can never repay you, so I'm not going to try, but if you ever need anything you can call me.

Miss Venters, You're awesome and are another great teacher in this school. Ottawa was a blast, let's do it again sometime. Keep in touch, and thanks for the cookies.

Mr. Jamieson, I am coming to B.C. to visit you and there is nothing you can do. I guess you're going to have to find someone else to see movies with in B.C.—Later buddy.

Mr. Giel, It has been a good year, I think. Keep in touch

Nick and Buffy, you are my family away from my family, so no matter what I am going to bug you forever—you should have thought about that before you had me.

Mrs. Pilicci, you brighten up the library, so don't ever leave it ok. Dale, you were my first friend here and one of my best—you and I are brothers and nothing can tear us apart-except for Jenna Jamieson. Rich, you are an evil kid and can go to *! Mesina, you tempted me with the dark side of the force but I still love you. Cruz, man you are to involved with Havergal bro, but I love you anyway. Budd, you are the root, but I love you anyway. Price, don't choke on any watermelon sours at University. Travis, stop bugging me. Little Sister, you are too cute for words, stay cool. Landry, Camargo, Meuser, I love you guys. Mike Kerr, You are the most stressed kid on earth; take a lesson from me and relax; you'll live longer. And the best for last, Nikki, man you put me through hell this year but it was worth it. SAC wouldn't be complete in my life without memories of you.

In conclusion this school has taught me a lot about my life, and responsibility. I may not have been the best in academics, but I am convinced that this school is more than homework and sports. It is definitely more and when I find out what that more is I'll let you know.

Going to Saint Andrews College was quite a learning experience, which took me three years to learn. I would like to thank my parents for sending me to SAC and continuously supporting me.

After two eventful years at SAC it would be impossible for me to summarise my time with so little words. I will this opportunity then to thank all those who helped make my stay at SAC a success.

First and foremost, I would like to thank my mother for sending me here because without her persistent love I would not be at this momentous juncture of my life today. Thank you Uncle Bob, for it was you guiding me in seeing that St. Andrew's was the right place. Much love goes out to Mr. Foy in helping with the continuous adjustment, from the Bermudian way of life to attaining the traits of a true Andean. I can't forget my cousins Victor and Kevin; Victor for making the transition a breeze and Kevin for always being there, especially when I needed his computer in times of desperation.

Last and not least I have big-up all my bredrins from the last two years a big thank you to all you menz: Victor, Tommi, Nathan, Daddy Shields, Bren, Ray, Smiley, Sands, Slim, Moodie, Geet, Smokey (The Crow), Pilgrim, Beef, Herb, Christie and Dougall, W.I.C. for life, remember that! In the past two years, my life with SAC has taught me many life's toughest lessons. I have learned that the paths of life are not always clear at first, but if you take the time to look, you will find many that are more than filling to show you the way. Throughout my experiences, I have come to accept that the tests often come first, and the lessons later. Although my career at SAC is coming to an end, the friendships and bonds that SAC has helped me create, will continue to live on. I would like to take this final opportunity to thank my parents for the sacrifices they've had to make in giving me the privilege of attending St. Andrew's College, and for their ongoing support. Lastly, I would like to thank all of my teacher's and advisors for sharing their knowledge and wisdom. It did

After five years, my time for writing the ever-dreaded grad comment has arrived. I've been post-poning it for the past 7 months (when it was really due 7 months ago), but it's now somewhat on pen and paper.

I never thought that it would be this difficult to compress five years of my life in 500 words. It's as though I've been given 2 minutes to tell my life story. It seems only yesterday that I came to SAC, only to be warmly greeted by Mr. Smith, who, for the first 4 hours portrayed himself as a very kind and gentle man. Then reality hit. Hard.
Five years later, and a bit wiser, I leave my "home from home", having thoroughly experienced Mr. Smith's wrath.

The SAC experience will last with me for the remainder of my life.
Never, have I been at a place which has given me so much freedom and responsibility as a place like this. Five years ago, I came here with all the doubts and uncertainties one would find on the washroom walls about life at an all boy school. I'm sure glad I never placed those bets.
As the years went by, the closer I felt to the SAC community. SAC has given me the privilege to take part in so many different areas of school life, and become a member of the SAC "family", that although I'll be away from home, I'll always feel like family's just down the road.

Thanks.

Okay, here it is, my grad comment! I never really thought about writing this, so forgive me if it proceeds a little haphazardly. I figured it might be a good idea to write this thing, as those guys in the Editing Department might be a little brutal if I left it up to them. Anyways moving along..... I would like to start by thanking all my teachers from the past two years. I think they did an excellent job in educating me. I would like to send out special thanks to Mr. Kinney, my advisor and OAC Bio teacher, who was always able to help me see where I was going wrong, or where I could do better. Continuing with the thanks: I would like to thank the Perriers, for all those trips to the movies, house breakfasts, sundae nights, algebra and calculus help, etc. I would like to also send thanks to those folks in the library who helped me through the last two years: Mrs. Marsh, Ms. Peleci, and Mrs. Bell.
I think that's about it for the thanks section, I've got a couple more but I'll throw those in at the end. I'd like to say "Good luck and have a great time" to all those guys still here when I leave. A few other words:
Dougall, that pool game is still unsettled; Zeek, good luck with the fanatical squash skills; Ferris, a boomerang is not a toy; Tom, have fun as the football playing super-model; Chester, you're not going for that same room next year are you?

Finally to finish this thing I would like to send a big thanks to my parents, for which this whole thing would not have been possible without their help, support and love. Well that's about it, now it's on to the next part of this story.

Although this is my first year, I have met many new people from around the world and have also made some life long companions. The memories and experiences I have gained in one year are interesting ones and also unforgettable ones. I have a lot of students to thank for that and a few teachers as well. Some teachers I would like to sincerely say thank you to are Mr. Walden; for being a teacher I could really relate to, for being kind to me while showing me that life is harder than we ever took it for, and making me laugh in class. Before I forget, I have a big bottle of Anejo home I am waiting for someone to help me drink it, hint hint. I will also like to thank Mr. Perrier for his dry wit and his ability to make me laugh when I saw my calculus marks. I will also like to thank any other teachers or members of staff who showed me kindness (which includes almost everyone). St. Andrews has taught me many things about life and I am confident when I say that there will probably never be an institution that changed my life more than here, except for prison.

Over the past seven years I have read many grad comments. I've often wondered what I will write about in my own comment. Well, the time has come, and I am at a total loss for words. I can't capture SAC on paper, so I would just like to recognize some of the people that have made my life as an Andrean all that it has been.

First of all, I'd like to thank my best friends, Mark and Greg, for their years of friendship. SAC isn't SAC without you guys. Unfortunately, there is not enough room for me to mention everyone I would like to, so this will have to be the compact version. Styles, I couldn't forget you, even if I wanted to. Gord, stay psycho. Yoshi, I know you're still denying my incredible, innate soccer potential. Mr. Kinney, thanks for teaching me that stupidity can cost me many marks. Mr. Timms, your patience was appreciated. Swaney, thanks for taking me on. Mr. Paolini, thank you for all your encouragement and inspiration. Mr. Arril, words cannot express my gratitude towards you. Mr. Wenk, thanks for the advice. To the Football coaches - thanks for giving me a chance. Mike Roy, you helped me carry out my vision - thank you. Mr. Foy, I can't figure out how one many can care so much. Mr. Staunton, thanks for understanding me. And finally, Mr. Smith, I shall conquer my demons - partly to please you, and partly to spite you. Thank you for keeping me grounded, and properly parked.

Finally, I wish to thank my family. To my brother - keep up good work, Alex, I'm proud of you. To my Dad - thanks for getting me out the door all those mornings, and for sticking it out with me through thick and thin. And finally, thanks goes to my mother - who taught over 6000 aerobics classes to send me to SAC. Your sacrifice has given me a lease on life. I will never forget all that you have done so that I may have the best education possible. Thank you.

SAC, you have changed my life, and I will always be grateful. But it is time to move on, and so - farewell...

Sayings: so much work, so little time, so little brain! I am over worked and underpaid! Only XXX (countdown) days 'till graduation!!! If I had a brain, I would out smart you! I like them all, but especially love the road kill! Yes, I am a Psycho! No, I do not paint them from pornos!

Activities: Fencing, recreational swimming, cadet band, track and field (gr. 11). Art-director of THH: magazine, painted, sculpted drew debating (for a while). House league Basketball, (gr. 11). And lots more but I've forgot!

SAC is the twelfth school that I have attended I found this school at first the hardest one to adapt to. The first year at SAC was very hard because of the loss of TV shows, girls, and friends. Yet, to compensate for these losses came knowledge, individuality, and wisdom. A fair trade? Depends on what you value in life. This school really fine tuned my skills in Art. Thank you Mr. Paolini! Yet without my own room, I could never have produced 25 paintings during the course of the year. Thanks Mr. Bedard! However, I have not reached full capacity, because of Fast tracking. I really want to thank Mr. Arril, Mr. Staunton, Mr. Smith, and Mrs. Bell, for helping me in numerous ways to and my graduation. Also, I would like to thank Mr. Walden, Mrs. Cameron, Mathieu Mallet and Miss Venters for improving my swimming skills. I hope I can become a Life guard A.S.A.P. There are so many more that I want to thank. If I missed you, please forgive me, because as I have mentioned earlier, so much work, so much time, so little brain! I'm already working at full capacity!

Sayings: Do you think I care? That's right, I don't give a damn. What? Yea boy. What the hell are you doing? So? So what? What the hell do you want? Get with the program. What the hell up man. Albert, when is the last time you changed your bed sheet? One month ago? (Refer to Harry, Albert's former roommate.) Albert, why is your toe still black? I told you to see a doctor in Taiwan. No okay, go away, hey, go orda. Yuppie.

Activities: 1st Softball at SAC (Third baseman.) Captain of one of the Intramural Basketball team. Tier II Volleyball. 1st Badminton (for a week.) Junior fencing, Lieutenant. Salvation Army. Network Manager. Assistance Producer of Plays in Focus. Math Team. Rooming with the Headboy, who had a black foot toe nail all through his SAC career. Afternoon Story Telling (BS) club. Ping Pong Club. Single Tan Club (With out Girlfriend, life sucks.)

Barry, open the windows lay (in Singapore English.) This is the first time ever I heard Andrew and Barry speak Singlish (Singaporean English). It sounds so funny that I laughed until my stomach hurts. At the moment I heard them speak Singlish, I get a feeling that my stay at SAC will be one of the incredible journeys of my life.

I would like to thank many people, but they are just too many of them and it would not fit in. These are the people who have made a great contribution in helping me finding who I am. But there are still some extremely special individuals that I have to mention here in my graduation: Mr. Perrier, greatest math and house master ever. Mrs. Perrier, the "shadow" housemaster that we truly adore (I love the cake that you made for my birthday). Thank you to Mr. Smith for all your help and guidance on university applications and also on Chemistry. Also, to Mr. Hiltz who have been giving me hell all through my Physics career at SAC, yet going through hell is just another way for us to be academically stronger than the person you are going to compete with in the future. Thank you To Mr. Walden and Mrs. Rush who helped me with my English. Also, to Mr. Kinney who helped me become fond of biology.

I will never forget those afternoons where we sit in a room and each one of us takes turn to tell a story. I will never forget those evening where we play tricks on Albert, and I will never forget the night of Barry's Birthday. We did something so touching that he cried.

Thanks to my parents that I have to stay in this "Costly" all boy private schools. Yet this is the place that made me mentally and physically stronger.

Farewell SAC, and my friends. You have made me a better person.

This is no time for ease and comfort. It is the time to dare and endure.

How can I begin? With the last five years behind me now, I realize that I have experienced so much here at SAC. This place was not merely my school, but my second home.

From learning to cheat efficiently on tests to building immunity to the food in the Great Hall (I don't think poison can harm me anymore). I think I am ready for the challenges ahead of me. Honestly though, the experiences I will take from this place will stay with me for the rest of my life. Friendship, co-operation and respect for others.

I would like to thank my parents first off, for deciding to send me to SAC and forking up the money to pay for it all. Thank you. I must also thank all the teachers who have failed me, and encouraged me to work harder. Special thanks to all those who gave me passing marks. You all have passed on knowledge, skills and experience that will last for a lifetime. I will use them well. Then there are all the friends I have made here at the school will endure my entire life. We have only walked a brief time in our lives and yet it will always, in my mind, be the most interesting part of it.

So as we leave this place and head off each in our own directions, I know that no two people can travel the same path. So I wish all the best to everyone at SAC, and to all my friends, keep in touch.

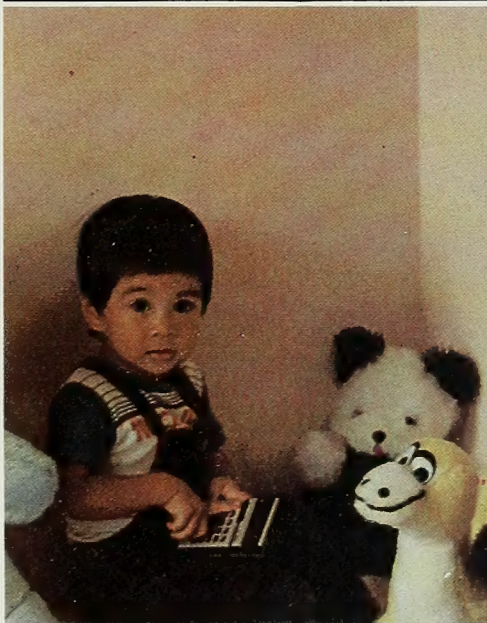

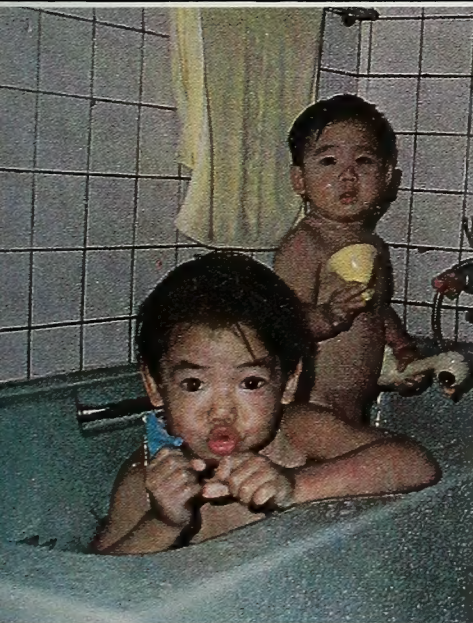

Howard Chun

House: Memorial (1995-1998)

These three long years at SAC have flown by quickly, three years of happiness, frustration, and, friendship. Nevertheless, I know there are other journeys awaiting and therefore it is time to discover the rest of the new world far beyond the gates of St. Andrew's. It is in the middle of the journey I encounter problems. St. Andrew's has taught me not to quit. "Quit ye like men, be strong!"

At first, I must admit, I detested coming here and following rules, but now it's a different story. I thank my parents for sending me here to receive education of such caliber. It has changed my thoughts on how important education is as a tool in life. I must also thank the masters that have tolerated my areas of misunderstanding and helped me through them. As much as St. Andrew's College is a school, the essence lies deeper than just in books and notes. Expressing three years of my life in a paragraph is much more than words can do. I'm very grateful to find true friends who I can share my feelings with, and I also wish it will stay the same no matter what lies ahead in our lives. Yet knowing that everything I have contributed to SAC is coming to an end and that they will only become a memory, I feel quite uneasy, but these memories will be a part of my life forever. I know that everyone is going off to different places next year and will face challenges. I wish you all best of luck.

I would like to thank a couple of people who made the transition to this school a lot easier than I had expected. Mr. Cameron made the football season very enjoyable, and no matter how much he tried to stop it, we still converted it to rugby. Right Ferris. Mr. Smith and Mr. Staunton who gave me help whenever I needed it. And to Mr. Swan what helped me in every way possible. And who could forget learning about all of those animals on the football bus, coming back from Montreal?

Homecoming was sweet. My threads were bump'n. Who could find an outfit like that for $6. Look below, what can you say about that? And by the way anybody who needs their door painted, I would be more than happy to help you.

"Gerald, I'm going to your room, drinking your pop, and sleeping in your bed..... give me the key!"

Well this has been an interesting/crazy/fun/busy/hell/amazing year. This was my first year at SAC and it has been great. There were times when I couldn't believe what I had gotten myself into. Here I was, being on sport teams while staying till I am for the play, then getting home and having to start my homework. Now that I look back at it, I wouldn't have traded it for anything. My only regret is that I didn't come here earlier in my academic career. There are a lot of great things that SAC has to offer and a lot of great people that you can do them with. The boys at SAC are one of a kind. Take advantage of that. Treasure the moments at this school because they will never happen again. As much as I love this school and the people, I'm looking forward to the next part of my life. Hopefully it means going off to a different world. It'll be a place where the term SAC boys doesn't exist, a little bit frightening but very exciting. Looking for a quote to summarize my year, I thought long and hard. I came up with a few:

"I still haven't found what I'm looking for..." (U2) "But it's the search that's important." (W. Bradley Cross)

Good luck to you all, and thank you.

I entered this fine establishment with a frown, but I leave it with memories that will keep a smile on my face for many years to come. It only seems like yesterday that I came for my first day at SAC, but I guess time passes you by when you've had such a great time. The concept of a school with no girls had me shaking my head right from the start, but there was no turning back. It was a good decision for I wouldn't have excelled in all aspects of school life if I chose to go elsewhere. For the past 5 years my body and soul has endured one of the greatest, funniest, happiest adventures it has ever come to encounter. It is in these years where I have developed to what I have become. I tip my hat to St. Andrew's for making me strong, willing and true -the Andrean that I am.

I could never replace the friends that I have made... Dale, my better looking half; Jay, your maturity had an impact on me; Jon, you made me laugh; The email crowd (you know who you are); The SAC Girls, the year would have never been the same without you; Kat, I thank you. To all the other grads of '98 I would like to say thanks for the fun. Good luck in the future and may all your dreams come true. Others also deserve recognition: My teachers for making this an interesting endeavor; Mr. Smith for making Day Boy life what it was; The two beautiful ladies in the library for putting a smile on my face each time I walked in; Mr. & Mrs. Gaertner for supporting me through the years, and Mr. Bedard for encouraging me to continue and strive. Finally, Mr. Staunton for making my year a memorable one. None of this could ever be possible without the ongoing support of my family. I would like to thank my parents for giving me this opportunity in life. Thanks Mom and Dad for being there all the time; through my ups and downs you supported me. Thanks Lynnette for being my sister. Thanks to everyone who stood by my side. I love you all.

From my second floor window, I can vividly remember my parents driving out the Memorial House parking lot; what a horrendous feeling, was 5000 miles away from home and in a new environment for the next 3 months. Fortunately, I had two close Jamaican friends with me (Randy and Daryl), and many school connections through my father an old boy.

My first year in grade 10 was definitely the roughest; my very defensive and emotional attitude made relationships more complicated and sometimes painful. However, I am proud to say that in the last four years at SAC, I have matured into an Andean. This of course was not an overnight job and I have many people to thank for helping me make the transition from boy to man.

I would firstly like to thank all the Masters who have supported me on the playing field and in the classroom. Special thanks to Ms. Kravchenko for being a great tennis coach and friend and to Mr. Walden for giving me comfort and support when I needed it most. To the Bedard family, thanks for everything. To Mr. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Perrier, and my parents: I love you all. Mr. Cameron, your incredible care for me both on and off the squash court has had a profound impact on my life. Your positive encouragement made all the difference. Mr. and Mrs. Perrier, you were my parents away from home. You've done such a great job of taking care of me, that I've considered adopting you as full time parents. Mum and Dad, thanks for granting my wish to come to SAC. You were my walking stick when I needed you. I only hope that after your tremendous sacrifice, you are proud of me.

I can't finish without hailing-up all my yardies from de Islands: you, Sands, Kalil, Kevin (Smiley), Justin (Smoky), and Blades. You guys kept the Caribbean spirit inside me. To Amaz, thanks for the competition on court and the friendship off court. You pushed me further in all we did together. To Zeek, I hope those wrestling skills I taught you will come in handy. On a more serious note, your stability was the perfect balance I needed to grow and excel. Thanks for being my roommate for two years and a best friend for life.

I remember coming here two years ago and not having an official room for about a week and at that point thinking it was going to be a long time to graduation. But the last two years flew by. It's been fast and farce!

I need to thank my parents for all the faith they have had in me. Also to my teachers and house master, it could not hvae happened without you.

And to the rest, it's been fun. Later.

Five years at St Andrew's has come to end and am I any different? Yes. I can now look back at all that has happened in my life and be proud of the person that I've become. Since the first day of grade nine right up to Prize Day of OAC, these five years have been a blast. I've had good times and bad times, but the former certainly outweighs the latter. Who can forget Homecoming, Macpherson, Mayfest, Formal, and the insane amount of partying that goes with them? Part of being an Andean is forging friendships that will last the rest of your lifetime, and I've made many friends here whom I will never forget.

To all my friends, you've made these five years as fun as they could be. Haz, Fords, Rich, Ward, Ginou, I'll never forget all of the great times that we've shared together over these five years, it sure seems like more. I wish you guys all the best of luck in your adventures in life and don't do anything I wouldn't do. To the rest of my SAC crew: you've given me a lot of memories to reminisce about for the rest of my life. Mr. Smith, thanks for putting up with all of the BS that you've gone through in order for me to graduate. Adrienne: We've been through a lot. Thanks for being there when I needed you. I love you. Peter: Don't forget the reason you've come to SAC. Mom and Dad, I'm eternally grateful for the opportunity you have given me by sending me to St Andrew's.

My SAC days are now over, but I will never forget this place, never.

As I leave St. Andrews, I leave with no regrets,
No bad memories, except for cadets.
The time has flown by, but it's been worth while,
and as I say good-bye, I leave with a smile.
With many good friends to call my own,
this great place I will cherish, as it has been my home.

To all my good friends that I will miss,
I look forward to the day we'll hook up and reminisce.
To Moose and Budd - my original PTS,
You've brought me good times, and made my life a mess,
(Jons), Brad, Mike, Christie and Fu
I'm glad to have met great friends like you.
As to luck let there be no lack,
but a bit of advice - stay well on track!
To my good friend Rich, my pizza-eating friend,
I know we'll keep in touch, or else I'm gonna kick your 'end'!
And the rest of the "day-boy crew" that I've recently come to know, may the force be with you, wherever the hell you go.
And all my other friends that I've chilled with from time to time, sorry I couldn't mention you, but that's way too many rhymes.

Who would have thought time would pass so quickly? It seems almost yesterday when I first made way through the gates in order to make St. Andrew's College my home away from home. I can't say it has been easy. It hasn't been a free ride, that's for sure - I thank my teachers and housemaster for putting up with a little resistance from time to time, although hopefully, I think it has been all worthwhile. Through it all I want to thank my friends for making my stay a reasonably happy one. Without their support it would have been a dark and gloomy existence. Certainly there have been a lot of good times and I can never forget them- jamming in the crypt and performing at Focus, hanging in the house, kicking a ball around out on the quad and playing with the team on sportsfields. In many ways it will be hard to leave the place. Thanks to everyone for their support. They know who they are. I couldn't have done it without you. So long SAC.

These past seven years have been quite a blur. First of all I would like to thank my parents for sticking with me. They made the whole SAC experience possible. To all the teachers that opened doors rather than slam them in my face, thanks. Between sprinting to chapel and dodging Mr. Smith, my day was always filled with interesting things, thanks to you.

Someone once said SAC life is like a Soap Opera. I completely agree. There was never a dull moment around campus. There was always a balcony to chill on or a place to just collapse. The characters in the Soap Opera were all my friends. The friends I have made here have been some of the strangest people you could ever meet. Thanks to all those crazy guys you know who you are. There was always a good time to be had with the "SAC Guys". And to all those ladies that have come and gone: "I apologize for my friends".

Well, its nearing the end. And as the inevitable draws closer and closer I feel two things. Although I want what I have here never to end, I also look forward to the future. Along my journey at S.A.C. there have been many people who have influenced me and comforted me. To my mother and father, I will never be able to repay you for what you have given me, thank you for all your sacrifices that allowed me to attend S.A.C. Rosemarie and Michelle you put the smile on my face. Thank, Marco, and Claudio you may never know it, but without you I could have never got through it, you gave me an escape. Mr. Hitchhead I consider you a good friend, more than an advisor. Mr. & Mrs. Perrier, thank you for taking me into your home.

Now comes the hard part; I have to choose the students that influenced me the most; you all did, whether close or distant. To the students who have already graduated. Keith, 'my hip attachment', you taught me how to be kind to others (all the time), you may be shorter but I've always looked up to you. Gerald, you lazy ass, it's not the same without you, you're still one of us. Simon, you were the ideal Andean in my eyes, a role model in all aspects of life.

My fellow grads, 'hard core' and nothing but. P.T.S. members: Evans, you might just be too cute for your own good.; Budd, deep down inside you've got some of the best characteristics a person could have. Cherish our friendship. Rich, just writing your name puts a smile on my face, your the last person who should have ever been B listed. Sam and simple, you're the man. Price, thanks for letting me live in our room for a term and a half. Dale, I better be getting a garbage bag from you when you get back from Nepal. Moose, I'll get to you latter, I don't go to hard core. Mercer, you're a phenomenon (I'll see you A.A.). Ben, I'll take my twenty in a ten and two five's; you're a role model defines you as a person, and an incredible one at that, you're my silent role model. Max, he who you are, not what people want you to be. Tonio, you're one person who can truly do whatever he wants in life, good luck at whatever you choose to do. Brook, thanks for all the support. Wardo, your drive on the field allowed you to improved more than any other. Lows and Jay, your creation in Antonio's room defines what I love about you two.

These past seven years have come and gone far too quickly. As far as the experience goes; well, it has been the experience of a lifetime! I have been an Andean for seven years and I will carry the memories with me for the rest of my life.

I leave Saint Andrew's with a positive attitude toward myself, others and the future. I especially want to thank my parents, my teachers and my fellow Andeans. I'll never forget the good times.

First of all, I'd like to thank my parents and grandparents for giving me this opportunity. I'd also like to thank Mr. Foy, Mr. Smith, Mr. Halstead and all the other teachers who have put up with me for so long. As the summer drew to an end, the dreaded thought of attending St. Andrew's College crept into my mind, a vision of a school isolated from society and where the opposite sex did not exist. My determination to dislike SAC was a personal high. But as the year progressed I found my beliefs to be a false bias of my imagination. The people here are not at all different from anywhere else. Meeting people of many different cultures and backgrounds was a new and exciting experience. Deep inside I feel I made the right decision in pursuing my education at St. Andrew's College.

To my Lord and savior Jesus! Thank you for giving me the opportunity to live my life in freedom and from Love. To both my parents Mom and Dad for looking after me and to all my best interests. For giving me more than just the necessities and for showing me love to the fullest degree. To my brother who has always looked after me like any big brother should for putting me ahead of himself and giving me support. I love you guys! To any other family members for giving me the attention and time. Also for the opportunity for being there for me. Thanx to all my friends here at SAC, for supporting me and for all the good times. PJ meet you at ATQ don't forget. Mike what's up skit? The Cheong bros keep practicing b-ball, cause you ain't got no game! Leon, find someone else to cut your hair! To the staff here at SAC, U.H.S. and Parkview! Here's to my second family in Unionville. Joey stay yellow lots of partying this summer! Nick noodles forever! Darrin easy on the beer! Ryan the best guitar player ever! Tyler, J.R. & Ozog kick your butts in golf! Derek well uh nevermind! Campbell take it easy "soul to squeeze"! Jeff try a different brand other than Bud! Brad someday I'll smoke you off the line! To all my lady friends, had a great deal of fun, and there is still more to come! And finally to the love of my life Cindy for being the best! For loving me unconditionally! Thanx for your love and care! I LOVE YOU beyond words! To anyone who I forgot, thanx for being a part of my life! Thanx all, I'm out!

My six years at SAC will always be remembered and carried on through by life long friends. Now, let's get to the best part, OAC, (the chronic year.) A new group, 2 new cars, to the highland nipple, and Ward's Woods, and good times! (Charlie/Ward/C D/Fords) chill boys! SAC was full of lessons that I learned, some quicker than others: it's a shame I can't reveal the lessons, because that would be giving up the tricks of the trade, but remember what I said, "quicker than others."

To the Republic o Dominican, what a trip, I loved the view through the haze, Rich/Doug/Ladies/Bebe, it was a wild week, orgasmic even. Charlie, to morning car piles and afternoon smiles. For all those who walked in my basement sanctuary and left a little wiser than before, or awoke on a coach disorientated. Ah Rich. Iways around, Thanx for the morning bells and perfect timing. Fusco/Moose and all the chronic boarders, have fun.

Thank you Mom and Dad Julie and everybody around Tat. The best for last— I love you bebe.

It's hard to believe how fast time flies by, when you're having fun. My four years at SAC have been a significant stepping stone in my life, and have taught me many valuable lessons. SAC has provided me with a solid foundation of life skills, which will surely help me in every aspect of my life in the future. Looking back, I realize that my journey through SAC has been one of these experiences that character is built, and wisdom is gained. Good luck to all my friends, I hope you all find what you seek. I'd like to thank my advisor Mr. Whitehead for keeping me on track as well as being a true friend; Mr. Hiltz for taking physics to a whole new level for me; Mr. Smith for guiding me through the maze of university selection; Mr. Swan for putting up with me when I was late for chapel; Mr. Dawson for helping me sail through many adventures; Mr. Jones for passing along his astrophotography tips; Mike in the dining hall for looking up a storm, and Mr. Kimmerer for letting me rush the puck. Just but not least, I'd like to thank my parents for the selfless love and sacrifice that they've given. Without them my journey through SAC could not have been possible. Ahhhh... It's coming close to an end. I came here in grade 11, and since then I have been loving every minute of it! I have learnt many things in my time here, one of which is school spirit. I am so proud to have had the privilege to come to this school, and whenever I think of it, I will always get a warm feeling in my stomach. The friends that I have made here are irreplaceable. To my closest friends, (Brad, Ferris, Counter) I will always remember the good times we had, and we had better keep in touch with each other! To all my other compadres, you guys are the best! I have never had this sense of being anywhere else.

Now, my last year has been by far my best year here. Grade 13 privileges are the best thing about this place. It seems to me that when you're in your last year here you seem to grow closer to the people in your grade. Our crew, came into the year looking pretty shabby; I think that our only real goal (next to getting into university) was to out drink the previous years group. We started off hard, hitting the bars three or four times a week! It started to slow down a little bit when a couple of the boys (I won't mention any names) were caught drinking at paks. This only hampered our mission for about two days. Another bad scene was the week after the semi. Pumpkin got caught with Brads Crown royal under his semi table. Then, later that week, Brad (My roommate) was caught drinking at horseshoe valley during a ski team practice. I am very proud of him; he happens to be one of our most dedicated members. I think our year did make some progress though, with regards to the punishments for drinking. Last year, it was a least a suspension. Now we have brought it down to mere gatings! You guys can thank us later; it's up to the next generation to bring it down to mere ERs! We started the momentum; now finish it off! (Soon we might be able to have women in the houses!) Well I am running out of space, so I have to end off. I thank the school dearly and with all my heart. If I make it to University and succeed, I will always support the school.

My three years at S.A.C. seem to have gone by in a blink of an eye, with each year feeling shorter than the one before. It may be a cliché but I am finding out it is more than true.

I would be remiss without thanking all the teachers I have crossed paths with. I have never seen a more dedicated group of teachers in all my years of schooling. Somehow I have made it into University and would like to thank you all for it.

Since I don't have that much space I can only thank a couple of my friends in particular. Tom you were my best roommate and also my craziest (it was close, I have had some pretty crazy roommates). I hope you succeed in whatever you plan on doing, be that medicine, lifeguarding or you dream of being a teacher in an all girls school. Ben, I can't thank you enough for helping me on the Review and editing all of my essays in the middle of the night and early in the morning. I would also like to thank you for being my conscience when my own was clouded. Good luck in the army. Just don't drink too much or kill anyone, in that order.

I would like to thank my parents for sending me to this school even though at first I strongly resisted. Looking back now I am glad I came to S.A.C. I meet a lot of different people and tried things that I never could have if I had stayed in public school. The true test of my time at S.A.C. will come after I leave the school and enter into University and then the real world. I hope to make the both of you proud of me. Dad thanks for the hundreds of rides back and forth to the school and where ever else I wanted to go. Mom thanks for doing my laundry and putting up with my nagging and demanding. I don't think I fully appreciate how good parents you both are. To Vimala, I know I'm not a great brother but I'm the only one you've got so you have to live with it. Ha Ha.

Lastly I would like to thank myself, because without me none of this would be possible. Just kidding.

Oh my god ! I can't believe that I am writing my grad comment. It seems like yesterday that I walked up the stairs of Sifton house, went into my room and said "I got to get out of here", but thanks to Ryan Sommerville, who broke me into the SAC brotherhood, I learned that I was not just going to school, but that I was making friends that would last a life time. I could not have made it through my three years here without my friends. Thanks to Cruz, I love u man, even though u are ugly i always found the better side of u. Jon..u are my brother, the years we spent as roommates. I will never forget ! My only words of advice to u are finish what u start. To the P.T.S club (- Moose, Bud, Puffy, Fu-tang, Rich, Price tag, Haslam and all the other's i forgot) thanks for expanding my horizons, and there is no clean air under those seats ! To Will and Sim, i will never forget that day in which u guys "broke me in." To Greg, thanks for all the advice and for beating the sh@t out of me all the time. Marcus, what can I say about u, I love u man. To the islander pose (- Sands, Khalil, Ihou, Boss, Moodie) keep on herbalizing and to the rest of the grads when the world hands u a lemon, hey make some lemonade.

And to my parents, without u i would have never had the opportunity to attend a facility like SAC. To Ms. Picerno, thanks for the great memories in spare class... um no i mean Spanish class. To Mrs. Pilicci thanks for being my mom away from mom. To Mr. Shields thanks for giving me a chance. To Mr. Aril thanks for helping me to get into university and to set me on the right direction. Mr Smith... the school is nothing without u ! Thanks for making fun of me almost every class. U are the man sir. I just hope that there is a Mr. Smith Junior in University.

Two years ago I came to St. Andrew's thinking that there was no way I would ever like this place. I first looked at it as "serving" my time during the week and then being granted weekend leave for good behaviour or something. Fortunately, it didn't stay like this. This place turned out to be one of the best homes I've had. I guess I owe it to some of the wicked people I met here. I guess I'll start with my ski buds: Mercer, Price, Gooderham, MacCon, and the Dyson Bros. Thanks for making those midweek excursions up to my neck of the woods a wicked break from the norm. Brad, save that blanket it comes in handy!! I would like to thank some of the staff for helping me along the way. First of all, Mr. Giel, thank you for giving me the opportunity to be a house captain and teaching me all the "exciting aspects" of accounting. Mr. Scoular, thanks for the great coaching and being so patient in English. Mr. Dominato thanks for putting up with me for two years, even though I was a pain in the ass! I'd just like to say to Moose that I'll always be #1 and not #2. To my Westside partner, Ahee, aka Hermie, "you know you're intrigued....." Dale, watch for me on Soul Train buddy, you know I can rip it up! I can't forget my Coldwater bud, Evans, "AHHHH Revans," good thing I got you started in the right direction; you've got potential and your going on to higher places pal!! Eddie, Kwong Ming Yip, thanks for making me as Chinese as I'll ever be on gul gul. I'd also like to say what's up to the skank-K, Neil. To Rich, Fusco, and Moose "Scoular's gonna kick all your butts!" Weedon, Malloy, and Beatty thanks for stressin me out whenever you could, no wonder I always went home. Just joking guys, have a good one! To my German neighbour Ben "Dieter" Wood, here's a wet willy for ya! I couldn't mention everyone so I'd just like to say a general good-bye. To all the people behind me, enjoy it while you can because something as great as this just flies by! Before I wrap it all up, I'd like to thank my parents most of all for making the sacrifices to give me one of the greatest opportunities that'll ever come my way! Thanks for everything; you guys rock!!

The three-year journey at St. Andrew's College consists of many memorable and variable experiences, both social and academic. Although I did not stay in Sifton house very much in the year of Grade 13, I learned how to live in a place which contains all kinds of people of my age from all over the world and managed to study in a high noise level area. In this three years, I met a lot of friends and learned a lot of precious knowledge to be a human being that will help me in the future. At last, I have to say thank you to Mr. Bedard, Mr. Dunford, Mr. Treasure, Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Hiltz and all the teachers who had taught me for the past three years. I will NEVER forget the three years at SAC.

The more I study, the more I know;
The more I know, the more I forget;
The more I forget, the less I know,
So why study?

At the first time I entered the front gate of St. Andrew's College, I realize that the journey of my high school life will be special. As my brother said that "The life in SAC is unforgettable and challenging like the long narrow and winding driveway running up to the MacDonald House." My life in Sifton house gives me a valuable opportunity to meet different people from all over the world. The unforgettable incidence was the softball battle between Lakefield/CISAA Champ. 1997) and our team (First Year in SAC); we were leading them till the bottom of fourth inning, because the teamwork of my team and the magic ball that I pitched....

Special thanks to Mr. Kimmerer, Mr. P. Bedard & Mr. R. Bedard, my Housemaster for giving me a enjoyable and memorable time in Sifton (Thanks for your Hamburger after the softball practice); Mr. F Hiltz for teaching me the university standard Physics and by using dramatic ways that we enjoy very much. Mr. G. Smith for teaching me how to stop causing trouble, promoting me to be a Lieutenant and admiring me in front of my date in the cadet formal. Mrs. Hiltz & Mrs. Josselyn for teaching me English and getting me involved in the class. Mr. Wenk & Mr. Perrier for giving me a chance to learn freely and independently in their class. Special thanks my Art teacher: Mr. Paolini for teaching me the use and skill of oil paint and correcting me from the deviated way. Mr. Inglis (I'm not that bad in Math!!).

There are many people whom I want to thank. If I missed you, please forgive me. I do not intend to do so. Most important of all, Mom and Dad, Thank you!!! For my Grad comment I decided to follow the format found in the books from C.D cases, so here it goes... First of all I'd like to thank God for saving me when I should have been booked or failed and everything in between. Lots of love goes out to my family. Thanks to my mommy and daddy for being there to support me, keeping me in line, and kicking my butt when I needed it. To my sisters Miss and Camille who kept me company in the "box" when I was lonely: stay away from those SAC boys after I leave; remember I have spies everywhere. Thank you to the 4 teachers who have helped me greatly in my schooling, but more importantly taught me about life: Mr. Smith, Mr. Swan, Mr. Scoular and Mr. Cameron. To all my friends, you guys were the best thing about my SAC life. Maybe one day we will all meet up in Joe Mama's Restaurant. To Ryan Puffy Combs my road trip buddy, remember I Know What You Did Last Summer; anyone up for some PIZZA... did someone say SESSION. Hey Span thanks for all the insight on how corrupt our society is; remember I'm always right behind you; one day I'm gonna drop the stick and take you on the outside. To Sim, my evil arch-enemy, thanks for making me look good; you may have been gone but never were you forgotten! Haz don't be a stranger; strangers get booked stealing ply wood from neighbors. Fords my co-conspirator, I'll always remember that football practice where the Chron was created; if you ever want someone to sit with you on a window ledge or on the 4302 balcony, gimme a call.

To Brook my white equivalent, call me when you're single; we'll go cruising or something; hey good guys win sometimes. Charlie you are one of the funniest guys I have ever met in my whole life; keep on laugh in cause when you laugh I laugh; remember, always bet on black! To Moose, my little big brother, my break dancing partner, the memories are endless; It's good to know that there will always be someone else out there getting B listed. By the way I think it's time you really went home, Fusco, the greatest Italian I've ever known, next time you are going get your camera, I'd love to come with you. Dan you're the man. Hey JP next time I'll remember the flare shoots; it doesn't sparkle, it shoots. Words of wisdom never let a girl pull the move on you, or else it's all over. Doug, my only friend from HTS, next time you roast your body in the sun remember aloe vera will do wonders. Dale without all your hook ups I don't know what I would have done; thanks for taking me to my first trip to Neptune. By the way the air was cleaner down there. Jon don't worry despite what Bunk says, terrorists aren't that bad; Hey stay good looking, and maybe I'll see you in McDonald's one morning or in Hell. Budd, although you are the root of all evil, I still think Latino lovers are the best. Finally to all those who were missing in action (Palf and Al) you'll always be on my mind.

Attending SAC has been the best experience of my life. For seven long years I have lived on campus; it would be impossible to show how important the school has become to me in print. The Gang-Wa cheer I learnt in Grade 7 still pumps my adrenaline, the chapel at night still quiets my spirit. No matter what the future holds, St.Andrew's will always remain a part of me. The friends beside whom I've worked, competed and played with at SAC I hope never to lose touch with. To Gerald, a roommate of five years, maybe this will teach you to learn from your mistakes?! To my parents, at SAC I have done everything you ever asked me to do: my best. Thank you for believing in me. I can't imagine leaving the gates of St.Andrew's for the last time, but I will forever remember when I first passed through.

As my St. Andrew's career goes by, I am feeling many mixed emotions. I am now ready to move on forward and capitalize on my opportunities. At the same time I feel sad to leave a place where I could feel at home and at the same time make fun of Ontario.

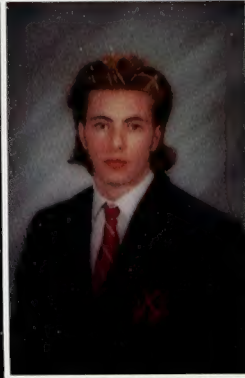

I would like to thank Mr. Bedard and Mr. Foy for making it possible to come to SAC. I can not forget my second family, the Perriers, for all they did for me and all their support. Thank you Mr. Cameron for your support and coaching for two great years. And finally, I want to say thanks to my mentor Mr. Secular who believed in me and helped me reach a higher level in all domains of evolution. I think Mr.Secular is a perfect example of what SAC is all about when it comes to teaching, involment and support.

I came here to evolve and grow up, but the friends I made and the people I met are what ties me the most to this school. I built friendships that can never be broken: My friend Ferris, my favorite ghetto guy Christie, My head roommate Alex the great, Keith who I've missed, My neighbor skipping partner Ryan, My favorite fat guy Jason, Richard and the frenchies, Mike Foy and Mike Farrugia, let's not forget Moodie the thin.

Two years with only guys was, I guess, a good experience. I mean, it made me realize how good and important girls are...but they are far from being more important than the frendship between guys. To my family, mom, Jean-Eudes, Grand-maman d'amour, merci pour tout, sans vous rien de cela n' aurait été possible. Thank you for seeing me through till the end. All your sacrifices will soon pay, trust me.

I have one thing to say to all the grads...you have one life, do not miss the boat...party and have fun while it lasts because very fast we will be old and dry of PARTY..ahah

The three-year journey at St. Andrew's College consists of many memorable and variable experiences, both social and academic. Although I did not stay in Sifton house very much in the year of Grade 13, I learned how to live in a place which contains all kinds of people of my age from all over the world and managed to study in a high no level area. In this three years, I met a lot of friends and learned a lot of precious knowledge to be a human being that will help me in the future. At last, I have to say thank you to Mr. Bedard, Mr. Dunford, Mr. Treasure, Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Hiltz and all the teachers who had taught me for the past three years. I will NEVER forget the three years at SAC.

The more I study, the more I know:

The more I forget, the less I know,
So why study?

To Dale, no matter what happens, you will always be the master of the matrices. To Bibs, if you weren't here, I don't know if I could have survived accounting class. The first impression that SAC gave me was a school that is built in the middle of nowhere. It seemed to me that it would take me half a day to go back home in Scarborough. However, during my 3 years staying in the school, I totally changed my view. The environment of SAC is the best among the schools I have visited. The most important of all is the people in the school that make this school mean so much to me.

I would like to take this chance to thank all of those who helped me to survive in SAC: First of all, I would like to thank Mr. Arril for writing such a good comment in the university application forms. I could never go into a good university without your help. Mrs. Bell, thanks for helping me to solve many problems in sending the university application forms. Mrs. Hiltz and Ms. Ray(?), Thank you for giving me great help in English. Mr. Perrier, thanks for spending time and effort in solving the most difficult math questions in the worksheet that you gave us. And Mr. Josslyn, you are a great coach. More than half of the success of the basketball team comes from you. You are the best coach I have ever had in my life! You make me feel a deeper love in basketball. Thanks for giving me such a good time in the basketball team.

Finally, I would like to express my deepest thanks to my parents for sending me here to learn to operate washing machines, dryers, to iron clothes, to clean my home and to endure the FOOD in school.

To my friends: Eddie, you are so funny. Thanks for bringing many happiness to me. Ben, you are such a special roommate in my final year at SAC. Armand (ah man or ah fai), don't complain too much with Maggie (Sea monster) Wyai, you are too nice to girls. Be a tougher man! Wyn, wish you happy with Elaine. Carson, If you had played basketball two years earlier, you would be so good by now. Tom, thanks for being my roommate in the first 2 years in my SAC life. Hope you can get into a good university. Howard (Thai Daddy), go back to Thailand to become Mr Cheung Tin Yeung! Chester and Hans, thanks for bring so much fun in the basketball court. Danny Mak, thanks for lending any Kam Yung books to me. Kelvin Chan, thanks for giving me valuable advice. K.K., thanks for discussing my future. Alex, Wong, thanks for bringing pleasure to us (for letting us research). I think the school should let more of your type get into the school.

Special thanks: Jacquie, thanks for listening to me and to share the burden in my worst days. You are my lucky Star.

Thanks to my mom and dad, who sent me here and gave me the happiest time in my life here. Thanks for simply giving me everything. I wouldn't be here without you all...

Three years in SAC, I would say, it's not really long or short but perfect. I will surely miss all the happiness, friendship, enlightenment, frustration I had here. I have gained a lot of experience and the preparation for future life. Being at SAC, I have got a lot of true friends and unforgettable memories; thanks and best wishes to all of you. I think SAC will always be a most memorable part of my life and I have the feeling that I will never leave here, that I am just graduating from here. These three years are the best. For all the people who are still living in SAC, live your life to your fullest ability. Get deeply involved in it, because you won't believe how fast it passes by before you even realize it.

My sincere appreciation again to those important people who support me!

Five years have flown past quickly. I can still picture the first day coming to the school past the school gate, thinking of what was waiting for me in this new strange place. I have to admit that I have grown from a little immature kid to a more mature person. Life is just like reading a book, and life in S.A.C is one of the most important chapters. Now I have come to the end of this huge chapter, not knowing what is awaiting me in the future.

It is quite impossible to sum up the five years of fascinating life in S.A.C. Therefore I will wrap up by thanking those who have made all this possible.

First of all, I have to thank my parents for the sacrifices they endured in giving me this opportunity at S.A.C. To my family, you have been the most important people in my SAC career. Thanks, for not only the financial aid but also believing in my abilities and me. I love you all.

Last, I thank all my friends and teachers at SAC, especially Mr. Foy, who was always there whenever I needed him; Mr. Smith, Mr. Wenk, Mr. Giel, Mr. Jones, Mr. Scoular, Mr. Perrier, Mr. Swan, Mrs. Hiltz and anybody else I might forgot.

Well, what can I say. Good times never last and six years sure passed by like a breeze. I can still remember the horror of the first day at SAC, the huge buildings, scary looking teachers and the heavy textbooks. Armed with only several hundred words in my English vocabulary I was afraid that I wouldn't last a single day here at SAC. However, the colourful life at SAC is definitely one that I will never forget, from the St. Andrew's Day dinner to the Cadet Inspection to the Thanksgiving run. I used to think that school was boring, yet SAC has brought out the fullest in me and now I'm regretting that I didn't get involved earlier in my career, and now it's too late. But who would know that a student like me with only 69% when I first entered would end up like this! It never ceased to amaze me how much I learned at SAC, not only academically, but also about leadership, sports and friends. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Hiltz for his way of preparing us for university, also Mr. Rush and Mr. Dominato for revealing my potential in computer science, and the rest of the staff for guiding me through the long journey at SAC. For those who are graduating next year, I am sure they would feel the same way I do about SAC and for those who aren't, enjoy it while you still have a chance! This may be the end of a long journey, but compared with an entire lifetime, this is only a very small portion; there are still many great things waiting ahead!

Sitting here trying to figure out what I'm going to write, I'm left with only one question: What does St. Andrew's mean to me? Well, that's a difficult question to answer. I'm sure the answer is different everyone who comes through these gates.

I'm going to have mixed emotions the day I leave SAC and venture off into this vast world. I'm going to be sad, because I'll never get to wear the St. Andrew's red again, be it on the ice or on the field. I'll be proud that I've endured my stay here and succeeded in graduating and happy to become one of hundreds of old boys. These last five years at SAC have been the best in my life; I wish I could stay another five years. But the show must go on with new actors, new players. To the who still have time left here, make the most of it, get involved. You still have friends to make, championships to win and dreams to live; those that have gone before me, such as Freddy and Buff, thank you for the wisdom and leadership you've passed on to me. I only hope I've done just as good a job passing it on to others.

There are so many people to thank for the past five years, but most of all I'd like to thank my parents for sacrificing so much to send me to St. Andrew's. Dad, thank you for always pushing me to give it that extra effort. It always paid off. Mom, thank you for all the love and support you've given me over the years. I love you both. I'd also like to thank all of the friends I've made over the years here. Perrs, thanks for all of the rides you've given me, and if you ever need to be driven somewhere, give me a call. Weedon I couldn't ask for better friend. You're the most stand up guy I know. And Tonio, I'll always remember a quote you gave me earlier this year when I was feeling down: "The who don't dream, never drink champagne." I'd also like to thank all my coaches over the years here, especially Mr. Dunford and Mr. Galajda for showing me that there's more to hockey than just winning. I would also like to thank Mr. Staunton for his support over the past years, not only towards the prefects but the whole school. You've done a great job and I'd like to wish you the best of luck in the years to come.

I still don't know if I could answer the question that I started with because St. Andrew's instills such a feeling that the only words I could use to describe it are: Quit ye like men, be strong.

I would first like to thank my parents for providing me with all the opportunities to succeed, no matter how many attempts (or schools). Thanks to both my parents for the encouragement to succeed and the freedom to choose my own path, especially to my father for allowing me to go to SAC for my final year. It has been an experience I won't soon forget. With that, I just thank SAC for being the place I always knew existed and where I wanted to be. After only being here one year, it managed to feel like a home for me, and it's a regret that I had only one year, but I'm grateful to have had the chance at all. It is a great school, and I would like to thank my teachers for only making it better. I would also like to thank Mr. Burke for being the voice of reason in difficult times at HTS. All in all, high school was interesting, but I am glad it's over.

With that out of the way, here are some memories: Rugby tour to Wales/Ireland '95, I will never forget the "Tractor" Billy story, The Farmer's Arms, and the P.A. announcement for Jeremy, Whistler '96, the Blackcomb chairlift, Big White '97, The Kamloops fart, Chinese laundry, Tremblant '98, 401B and some serious bad luck, Dominican '98, Room 4302, "Don't worry, I don't burn", the Disco, plus these miscellaneous memories: paint fights with Kelly, OAC Night and Grad '97 (who had the after party?), Summer Keg party (a little messy), cottage trips, "It's like a video game", Baneroff night life, Phil at Bayview - the top of Craigleith, Tony's class room, Father Bob run finishes (if I made it), "who's bra is that in the pool?", Jerry ruining every joke, Kelly - "Alright, alright, that's why I love those highschool girls", Sim's weekend from hell, Wardo's dance, Ski racing in kilts, Enzo's, the Evil Temptress, "you soaked me", intimate haircuts, turning 19 and the night before, WLU bars (Louies - one more reason not to go), Redneck bars in Kingston, sleeping through grad prank and so many others I must have forgotten.

My final year had been successful for me, and I truly believe it couldn't have been possible with out the help of my friends. Thank you to: Erik, Ben, Kelly, Price, Brook, Fordham and everybody else at SAC. Good luck to everyone where ever you may be and Goodbye.

It's been two years, and I don't know whether to shout disco or damn. Nothing is quite clear to me after this long, strange trip through a sea of psychedelic red and white. The light at the end of this tunnel, which at times seemed very dark, is within reach and all I need is a pat on the back or a kick in the ass and I'll be on my way. Cheers to all those within the community who in any way may have helped or even cared for me along the journey. Linds, keep hacking away. Mom, I know you care and that in itself means so much. Dad, you carry one hell of a big stick and I've always looked up to you and your way of dealing with things. I wouldn't go as far as to say that I'm "quitting ye like men", but don't worry, I'll be back in a little while with fame and manhood written all over me. To Haz, Ward, Rig, and my peoples in MTL (which I guess includes Rev), nobody knows how to have some good, clean fun like we do...In the words of the immortal Old Dirty Bastard, "We always gotta keep it fly!" These past two years at St. Andrews have been, without a doubt, two of my most memorable years and shall remain that way for the rest of my life. The bonds and friendships I have created throughout my stay will never be broken and have helped to make these past two years very enjoyable and meaningful to me. St. Andrews not only educated me in the classroom but in my physical and mental processes. All of these processes contribute to the inner strength of the individual and help us Andreans to live up to the schools motto, "Quit ye like men, be strong."

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank many people who have contributed greatly and significantly in helping me to achieve my goals and prepare for the next test. To all my teachers and advisors who made, what would have been a very confusing and hectic year, very clear and concise. They all stood beside me and guided me through any encountered obstacles, and to them I am truly grateful. The coaches, especially Mr. Dunford and Mr. Galajda, who helped me mature not only as a goaltender but as a young man. They truly influenced my hockey, and have made these past two years very successful, enjoyable and monumental. I will always remember them. Most importantly, I must thank my Parents and Grandparents, who gave me the opportunity of a lifetime, and if it weren't for them, none of this would have been possible. It is now a part of my life, and it shall remain with me always. Gratitude is defined as an appreciation for favours, and kindness. St. Andrews has been the ultimate favour bestowed upon me. Thanks to all my friends, new and old, who made these past two years a pleasure. Good luck to all of you in your endeavours.

Gratitude unlocks the fullness of life. It turns what we have into enough, and more. It turns denial into acceptance, chaos to order, confusion to clarity. It can turn a meal into a feast, a house into a home, a stranger into a friend. Gratitude makes sense of our past, brings peace for today, and creates a vision for tomorrow. - M. Beattie-

Five years ago I would never have imagined that this is how it would all end up. Over the years, St. Andrew's has altered me more than any other force in my life. I came to S.A.C a young boy with many ambitions and goals. At the end of my tour I can proudly say...well, never mind. How things have changed. I want to thank my Aunt Susan and Uncle Glenn, in particular, for sending me to S.A.C and for putting up with all the crap. Another thanks goes out to all the teachers who helped me through the years, Mr. Kimmerer, the Perriers, Mr. Bedard, and Mr. Paul Bedard (sort of). A special thanks goes out to Mr. Staunton for not making an example of me (yet). Good luck to Jeff and Jeff, Thanks to my cleaning lady, Nancy, for helping to keep me organized. Thanks to all my friends, Moose, Fu, Price tag, and Pumpkin, and the rest. This year has kicked ass thanks to you guys. Start collecting cable pieces because I plan to stay in touch.

A big thanks goes out to my mom for doing a great job for 17 years.

Do not go gently into that good night.
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Sayings: No lo creo, obvio, vamos por uno, not pasta again!!

Activities: TII Volleyball, 1st Smoking, 1st Skipping, MVP 1st Sleeping and NHL (National House League) member.

When I first walked into SAC I found a collection of ancient buildings; little did I know what was within. Now, I have learned many more things than just education. I leave here having broadened my horizons and learned many more values of life. The past times that I have spent here, both good and bad sometimes, will stay with me throughout my life and I will cherish each and every memory. Through all of this year, I couldn't have done it without my great teachers that help me to overcome the language barrier that would have normally kept me back. And with the support of my friends during the hard times they kept a smile on my face and a positive attitude in my actions always (and I also want to thank my friend Pollo for waking me up every morning).

Pero mas que nada quiero agradecer a mis papas que me apoyaron desde el primer dia y durante todo el año para que todo saliera adelante y aprendiera a valorar todas las cosas que me han sido posibles. Gracias, sin ustedes no hubiera podido llegar a donde estoy ahora.

Sayings: Sorry/Sim: Hey [Moodie, Fusco, Sim, Moose, Thomson, Ward] what are you doing right now?: Of course it is Fu: No sir, I was skiing: I swear, I was just there, I just want to limp to the finish line.

Activities: Head of Flavell, House Captain, First Skiing (4a, Captain 2a), First Rugby (2a, 1997 OFSAA Champions), First Football (Kinda), First Construction (2a, Founding member) Drum Major, Only surviving member of the 200 Club, MacHorse Terrorist.

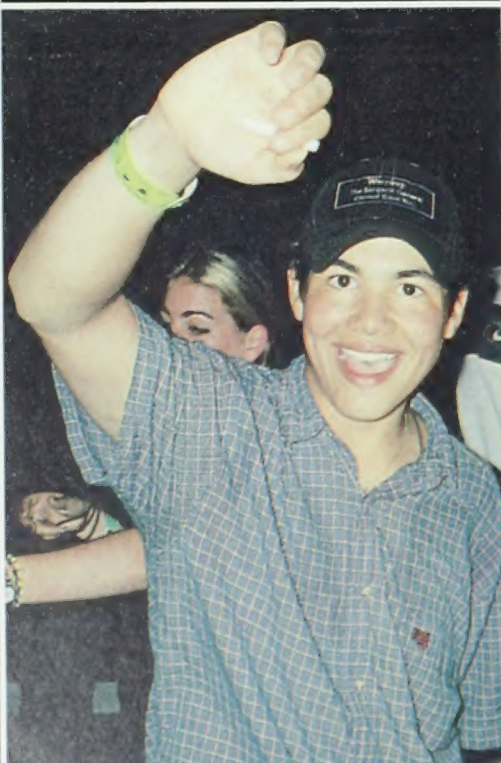

Wow, it's really over. 6 years. How many of you will I see again? Hopefully most. Sim, thanks, it was a blast. I don't know what I'll remember about you when I'm fifty, but I've got a pretty good idea that it's going to be a nightmare of you drop-kicking a door at my head. Ringo, you were always there, be it driving, or dragging my sorry ass home. Fu and Moose, you guys have got to go together. I left enough crap in your room, that if I ever want to remember you, I can just go back there. I'm sure next year's occupants won't find it all for a while anyway. Gooderham, thanks for the many rides down to Toronto (with stops at Pals and/or Sunoco for that ever important water). Oh yeah, watch out for that Damn Red Civic. Nigs, hope Tanya comes around one day (Or has she already??). To the Unknown Soldier, I don't know how you would ever get a hold of a SAC yearbook, but if you do, it will probably be mine (so if you're reading this, give me your yearbook back). Thanks for a great two years, and stay out of jail.

Thanks to my parents for everything they've done for me; Thanks to my brother for showing me what, and what not to do; Beyner, what is there to say? Thanks for putting up with me for longer than anyone else would, or could.

Thanks to Mr. Smith for his advice and humour over the years, and his efforts to make a new administration more bearable; to Mr. Scoular and Mr. Swan for the coaching and the teaching; to Mr. Wenk for the laughs, oh, and for the wenkite and wenkululus of course; and to Mr. Foy for being there, always.

As our graduating class moves on to University, we each have different goals and dreams. If some of us make it, Mr. Myrans' inheritants will be a little bit richer (just a little, he tells us), while others will go on to run this country. What ever happens, thanks to the school for the best six years of my relatively short life.

Thanks to the posse for making my stay here a good one. We had a lot of good times and you guys were the best! I owe a big debt of gratitude to those who put up with me in my classes and in the House. I guess it hasn't been easy but I am now happy to say I hope it was worth the effort. Thanks to those at home who supported me and gave encouragement. I appreciate the effort and commitment it took to keep me going. My experience at SAC has been a learning one. Hopefully, I can take what I learned and use it to follow in the future in order to work to success. Thanks for reminding me to try to do my best in all things. St. Andrew's has been a place full of opportunities and while perhaps I didn't avail myself of a lot of them, looking back on things, I can now appreciate what a special place it has been. I leave with a lot of good memories and great friends. For now, here's to the future whatever road I'll travel. For later, maybe I'll be back to pay my respect and regards. So long SAC!

Mr. & Mrs. Perrier Thanks for taking in this straggler of the street. You really made me feel like part of the house. Mr. Scoular You're one of the most intelligent people I've ever met. Thanks for teaching me to see through the eye. Me you teach good English. Nick Thanks for keeping me on track, most of the times. Even though I may not have had the training, you made me tough mentally. Finally, Mom & Dad When you sent me here I really didn't know what to expect. I knew that you sacrificed a lot and it meant a great deal for me to go here, so I went with the flow. Seven years later, I can say without hesitation that it was the best possible decision. I am forever indebted to you for all the love and support you've given me along the way. St. Andrew's has given me the best seven years of my life.

What is there to say? Here I am, about to leave this place I've fallen in love with. St. Andrew's and the people here have redefined who I am, and I can't imagine being happier with the end result that it's produced.

I'd like to thank Mr. Staunton for his trust and guidance, Mr. Smith for his heart of gold, Mr. Whitehead for his concern and advice, Mr. Scoular for his interest in me and his gift of theatrical vision, Mr. Kinney for his willingness to sit down with a smile and chat about anything, Mr. Cameron for his faith in me and the twinkle in his eye, Mr. Wenk for his patience and his ability to make Calculus class really entertaining, and Mr. Timms for brightening my day with a ready smile every time I walked into his class.

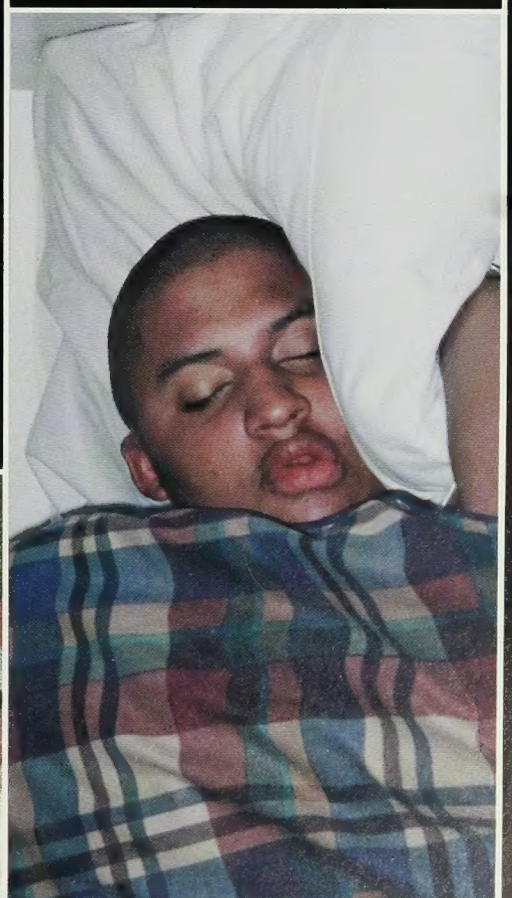

My gratitude also to Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Pilicci and Ms. Marsh for cheering me up every time I passed through the library doors, Ms. Kravchenko for being such a genuine person, Mr. Grenier for giving me the desire to pursue a second language, Mr. Paolini for making me realize the beauty of art, Mr. Kimmierer and Mr. Bedard for making Sifton a place of which I am proud, Mrs. Perrier and Mr. Foy for their quiet help and advice, Mike and Luigi over in the dining hall for a friendly pat on the back when I was most needing it, Mrs. Roncuidin, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Yonder, and Mrs. Coley in the health center for keeping me in one piece, Mrs. Osmond, Mrs. Barr, Mrs. Lamb, and Mrs. Richardson for all the work you did to keep my life running smoothly, Mr. Dawson for being himself, Mr. Jones and Mr. Marshall for pouring themselves into the tightest team I have ever been on, ever, Mr. Gartner for piquing my interest in skiing, and Mr. Swan and John Macmillan for being first rate coaches and leading by example. Anyone I might not have mentioned — a clock can't work without every gear, and SAC couldn't have run as it has without you.

Special thanks to Mr. Herder for his quiet love of the school; Mr. Roy as well — I will be talking to both of you quite often over the next few years, I'm sure.

Of course, I'd like to thank all my friends as well, but you are too numerous to mention individually. I'm not just talking about my classmates, either: all of you from the youngest right up. You know that your friendships have been what has made my world go around. All I can really say is that I'm not a great letter writer, but if you write me I promise I will write back.

Mom and Dad, a lot has happened since you first dropped me off at the front doors of Mae House, and not just with me. Know that I will always love and respect you both and thanks for being strong enough to let me find my own way to independence. Em have fun at Havergal. I hope you end up loving your school as much as I love mine. Houston, you're the best little brother in the world and I hope you make the choice to come here when you have the opportunity. Jennifer, I realize some things haven't changed too much in my time here and I'm glad you could come to my formal and see some of this place that has been my life for the past five years.

And to St. Andrew's itself: My Sword Shall Never Sleep.

It is difficult to sum up seven years of your life in one paragraph because SAC has been part of my life in so many ways: my home, my family, my friends, my school, my experiences. I remember coming to the school in grade seven. We were a small class of about 18, actually we were often described as the dumbest in SAC history. We had our problems with NARC, Craig Smith and Hardeep but those are always the memories you remember best. We said goodbye to Butcher, Craig and the Libyans and a new chapter began as we said hello to Will, Dubes, Weed, Tono, Scott, Kak, Fu, Max and Toretat. Grade 8 saw our class double in size and we were taught by the famous Andrean Robo. History and English class were always so much fun, especially before the teacher arrived. In ninth grade many surprises greeted us. Monty didn't come back but Max did and Johnny arrived. We became the smartest grade in the school and we were finally allowed to go to dances. Grade Ten was a great year as many of my friends joined me in Memorial House. I say this is the year I finally spent more time away from home than at home. I remember borrowing Brooke's small clothes to get back to school after Mayfest. Grade eleven saw me go to Nepal, the greatest single experience of my SAC career. I also made first soccer, hockey, and lacrosse. I vow to seek revenge on Patrique. Grade 12 was a flurry of hard work and great parties. The formal was a truly great night. English Lit was an experience: Genesis 38:9 pretty much sums the course up. I was elected a prefect at Prize Day along with seven other great guys. OAC has been challenging but fun. I look back at the grade sevens as they seem to get smaller every year and wish I could be in their shoes. Prefectship was worthwhile and very stressful because I am very unorganized. It surprises me how the lower school always bugs me for a dance while when I was in grade seven a lower school dance was unheard of. Times changed considerably this year. It was the beginning of a new era: a new headmaster and school without Tom. It has been a good seven years.

SAC is not for everyone, but it was for me, and I would like to thank my parents for putting up with me as well as my friends. I must thank the institution because it has provided me with so many experiences and opportunities that would have never existed otherwise.

My 4 years at Saint Andrew's College have been very eventful. I have enjoyed them thoroughly. I have enjoyed the boarding environment of Flavelle House during these 4 years and have made many acquaintances and friends over the period of time that I have been here. I feel that in this short period of time, I have matured greatly and met many new friends. I feel that I will be able to stay in touch with these friends for the rest of my life.

To my parents, I would have never been at this school without your help. Through the years, you have taught me many different things about life in general and how to deal with things. This has helped me to deal with the many stressful things that go on at this school. As well with this, many different study habits have come as well. This is one of the many attributes to my success at this school. In time, this will even help me to excel to even greater heights in university next year. Thanks for the help during the years.

To all the people at SAC whom I have come to know well, Thank you, PC especially. You have always been there to listen to my ideas and thoughts on my academic career. It has been interesting to see your insight onto my life. To CRK, SR, And HY, it has been fun talking to you about the many exploits and adventures that have gone on during my career at SAC. To AMF and AP, your guidance during the years has been very helpful, both in the house and academically. I have benefited greatly from the advice and pointers that you have given me. To Mr. Smith, it has been fun talking to you sometimes about computers and many other electronic contraptions of the like. To all the others who I knew, thanks for all the help and fun.

When I was in Primary One, I dreamed that I would graduate from high school one day. How quickly that "one day" arrives. Although I have been studying at SAC for only two years, I feel that the school has given me some unique experiences that I had not confronted before. First of all, SAC gives me a taste of what a boarding school feels like. Since I will also live in a residence in university, I think I will not have problems like homesickness anymore. Secondly, SAC teaches me how to become a man and survive. I have experienced stress and suffering through hours of homework, tests and exams. Sometimes I would fail to meet teachers' demands, but as Michael Jordan says in one of his commercials, "That is how I succeed".

There are a lot of people that I have to thank. Due to the limit of space, please forgive me if I left out your name. The first two people that I have to say "Thank you" to are obviously my parents. Mom, dad I couldn't be the Samuel Poon today without you two. Thanks you very much for all your support, advice, love, and kindness throughout the past eighteen years. I also have to thank all the teachers who taught me at SAC. Special thanks to Mr. Hiltz for (1) teaching me the essentials of professionalism, (2) providing great humor in class, (3) giving me a taste of university courses and (4) helping me with any Physics queries. Thanks also to Mr. Bedard and Mr. Kimmerer for making my life comfortable in Sifton House; Mr. Harper and Mr. Arril for giving me guidance at school and in university applications; Mr. Perrier for teaching me short-cuts to do math problems.

It's about time to thank my friends at SAC. Jeffrey Lo... you have taught me a lot of things in being a successful person. Hope you can succeed in the years to come also; Michael Wan... you have increased my general knowledge about computers and much other stuff. Remember, Friends-4-ever: S.K Wong... I'm certain you will be a scholar this year. Trust me: A.Kwan... thanks for teaching me how to retouch photos; Adrian Lee... I will beat you in table tennis one day; Paul Yip, Andrew Wong, Adrian Chan, Royce Lo, Josey Chang, Alan Lau, Mike Kerr, Barry Wu, Nelson Chan and others.

Finally, I wish everyone good luck in the future. Think hard, work hard and play hard.

Sayings: Get away from me you physco. Anyone try the wine? Doug you're a bastard. Leave me alone, we're not going out anymore. Hey is that stairmaster back there.

Activities: 1st Volleyball(2a.), 2nd Soccer, 2nd Alpine Skiing, 1st Alpine Skiing(2a.) 1st Lacrosse(2a.). Founder of Pricy Common Room. Observer of the P.T.S., proud member of the Pre-Ski-Kilt-Men.

I really don't know where to start. I guess it all began in grade 11, my first year here. I didn't have many friends... except maybe the bottle. But seriously, it has been a great experience here at SAC. I made friends here that I am sure I will keep for the rest of my life. And the memories of the original OLD BREED nights always come rushing back when I think of my time here. Also that annoying ringing in my head from a certain stapler that met my forehead up close and personal.

I believe that I will only remember the good things that happened to me when I was here, and I am sure that those memories will make me happy on all of those rainy days.

Grad trip was, to say the least HAZY, and it showed a lot of us that even though we were in a different country, we can still up hold the SAC tradition of fine young gentlemen, who drink too much and don't care what the women think about us.

I would like to thank all of my teachers and coaches for the knowledge they have shared with me, and I hope that I will be able to put it all to good use.

And so this is my short and sweet grad comment that is a small attempt in trying to thank the school for turning me into the man I am today.

I will never forget my first night at SAC. It's not everyone that can claim to have roomed with Sim, Justin, and Torcat at the same time. I remember all sorts of really weird stuff that happened in that room, from Mr. Hanson having dirty underwear thrown at his head, constant beatings on usual prized friends, to Justin ramming the drawers—but that's not fitting for the yearbook. Six years ago I came to SAC a little boy, not much promise, and now I leave a Prefect, Head of House, and Pipe Major; and I can't but help being grateful to this place for being there as I was growing up, for showing me how to live. Oh, a little detail: I was NOT here in grade nine, it's just seemed that way, people just assumed that. Aside from that little stint, I've been pretty much here. I haven't been in Mexico for a while (6 months), but I am home. My only surprise is that Mr. Staunton spends more time in Mexico than I do.

I can't see myself walking out here for the last time. I think it's the first time I've bought a one-way ticket to Mexico. I'll miss this place, but most of all its memorable characters: Mr. Smith's announcements and just general being, his support for the Pipes and Drums; Mr. Foy's guidance and help in matters both Prefect, and Pipes and Drums; Mr. Kinney, thank you for the advice; Mr. and Mrs. Perrier running Memorial House in a great fashion and helping me whenever I needed it.

I will miss friends and companions I've made here, Memorial Heads of House '98-'99 look after the house well, please; the '98-'99 Prefects, we hand over to you the school in a great state, I'm sure with the quality you have you can make it even better. Meuser thanks for the leadership; Evans, for the help; Max, you can't lie, we did have fun; Dale, 3 release; Ferris I'll miss Shoots and Ladders and running P&D; Mesina and Fusco, the inseparable duo (Sarah trio?), thanks for everything; Barney, I'll miss those trips in the truck; Price, good luck. Weedon grow up SOON, quit whining. Lowes, yes, you do have to come to Mexico, bring J, (and preferably the battle wagon as well.) J, it's been a great year, it's been lots of fun (when we weren't doing HC stuff), bring Lowes to Mexico, Willa, Weena, and Sim; if I need to say anything here, then it's nothing but I'll see you around. I'll visit. I think I should thank my parents for letting me choose my way at such an early age. The final, most lasting memory I will ever have of SAC is one of three, singing the Dorset Carol, playing Amazing Grace in the Carol Service, or playing Highland Cathedral for the Cameron family. I leave with no regrets.

Screw you all that think I'm going to be just a cook.

Six years ago I came to SAC to broaden my education and meet new people from across the globe. Instead I befriended the biggest bunch of miscreants and trouble makers that have walked the earth. God, I love being an Andean.

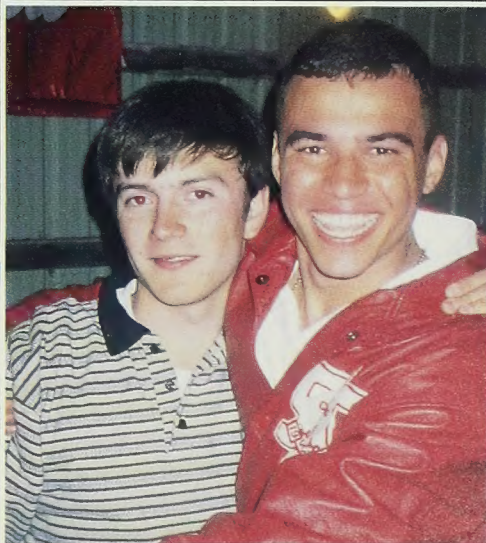

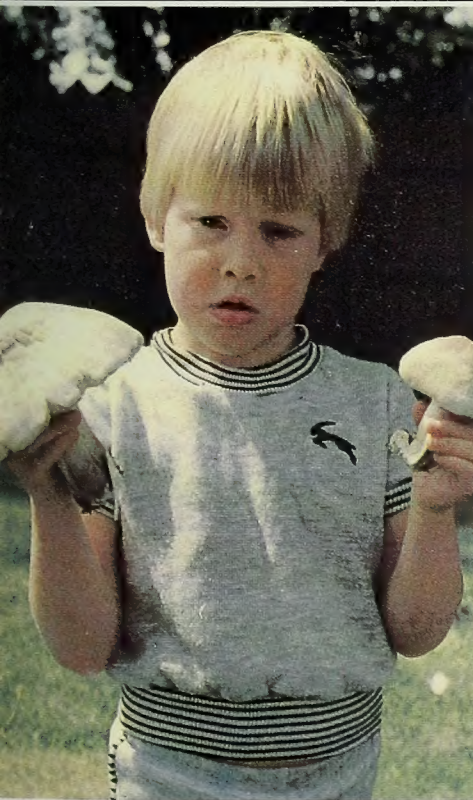

In all honesty though these past six years have been memorable. From the time I came in grade eight to also the times of the great raids. Ever since I arrived here I considered SAC my new home. All the students here I have considered as my new family and I will truly miss all the good time me and my mates shared. It's funny but I never thought that I would ever graduate from such a fine place. Hell, I never thought I would stick around to even find out. But I'm glad I did. What I really want to do is thank all those who have stuck by me over the years and have refused to see me fail.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrier: Thank you for being there during the hardest times of my life. I appreciate all the love and support that you have shown me over the years. Thank you for your trust in me as a senior and as an Andean. I couldn't have survived without you. Mr. Cameron: You have been my football coach for three years and my rugby coach for two. I am happy to say that I am proud to have been coached by you. Thank you for giving me the opportunities as an athlete to shine. I hope football wins it all next year. You have certainly deserved it.

Mr. Swan and John Macmillan: Even though I never had the chance to play for first rugby this year, I am still happy for the efforts you have taken in giving everyone the chance to play. I also thank you for giving me the opportunity to play for first last year as it was one of my most memorable seasons ever. From that I got what I have been dying to get ever since I came here. Leather. To me it still says number one.

Mrs. Robson: I know, I know I've been a difficulty tutee. I just want to say thank you for being so patient with me and I appreciate all that you have taught me in the little time that we had. Trust me I will use that knowledge next year. Thank you.

Mom and Dad: Thanks for footin the bill. You gave me the best opportunity a son can have and I love you both. If there is anyone that I have forgot to mention, I apologize and thank you. Now to all my graduating buds, you guys know who you are. Thanks for the memories boys.

Mr. Scoular, I wish I could have learned more from you; I wish I had taken advantage of you tutelage, that's one of my big regrets. Mr. Staunton, thanks for listening to my endless problems, thanks for solving so many of them, thanks for making my life easier and for just laughing off my little faults; I'm right about the notes thing. Mr. Myrans, thanks for giving me my direction and my passion for what I've set out to do; I'll always regret that I could have learned more. Mr. Smith, what can I say, you're the man; right from the get go you sheltered me from all those horrible things like conformity, the system and evil admissions officers; thanks for being in my corner even when I got myself into trouble, for bending the rules sometimes and for that no nonsense way of thinking I admire so much; I'll miss you a lot and hope I can someday live up in my small way to your size 13 example.

Mom and Dad, That little boy will someday make you proud; I know what I'm doing. No matter how far away my stubbornness takes me, remember that wherever you guys are, that's home. Consider it an investment in your retirement and I don't do it despite you. Sorry for all the grief and thanks for all the sacrifices. I owe all this to you, even if I sometimes decided to go against your better judgement. Love you.

Alas, my time is up. Its time to pack up my unforgettable memories and move on to a new strange land call reality aka university. sigh Leaving SAC is really going to bring tears to my eyes (trust me, I know).

Afterall, SAC is where I grew up and learned my ways, some ways better than others. (ain't that right, co-pilot) One of the most important things I have gained from SAC is friendship. I don't think one can have better friendships elsewhere. Tonio: well, I don't think I need to say much. Wouldn't want anyone to mistaken us as couple of lovers, would we? Pansy Ass: wow, we've been through some pretty hard times together, maybe a bit too hard...nahh. Anyways, I will always have a special place in my heart for you. Hope to see you soon. Thumper: I am going to miss you sooooo much!! We definitely had some great times together. It always puts smile on my face everytime when I think of them, I think I am cursed...damn you co-pilot!! Dicky Lai: yo, whats up my eternal slave. I will see you in the real world my friend, then we will see who is the better man. Maxi: my man, we sure had some great laughs together. You are the only one who has the exact same sense of humour as I do. I am going miss that a lot. But no worries, I will see you in hell. One last thing, I want thank my parents for supporting me throughout the years. Karen, I owe you my soul. I love you. (doh, I said the four letter word!) Lawrence, thanks for the hot tips throughout my difficult times, sometimes they work and sometimes they just don't. Love you all!

The time in highschool flew by fast although there were many things that were not fun at all. (for example: school). The loads of work and stresses we Andreans have to carry on our backs are tremendous. However, I will say these days were some experience that I will never forget and treasure as some great memories. Thank you to all the people and friends I have here. Thank you to all the teachers for giving me chances over and over again. Thank you to my mother for sending me here. You guys are great. Be proud to be an Andrean. Peace.

Now just for the sake of some people...here you go.....

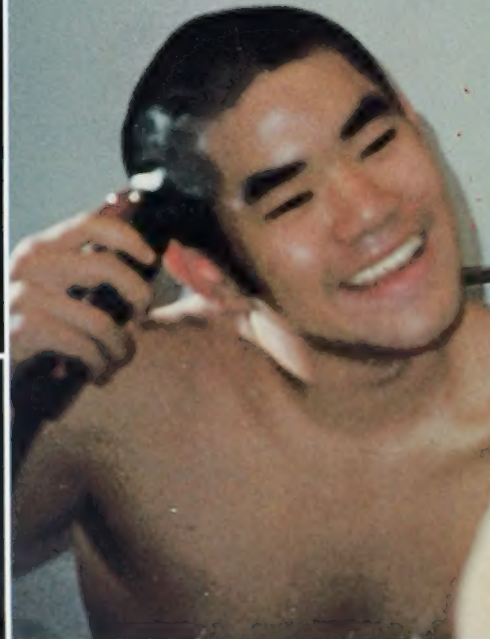

Please fill in your proper or best answers:

First of all, special thanks to (insert your name here) for being such a tremendous (family member/teacher/friend/), without your (assistance/persistence/annoyance), I would not have made it. Second to anyone who had done (a lot of nice things/ something/ nothing) for me, you have really changed me from a (moron/geek/idiot) to an (exuberant/intelligent/open-minded) young man. As I move on in my life, I will always remember you and your kindness. Most importantly, good luck with your (great/ okay / sad) life or other things.

(Respectively/ Regretfully) yours,

I was a very scared and tentative kid when I left India for Canada. I didn't want to come to SAC. I didn't want to leave my family and friends back home. However, that drastic move proved to be the most important one of my life (you were right dad, as always). I still remember, the very first person I met at SAC was Mr. Smith and he took me around the school and eventually introduced me to my roommate, Zeek. Today, Zeek is one of my best friends. Here, I have made invaluable friends, friends that were always there for me. I would like to thank Dougall, Zeek and Devin for being great friends. I can't possibly list out all the good times I've had at SAC but I'd like to thank the following people for being such a major part of those good times.

Doug, we've shared some priceless times together. We've had our ups and downs but in the end, we've always come through smiling. We've had some very healthy rivalries on and of the playing field ever since we've known each other. Thanks for always keeping me on my toes. Best of luck next year in England. I'll never forget you. Zeek, thanks for being the numt you are. You're the very first guy I knew at SAC and you will always have a special place in my heart. Dev, even though I've only known you for a year, I feel like I've known you forever. I'll never forget our long trips to Gerrard and those Hindi music jam sessions and those late night Hindi movies. You were always a support and a great Asst. Captain.

Mr. Cameron, if it weren't for your kindness, trust, care and advice, I would never be the man I am today. You have, in your own unique way, shown me that there is much more to life than squash (is that really possible?) and you have helped me give some direction to my life. You were always there when I had problems, whether they had to do with academics, sports or just life in general. You have taught me, through personal experience, that no matter how bad you are feeling, always smile. You have been a very important part of my SAC life and I could never thank you enough.

Mr. Foy accepted me into his house in grade 12. Ever since, the quality of my life at SAC has risen. Thank you for all the help and advice you have instilled in me. I have never seen a cooler, calmer person who gets the job done like you before. You have had a very positive influence on me. You have softly yet sternly pointed out my weaknesses and corrected me when I was wrong and have always applauded my strengths and encouraged me throughout the way.

Mom, long distances didn't allow you to be there with me physically. However, you were always there in heart and spirit. Thank you for showing me the right way and for all the support you have given me. Farhana, thank you for being the strict, loveable and guiding sister you have always been. When the going was tough, you helped me get tough and going. Thanks for keeping me on my toes. Lastly, I would like to thank my father for making all this happen. I may not say this often or at all dad but I love you. Thanks for "breaking your back" to send me to this school for the most amazing experience of my life. I'm ready to take the next big step. Wish me luck.

Mom & Dad - without your sacrifices and ability to put up with me sometimes, I'd still be going through the motions. I do appreciate your help in certain situations with me and for putting me through SAC.

Mr. Galajda - a trainer, coach, teacher, friend, neighbour, and someone to look up to, you took the time to challenge me even when I was "just a punk."

Mr. Dunford - I learned how to win, to fight through adversity, and skills that are needed at the next level.

Brennaugh, Reid - you didn't let me quit hockey, and you made me come back to SAC. And thanks for all the beatings, maybe there were some good intentions in there somewhere.

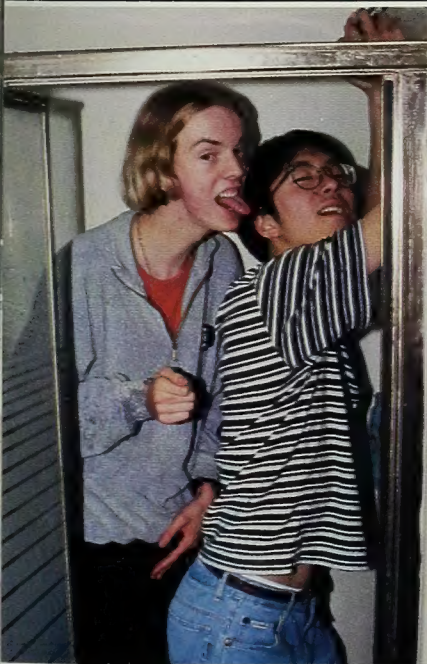

Manny - an excellent role model, and captain, you allowed me to learn from my mistakes after you had provided the perfect environment for some good ones.

All My Buddies - great times, a lot of laughs (bus trips, tourneys, Lily's, Gardner's), MUST spread OLD SCHOOL ways. Don't lose touch too many great times Kristen - thanks for supporting me, helping me, and being a good friend.

First of all, I must thank my most beloved parents who have been kind enough to support me to be educated at SAC. I know they work hard everyday in order to pay for my education. I thank them for their understanding and nourishment; and most importantly, for their love and support.

Days are passing by so quickly; it's hard to believe that I am only a month away before I have to leave SAC and head on to the next stage of my life. I will never forget the years when I was at SAC; it's a part of my memory that will stay with me until I die. I will never forget all the teachers who helped me to prepare for my future and my studies. SAC has transformed me into a better person and prepared me for my entry into the next stage of my life. I will never forget what SAC has done for me and will always remember the good memories I have here.

It's always hard to say goodbye to friends and teachers when you leave a school. SAC has been like a big family for me; every member of the community has become a part of life. I will never forget the friends at SAC; our friendship will last forever.

I would like to thank a few very special people in my life during the years at SAC. 716, you've brightened up my life and you will always be very special in my heart; it's almost a year already, hopefully there will be countless number of years to come for us to celebrate. 915 H, thanks for being my roommate for such a long time. I have been in St. Andrew for two years, but I have quickly adapted to this wonderful Society. This school has contributed to me as much as I have contributed to it. I have learned to be more independent and I am capable of stepping into the real world. Academically, I don't think this school can be ignored, because I have really learned so much. I have also learned so much from living in the school, aspects of life and survival. I would like to thank all the Masters and friends for making the past two crucial years of my life as enjoyable. The road of St. Andrew's has come to an end, but it is also the beginning of a whole new journey. St. Andrew's has provided me preparation for this New World that I am about to discover. I want to thank Mr. Smith for passing onto me his superb knowledge and humor. Mr. Foy has been my housemaster. He is surely like a father figure to me and gives me all the support and advice in all aspects of life. It was only possible to encounter my friends through entering Saint Andrew's. They are truly real friends and people I would never forget for the rest of my life. It would only be right that I thank my dad, mom, aunt, uncle, and my two cousins for their endless support throughout the years.

It's time to go big. Let me see what I can do. Firsts, Seconds, Thirds... Play ya fingers for it. Chill buddy, You're huge. Was that frontside or backside? I'm standing here in my boxers. Fordham, you are the ultimate connoisseur. Note: Any of these may be delivered in an incoherent mumble.

I've spent 7 years- more than a third of my life- here at S.A.C. And now my S.A.C. experience is coming to an end. Along the way, I have filled my brain with numerous bits of academic knowledge but it is the life skills that I take away from S.A.C. which will be my most valuable. At S.A.C. I learned the value of hard work, self-esteem, teamwork, and friendship. To my friends, I give thanks. Fordham, thanks for all those weekends up at Blue, the big air, your mischievous smile, and your huge McTwists. I take some of my best memories away from Collingwood. Charlie, we've only known each other for two years but feels like seven. Maybe it's because we have shared the equivalent of seven years of laughs. Keep on laughing and keep on rocking the boat. Haz and the family, thank you for everything: Trips to Vermont and Tremblant, a home away from home, weekends at the cottage, and a countless number of meals (good ones!). The list goes on. Chris, you are like a brother to me. Dan and the family, thank you for the Jay games, weekends at the boat, an open house and so many other things (there just isn't enough room). Dan, you're a born fighter and I know you can fight through any challenge. I have faith in you. Don't hesitate to call when you want to talk. S.A.C. prides itself upon producing the all-around citizen but I must give credit first and foremost to my family and supporting cast. They have had the biggest impact in my life on a daily basis. Mom and Dad, thank you for sacrificing just about everything so that Chris and I may have the opportunities that you didn't. Thanks also go to Grandma G., Grandma W., Arlene, Tony, and Mo. Thank you to those teachers who inspired me: Mr. Walden, Mr. Timms, Mr. Kinney, and Mr. Galajda. Thanks, Mr. Josselyn for making my last year of basketball at S.A.C. the best ever. You are and will continue to be a winning coach because you relate to your players as people first, and in turn, your players relate to you. To all the grads, I wish you the best in your future endeavours, especially, Rich, Puffy, Doug, Brook, Ferris, Torri, Moose, Mercer, Moodie, Fu, and Sim.

The past six years I could not trade for anything. SAC has given me a chance to improve myself in every way, whether it be academics, community service, sports commitments, friendships, or responsibility. The teachers and the students in our community helped me to progress every aspect in my life and have prepared me for the world that lies ahead of me.

Many of the teachers and coaches have been a very positive influence on my career at SAC and I would like to thank them. Mr. Morford & Mr. Galajda, you have made me part of two very successful hockey families and I want to thank you for that. Mr. Walden you have always made my least favourite course one of the most enjoyable. Mr. Van, I have enjoyed the pleasure of your coaching on tour to Scotland, New Brunswick, and Standstead. Mr. Smith, your presence at school has always uplifted me and made me proud to be an Andrean.

The friends made in the Andrean community are ones that will last a lifetime. Perrier & Tonio you guys were always quick to say something, but always true friends and stood by me. Malloy I've known you since kindergarten, we are graduating together and we will be at school with each other next year. Lowes, you have always been my true friend, thanks for always being there and don't forget "Do what you feel is real" GD.

My final thanks go to my family: Melissa, Samantha, Nicholas, Mum & Dad. Nick you are the greatest and always a laugh, you have more years without your big brother, live it to the fullest. Mum & Dad, thanks for giving me the opportunity to enjoy SAC and supporting me through it for the past six years.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT...

you think you are beaten, you are;
you think you dare not, you don't;
you think you'd like to win but can't it's almost a 'cinch' you won't;
you think you'll lose, you've lost, or out in the world you'll find success begins in a fellow's will.

Arriving at SAC is tough, leaving even tougher. On my first day, I was left in an environment knowing only two people; now, with the last day approaching, I know everybody. I will move away from a community that is as close as it could ever be and part from friends that will remain friends for the rest of my life. The whole Andrean experience is centered around the people you live with, so how could I justify using this space for anything else than thanking the people who have given me such a great adventure during the last six years.

My gratitude goes to the teaching staff, the kitchen staff, the nurses, the custodians, and any other members of the SAC staff. Where would we be without your hard work and dedication? I would like to thank Mr. Myrans. Although I have only been able to enjoy your classes for one year, your guidance in History and the Social Sciences has been invaluable and has influenced me to pursue the understanding of the secrets of our societies. Mr. Timms, your course has been as valuable as any one I have ever taken. I hope this grad comment is short and sharp.

Nothing was ever more important to me than the guys in my grade. Thanks for making this graduating class one of the most famous, infamous, spectacular, and exciting classes ever.

Amal, keep up your spirit and pursue whatever your heart tells you to. I know that one day you will rule the world.

Fusco, remember that "soccer is a simple game: 22 players play against each other and in the end Germans always win." -Gary Lincker

Andrew, I have always considered you the type of guy this school needs. It seems that over the years you have done it all, enough said.

Mascott, I hope you understand the influence our first conversation has had on me. If not, now you do. Without you, I wouldn't have tried as many things as I did.

Greg, I think that most of what I wanted to say to you, I have already said. Why I deserved to be your roommate is still a mystery, and it is hard to imagine how boarding could have been any better.

Now, all my cards are open on the table, and nothing is left to say, except of course, the most important thing of all.

To the Woodworth family, thanks for being there whenever I needed support.

Alex, you've always had the tough job of trying things first, and I have no means of thanking you for guiding me through life and for being the person I always have and always will look up to.

Mum and Dad, you mean everything to me and I feel incapable of expressing how much your support means to me. I love you both.

Mamama, without you I wouldn't be here. My thoughts will always be with you in memory.

If I may mention one thing about myself, it should be this: I put a lot of effort into the activities I have tried. Often I succeeded, and often I failed, and I apologize to the people I have disappointed. From everything, I took with me the experience.

I need to move on but shall never forget.

The S.A.C. experience is the most unique of its kind, and it ultimately prepares the student for life. Six years ago, I thought I would never see the day where I would be writing a grad comment. Many of life's important lessons and experiences were learned here. This school has transformed me into a man. I am grateful to have been part of this fine institution.

I would like to thank Mr. Cameron for being an excellent Football coach, and making me a better player. I will always use the SILVER acronym in my mind both on and off the field. To the Grads of '98: Thanks for all the experiences and I hope you get to wherever you want to go. Keep in touch!

Last but definitely not least, I would especially like to thank my parents, Don and Nicole, who have sacrificed the world for me and who have given me the opportunity of a lifetime to attend this school. I am forever indebted to you both. Ashley, thanks for being my little sister. You are the best role model anybody could have. Good luck with Prefectship next year at Havergal.

On Prize-Day, I will leave the gates of Saint Andrew's as an old-boy. The memories of S.A.C. will never fade and the reflection of my ring will show the world how proud I am to be an Andrean.

Two years ago, I could not wait for each school year to come to an end. I knew I was going to come back to SAC anyway. However, as this last school year approaches with a deadly speed, I could not help but feel that time is passing by much too fast. I didn't want the term to end so soon.

I'm truly grateful to my parents for giving me this special opportunity to learn, to grow, to be independent. Thank you for believing in me. I would like to show my gratitude and respect to the teachers and faculty of St. Andrew's College. Special thanks to Mr. P. When I look back years in the future I'll always have something to reminisce about, once the experiences of the past three years were ones of a lifetime.

I would like to give thanks to the SAC institution, firstly, for taking away my social life, and secondly, for giving me a mass amount of work to get me organized.

Additional thanks goes to the following individuals who made my SAC life extra special:

THE EVENTS

IN REVIEW

CAROL SERVICE

Ben Hew

The Carol Service is a celebrated event because it is one of the few times the entire student body unites, and performs in front of the rest of the community.

The annual Carol Service, held at St. Paul's Church, is a celebrated event at the College. It is one of the few occasions (the other being the Cadet Inspection) during the school year where the entire student body participates in a rehearsed performance. In keeping with tradition, the College out-performed last year's service with a broad range of musical presentations. It is remarkable how Mr. Clements manages to keep the service under two hours with the contributions of the choir and all the various soloists and ensembles.

The service began with the wonderful organ preludes by Mr. Foy and was a success all throughout till the last note was sung of "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Mr. Venk led the choir again this year and they performed time-honoured Christmas carols such as "Carol of the Bells" and "A Merry Christmas." Our soloists this year, were Mark Andrew Scott, Max Woods, and Ross Lin, each performing in his musical proficiency, song, saxophone and violin, respectively. The music department did a great deal of preparation (with Mr. McGee as Band Director) in order to provide us with the performances of both a Brass and Woodwind Ensemble, as well as a Flute Quartet and a Saxophone Quartet.

We must not forget the student body, who rendered more than 10 carols with great strength and vigour. Some carols include: "O Come All ye Faithful," "Wassail," and "On Christmas Eve." Nearing the end of the service, Mr. Clements stepped up to the podium and conducted over 450 young male voices to the sacred "Amazing Grace" and "Dorset Carol." This was a fitting climax since it embodied so much of the St. Andrew's College spirit. That is, all of the students, no matter what age, race, or place of origin, can come together and sing in unison.

Expansion Week

Antonio Riva Palacio

Expansion week is one of the many extra-curricular activities that make SAC such a great place; it is also something I will never forget.

S.A.C. EVENT

Expansion week changed this year. The foreign trips were exchanged for more local academic projects such as the grade 9 Ottawa trip. Expansion Week is one of the many extra-curricular activities that make SAC such a great place; it is also something I will never forget.

The first time I encountered Expansion Week was in grade 8; everyone that was not in the choir, and in grade 8, went to Norval. I had only been in Canada for two months, this camp helped me get to know the people that I have lived with for the past six years; people that otherwise, I would have never talked to.

The community service projects, Scott Mission, Arc Industries, and raking leaves, are compulsory for grade 10. I raked leaves in way too many trails, for a too chilly autumn week. Somehow, I had fun in doing it. Again, raking leaves is not something a Mexican grows up doing, so I learned how to rake leaves but I also worked alongside friends I did not know.

I went on a foreign trip to Belize, in grade 11. I am sorry I will never go on a trip like that again. It might sound cliched, but if everything we learn, we learned in the classroom, we'd be boring people.

I agree with the Expansion Week ideal. I believe that students should have a week to work, a week to have fun outside of school. St. Andrew's strives to create the all-around individual, the man that excels in academics, sports, arts, the man that excels in life.

Expansion Week is one way that St. Andrew's approaches that goal. It provides an environment in which students, who do not normally excel in school, may do so outside of the gates. The only drawback for this new Expansion Week program is the lack of trips to other countries. I traveled from Mexico to Canada and I am not the same person. I believe that a trip should be included; I think it will. Travel is an experience in itself. It should not be frowned at.

FOCUS

Ben Rogers

This year with five bands, several classical concerts and choral presentations and an incredible twenty plays, there was more to see than ever before.

Every year, St Andrew's manages to fit more and more into the three days of Focus. Certainly this year with five bands, several classical concerts and choral presentations and an incredible twenty plays, there was more to see than ever before.

This year, not only were there several types of plays: comedy, drama even documentary, they were performed on several very different stages: from the Ketchum Auditorium and the Science Lecture Hall to the Sifton House Basement, the Infirmary and even the day boy washroom. A new location this year was the Focus Festival Tent. Two plays were performed in the tent as well as the bizarre, outrageous and miraculous Carnival Diablo.

The Cabaret was as good as ever with the talent of Coco Love Alcorn, Krell Rayon, Kurt Swinghammer and David Ramsden. This year's host was Scott McLelland of Carnival Diablo fame. Many students showed their talents with musical performances and other acts.

As well as the unlimited number of performances, Focus encompasses all forms of art, as well as those that cannot be performed. The visual arts exhibit displayed over one hundred excellent works and some incredible pieces from the OAC art class. The reading series had a new look this year with "Reading in the Round" thanks to the creativity of Mrs. Robson.

All of the actors, artists, musicians and the technical and production teams put in an immeasurable effort to make Focus '98 the best ever.

The Grad Trip

Richard Lai

12 Graduates went on a remarkable trip to the Dominican Republic during the second half of the March Break and had an experience of a lifetime.

S.A.C. EVENT

This year's march break was very eventful for 12 very fortunate OAC students. These few students spent the second half of their march break at the Decameron ALL INCLUSIVE resort in the Dominican Republic. This trip had everything from first night rendezvous under the bridge, to German wrankerbars by the disco bar, and everything in between.

The Decameron resort was a beautiful place where there was always something to do:

You could either chill by the pool and watch the beautiful tourists do two lengths of the pool or go down to the beach and bargain with the beach vendors. Bargaining with the beach vendors was so simple in fact that you could easily say 6 for $30 and they would gladly take your money and run. Because this resort was all inclusive there were constantly games being played all around the resort; for example without really trying you could easily find games such as boat races.

The greatest thing about the Decameron trip was you could go there and be anything you wanted. You could be a German prostitute just trying to do the YMCA, or a professional wind surfer (watch out, the sails break easily), you could also pretend your body was a piece of meat and see how long it would take to cook in the sun, you could be a 17 1/2 year old teenager if that's what tickles your fancy, or best of all you could be as pretentious as you want (whatever the hell that means). Not only could you be whatever you wanted but you could also do whatever you wanted. If you ask anyone who went on the trip they would all say the same thing Decameron is the bomb; so here are a few tips for anyone who plans on going to the Decameron resort any time soon:

- Never let a girl get your drink for you... unless you are trying to forget some personal problems
- Don't play your music too loud, the guards with shotguns don't like it

- Always try to get room 4302 for two reasons, it's the best room in the resort and that's where the party's at.

H.M.S. Pinafore

Iain Rogers

Combine the enthusiasm and energy of the cast and crew and accompany it with a Gilbert and Sullivan musical score and you have a musical masterpiece.

The St. Andrew's College Musical "H.M.S. Pinafore" set sail this year under the capable guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Clements. The musical duo managed to turn out yet another SAC musical success, a wondrous rendition of a Gilbert and Sullivan classic. The original "H.M.S. Pinafore" is one of the longest musicals ever written, yet this shortened version did not fail to pack a punch. "H.M.S. Pinafore" is about sailors and captains, love affairs and improper relationships, pompous admirals and their hordes of relatives, and finally a twist of the plot that you would never have expected. Throw that in with the enthusiasm of the cast and crew and accompany it with a Gilbert and Sullivan musical score and you have a musical masterpiece.

The audience was as much a part of this musical as anything else. If they weren't bopping their heads or humming along to the more well known tunes they were laughing at the jokes and the antics of Mathieu Soulie as Dick Deadeye and those of the rest of the sailors. If they weren't chuckling at Andrew Camargo as Sir Joseph Porthos trying to extricate one of the hat feathers from his face while remaining pompous and aloof when they were guffawing as some of the marines were running around on stage doing things that perhaps they weren't supposed to be doing. If they didn't enjoy this musical then they must have been unconscious.

What made this show special was an interesting viewpoint -- the show was set against the backdrop of the Canadian houses of parliament, (thanks to Mr. Kimmerer for that one). Highlights included the stellar performances of Mark Andrew Scott as Ralph Rackstraw and Melissa Heaver as Buttercup. Mathieu Soulie's performance cannot be forgotten, neither can that of the orchestra.

The actors and musical talent could not have had more fun doing this musical. Focus all of this energy upon the final goal and the musical will be a success. Mr. and Mrs. Clements were up to this task and were assisted by Giles Makins. Jason Hammond put his theatre experience to good use as he called the shots as stage manager and first time lighting designer Iain Myrans shed light on the whole situation.

Everything came together at the end to produce a rather showy, enjoyable experience. Everybody who worked on this production deserves recognition for their contribution, cast, orchestra and crew alike.

HOMECOMING

Adrian Chan

Although the results were a bit disappointing, everyone tried his best to put together a good performance.

Homecoming is one of the greatest and most enjoyable events in the Fall Term. This year 12 of our sports teams played against UCC, in which we won 2, tied 2, and lost the rest.

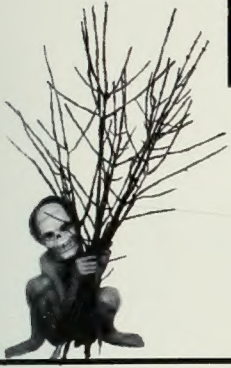

Although the results were a bit disappointing, everyone tried his best to put together a good performance. In most of the games, we came very close to winning but only lacked the luck that we needed.

Unfortunately, all our First Teams were defeated: First Soccer conceded a goal late in the game and lost by a score of 5-4, First Football lost by a score of 18-10, and First Volleyball were also defeated 3-1. The Under 16 teams seemed to stand out among the other teams. Our only victories of the day came from them; Under 16 Soccer defeated UCC 2-0, and Under 16 Volleyball also won by a score of 3-2.

Besides sports games, lots of other activities were going on. At lunch, we had a barbecue in front of the Athletic Building, where several of our fellow students provided music. Parents that came to support our sports teams had fun too. In the evening, a dance was held and a lot of people from the Upper School attended it. This year the theme of our T-shirt was "Smurfs" and certainly players from UCC were irritated by the look of them.

MACBETH

Gregory Meuser

"Double, double, toil and trouble, Fire burn and cauldron bubble."

If you were looking for a light-hearted comedy, you'd have to look someplace else. This year's production of Macbeth, directed by William Coular, would best be described as raw.

The emphasis in this show was put on impact. Blinding pyrotechnics, clashing broadswords and a hanging in full view of the audience were some to the show's most stunning visuals.

This roughness did not dictate to speech of the characters, however. Emphasis was placed on clarity of expression which made the plot clear even to those who have difficulty understanding Shakespearean dialogue.

Two additional scenes conceived by Mr. Scoular added continuity and drama to this production of Macbeth. The coronation of Macbeth at Scone was masterfully staged - and not a word was spoken in the scene. Lady Macbeth's suicide in which she sings a soulful dirge, helped the audience to understand the tumult Lady Macbeth experiences.

Gregory Meuser, in his final year at SAC, played Macbeth, showing a darker side to his acting than he had ever displayed before.

Tara Maria Manuel, a professional actress originally from Newfoundland and now residing in Toronto, was a hauntingly beautiful and strong Lady Macbeth who managed to elicit pathos in the audience despite her character's horrible deeds.

Andrew Camargo played a staid and solid Banquo, and Mark Gooderham, a returning actor, was a strong and righteous Macduff.

And yes, the curse of Macbeth materialized through two mishaps during rehearsal. Greg got slashed in the head by a broadsword during a fight scene, and Steve Amell (Malcolm) fell off the top platform of the two-story set onto the stairs below. Luckily neither injury was serious. However, it is said that the curse comes in threes and the third manifestation has not occurred...yet.

The Macpherson Tournament

Adrian Chan

Congratulations to coaches Mr. Dunford and Mr. Galajda, and all the guys in First Hockey who went undefeated and won Macpherson Tournament '98.

S.A.C. EVENT

The MacPherson Tournament is one of the greatest yearly events at St. Andrew's. It is a hockey tournament in which our school team competes with other schools. Once a year all of us go to the arena to watch the Friday night game and support our team.

On Friday January 30th, people were very excited about the game against Nichols. A Pep assembly was held after school to cheer for our team and to introduce the players of the team. This year our team was stronger than ever and everyone was anticipating a great game between our team and Nichols. We dressed in red and white to show our support for our hockey team. Some people painted their faces and dyed their hair red.

The game was held in the evening in the arena next to our school. In the arena, every part of the stand was red in colour, and there was a lot of noise from the crowd. But the crowd was silent for a moment when Nichols took the lead early in the first period. Then our team fought back. The whole arena erupted with noise when our team equalised. The score was 1-1 after the first period.

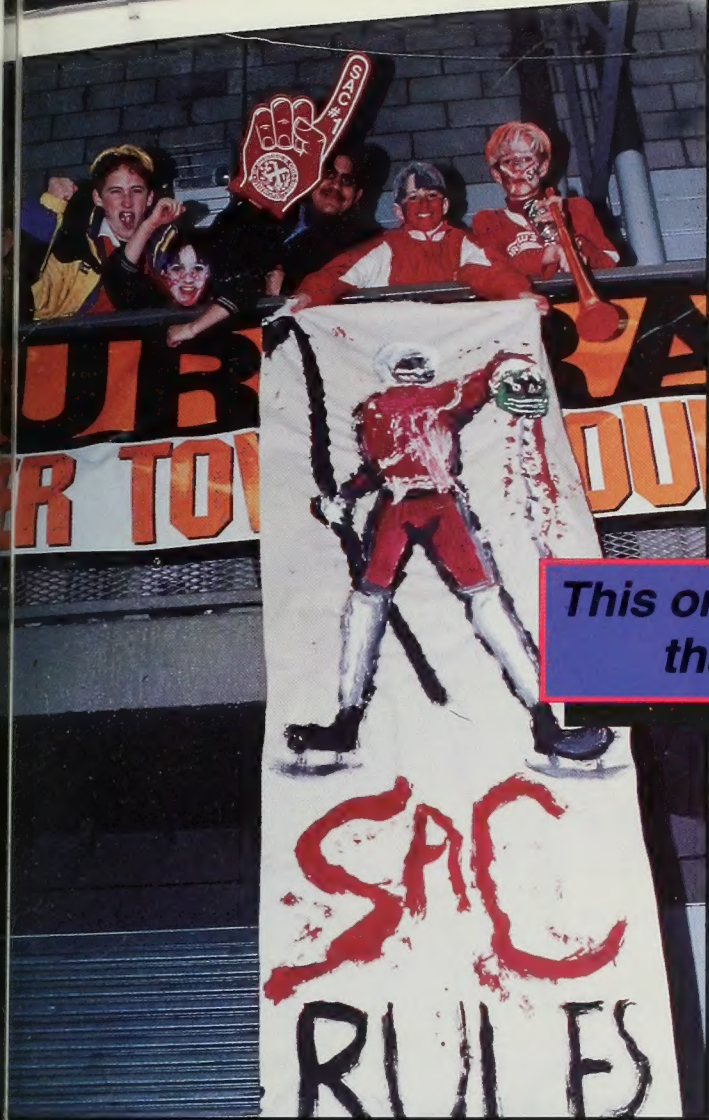

In the second period our team scored two goals to lead the game. Later in the period, however, Nichols had a two-man advantage over our team. As the penalty was almost over, they scored a goal to make the score 3-2.

During the second intermission, there was a shooting contest. The three contestants were Andrew Camargo, Daniel Chen and D. J. Bennett. The first person to shoot the puck into the net wins $100, and the other two win $50. After Daniel hit the post twice, Andrew scored and won the contest.

There was no score in the third period, but our team got a well-deserved victory. They went on to win the tournament unbeaten. Congratulations to coaches Mr. Dunford and Mr. Galajda, and all the guys in First Hockey!

NEPAL 1988

Greg Shields

The chance to trek in the footsteps of Sir Edmund Hillary, is only the beginning. Both staff and students agree, the Nepal experience is one that is hard to top.

S.A.C. EVENT

1998 marked the 4th time in the school's recent history that staff and students traveled to Nepal to aid in the humanitarian work of the Sir Edmund Hillary Foundation. During March and April, Mr. Jones and Mr. Shields accompanied Antonio Riva Palacio, Jeff Sim, Dale Jordan, Mark Scott and James Talbot to the majestic peaks of the Himalayas.

After a short stops in Singapore and Nepal's capital, Kathmandu, the group traveled, via helicopter, to the remote village of Lukla where they began 5 exciting weeks of trekking, camping and working among the highest peaks in the world.

While in Nepal, the group had the opportunity to "set up camp" for an extended stay in the village of Khumjung, the main settlement of the Solo Khumba or Everest region. In Khumjung the SAC group aided in the reparation of vital fences that surround the fragile forest nurseries planted some 20 years ago. In addition to this physical labour, the students were able to lend a hand at the Khunde Hospital where they helped compile statistics for an ongoing study of the patient care given at the Hillary Hospital. They also helped to install a donated computer in the Khumjung school and had a hand in training the teaching staff in the basics of its use.

Both staff and students agree, the Nepal experience is one that is hard to top. The chance to trek in the footsteps of Sir Edmund Hillary, literally to the base of Mount Everest is only the beginning, the real value of the trip is the chance to immerse oneself in the culture and custom of Nepal and to add, in some small way, to the on-going work of the Hillary Foundation projects in the area.

Ski Day

Despite adverse conditions, the day went well for the majority of skiers, and we returned home with minimal injuries, and a few bruised egos

During the month of January, the College has an annual skiing excursion to Blue Mountain.

The majority of the student body and some members of the faculty hit the slopes for the entire day.

For many students, who come from warmer climates, this all-day skiing experience is their one opportunity to learn to ski along with their fellow students. We all board Greyhound buses at 6:00 in the morning, awaiting the three-hour bus ride. En route, SAC students have a choice of catching up on some sleep, getting some extra studying in, or watching a movie (sleeping being the most popular activity of all).

The trip started off well (with the buses leaving only 20 minutes late), but unfortunately, the weather was unfavourable. It rained the entire morning, thus causing wet and icy conditions on the slopes.

This forced many of the slopes to be closed and many skiers to steer clear of Blue Mountain's precarious black diamond slopes. Not to mention the fog, which prevented people from seeing more than 20 metres in front of them! Many beginners found themselves relaxing in the warm (but soggy) atmosphere of Central Base Lodge. Despite these adverse conditions, the day went well for the majority of skiers. We returned home with minimal injuries, a few bruised egos (for those of us that tried snowboarding for the first time), and some broken wrists . . . not to mention any names (Mr. Cowell).

Thanks especially to Mr. Walden and all who contributed to this great day!

Could someone pass the Haggis? This stuff isn't too bad.

It is the day that our school is named after, the day on which a new boy becomes a real Andrian, the day on which we think about our Scottish roots, the day on which we sit together with our clans, the day on which nothing could be a greater delicacy than Haggis, and the day on which many in their final year begin thinking about their last steps at the school as students.

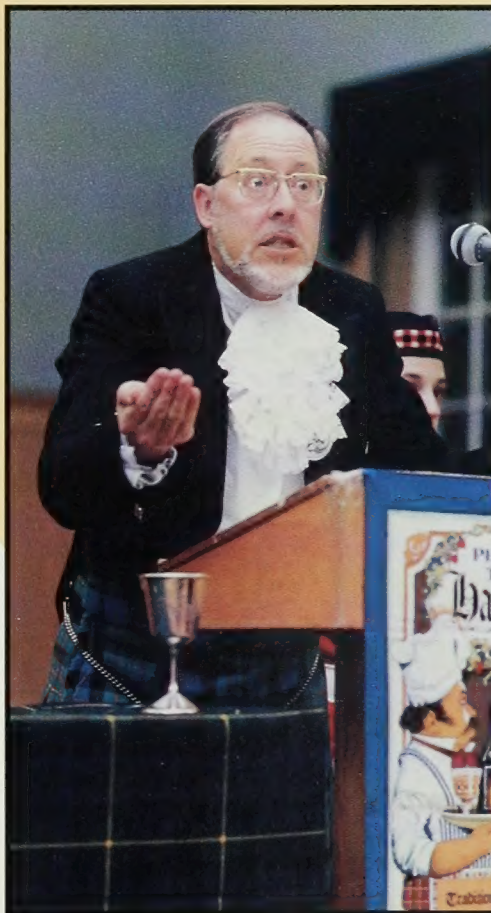

Many feelings came together as the Haggis, this well prepared stomach of a sheep, filled with liver, heart, lungs, and seasoned with various spices was piped in to be devoured. It's smell, together with the curious and sometimes anxious expressions of those who had never tried it caused more than one entertaining moment. Especially memorable were the two Haggis bearers, Will Mercer and Jeff Sim, whose height difference turned the task of transporting it to Mr. Ray into an artistic endeavor.

After the meal, we were treated with the special delight of Scottish dancing in the center of the dining hall, which was performed by two young ladies. One of them had on various occasions been a world champion in her art and sport and dazzled the students and teachers with her light footed performance. Without a doubt, this increased the speed with which the Haggis was digested.

The night however belonged to Mr. Staunton who, for the first time cut the Haggis and therewith continues the tradition of past headmasters.

St. Andrew's Day was therefore again a day on which on which different students and teachers had different thoughts and experiences. However one aspect was the same for everybody: the Haggis which will continue to serve us well in the future.

COUNTRY RUN

Benjamin Wood

Marshall Doyle (junior) and Daniel Wells (senior) ran to victory in 90th X County

S.A.C. EVENT

The SAC Cross-Country Run was once again filled with glory heart, and dedication. On a dry and cool day that couldn't have been more favourable for running, the lower and upper school crowds flew around the sports fields in their quest to discover who would lead them to the finish line. Two things had vanished: One was the mud that had in previous years occupied at least one part of the field, and the second one was Mr. Jones who did not occupy his traditional spot on top of the headmaster's hill. Let's hope to see him back next year!

Nevertheless, most fought themselves through the race, often struggling in packs on the finishing stretch, trying to gain the one additional point that could make a difference for the clan competition. School spirit was at its peak! Just a minor few chose to join the smoker's delight or the shortened race, risking, this year, to be caught by one of the strategically placed video cameras.

On an individual basis, Dan Wells decided to cruise to a third consecutive victory, leading the pack from start to finish. Marshall Doyle enjoyed a commendable victory in the junior run, showing immense promise for future performances in the longer senior version.

Next year will provide another chance to engage in the pleasures of running. Maybe there will even be the return of Mr. Jones to where he needs him.

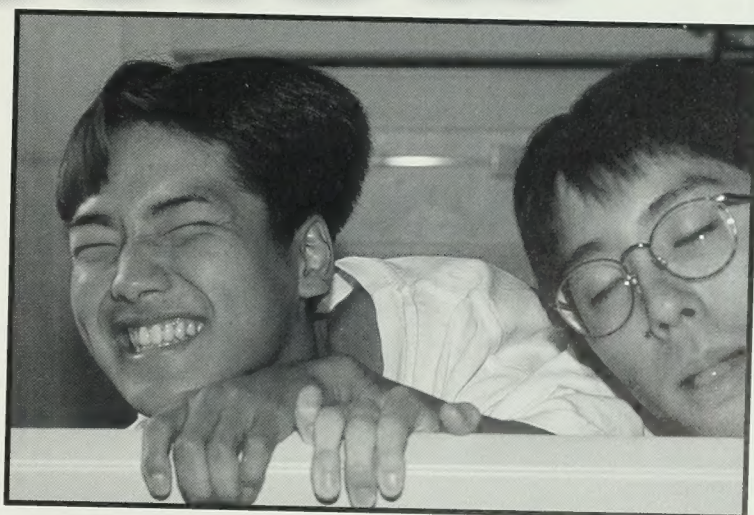

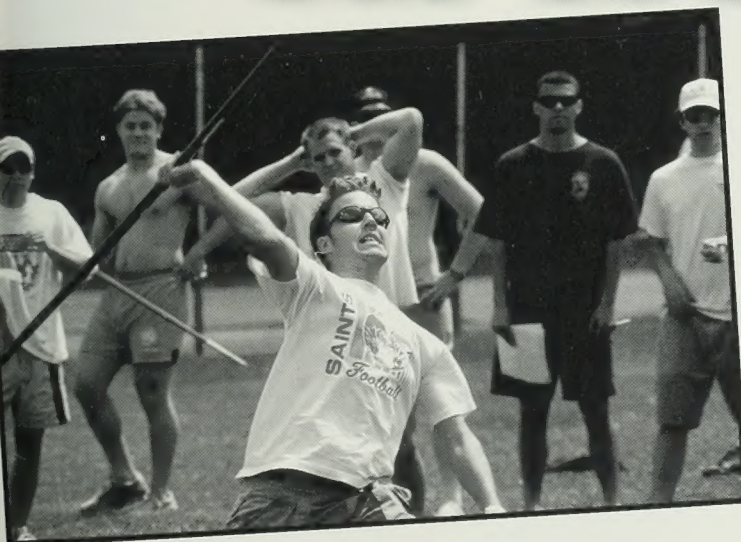

The Houses

In Review

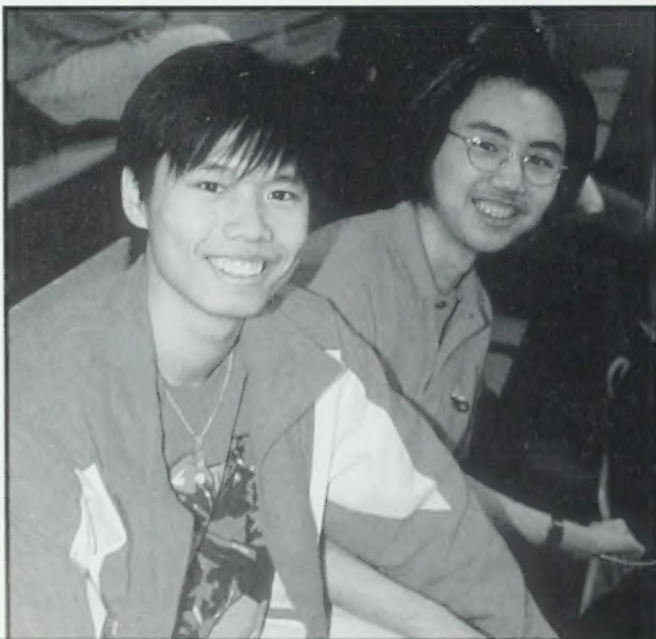

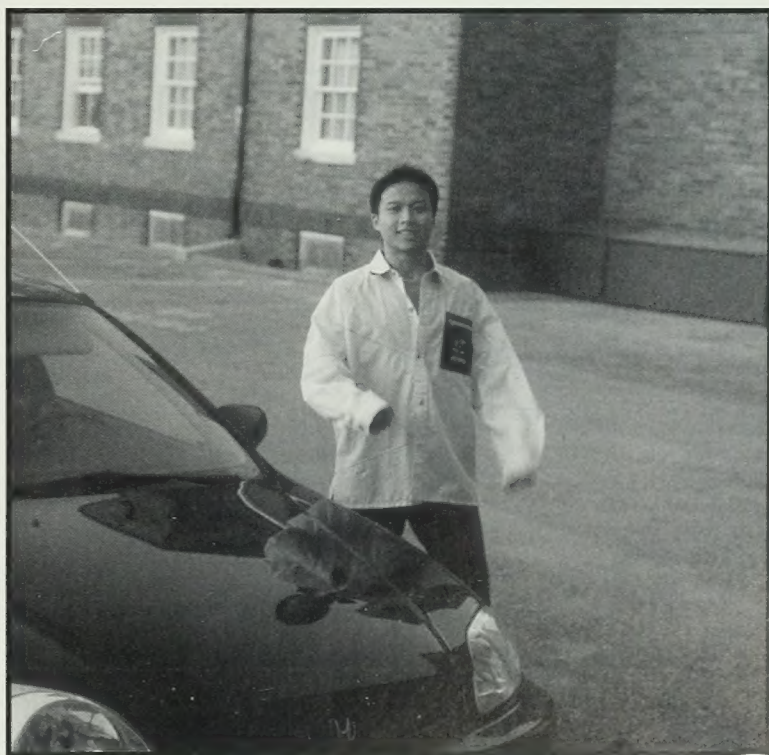

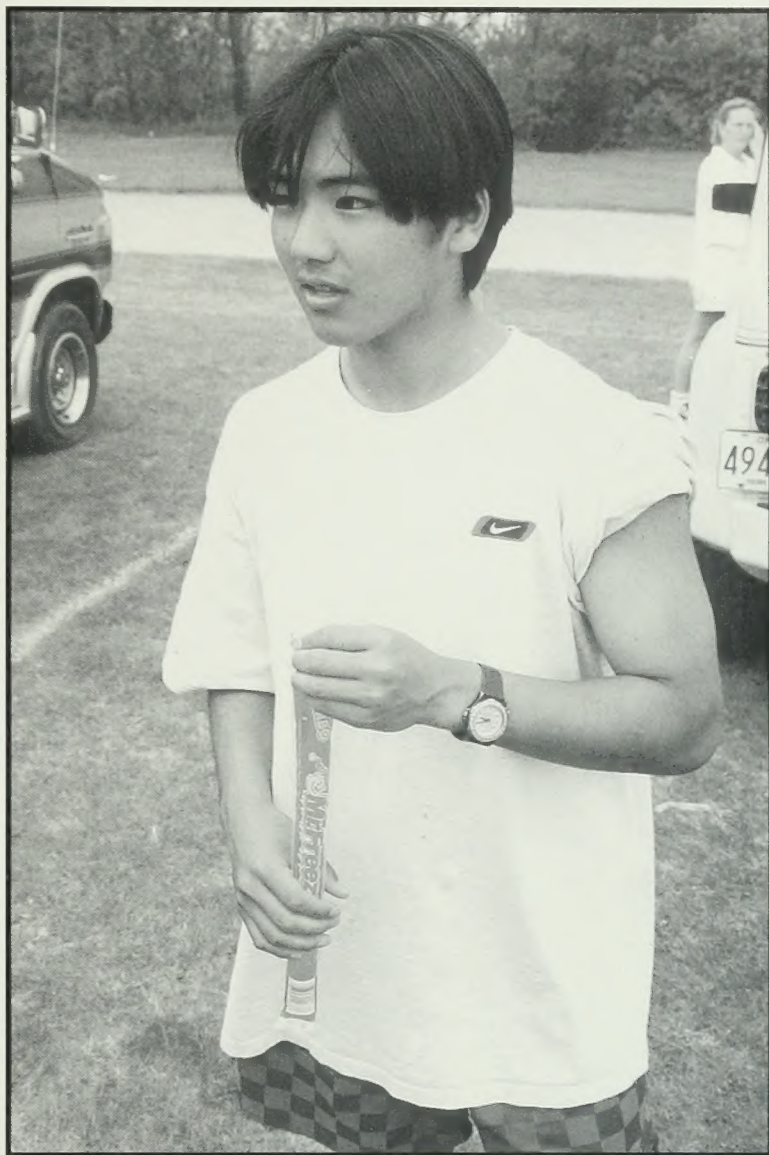

FLAVELLE HOUSE

In recent years, Flavelle house has proven to be one of St. Andrew's finer attractions. A community within a much larger one where teenagers from around the world gathered.

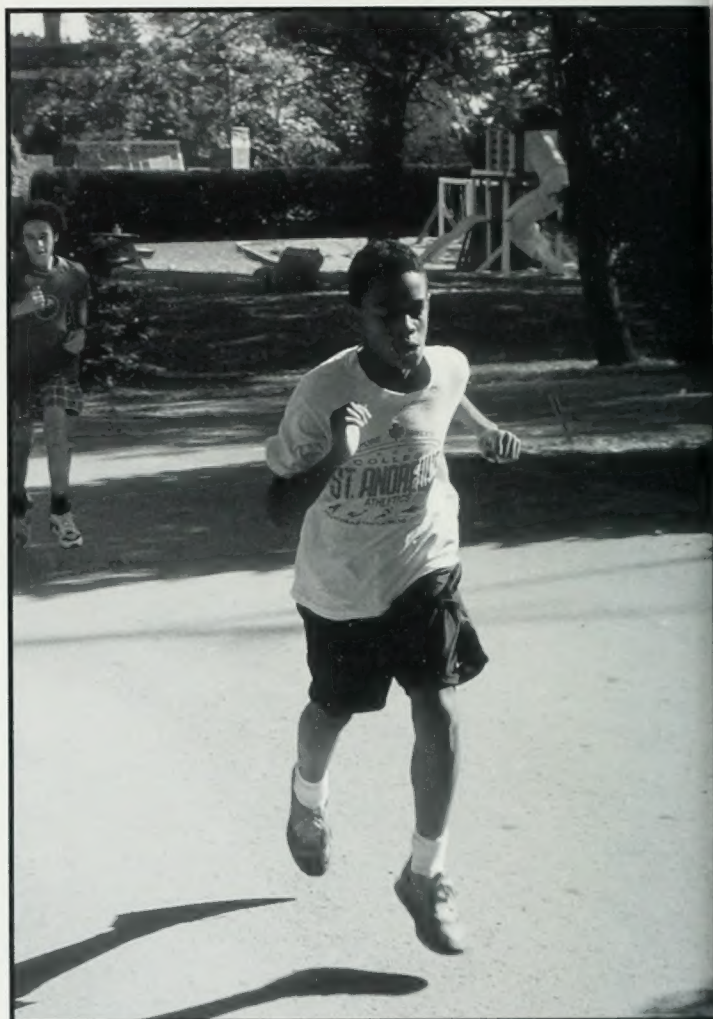

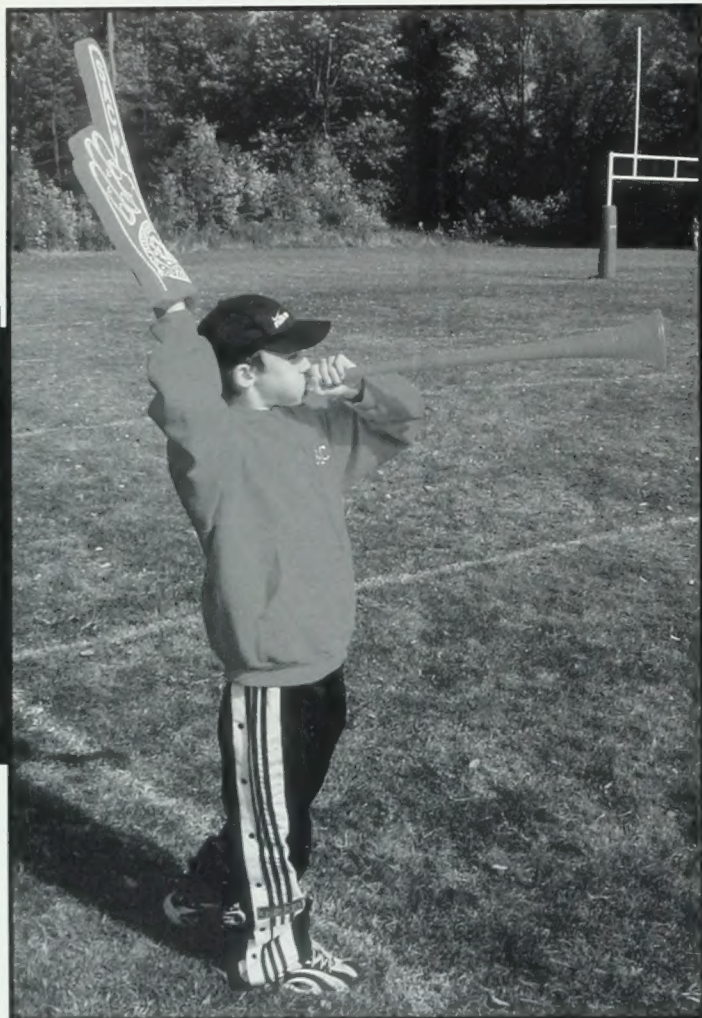

With the excellent support and leadership of Gerald Kwan, Flavelle house took part in various house sport activities. Mark Landry and Will Mercer kept Flavelle house a peaceful place to live, as they fulfilled their role as head of houses. In cadets Flavelle house gave Memorial house quite a scare as they progressed in their marching throughout the year.

Many students within Flavelle also showed great skill in athletics such as Kevin Richards who in his first year in grade eleven, earned the first soccer MVP.

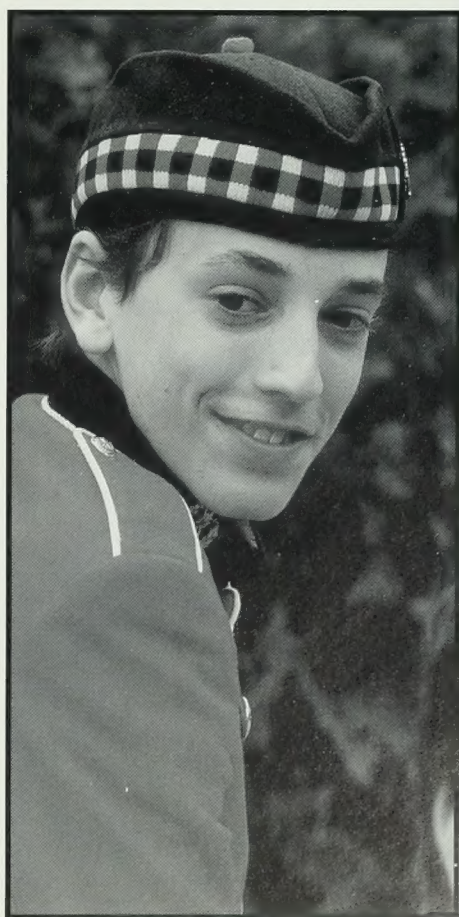

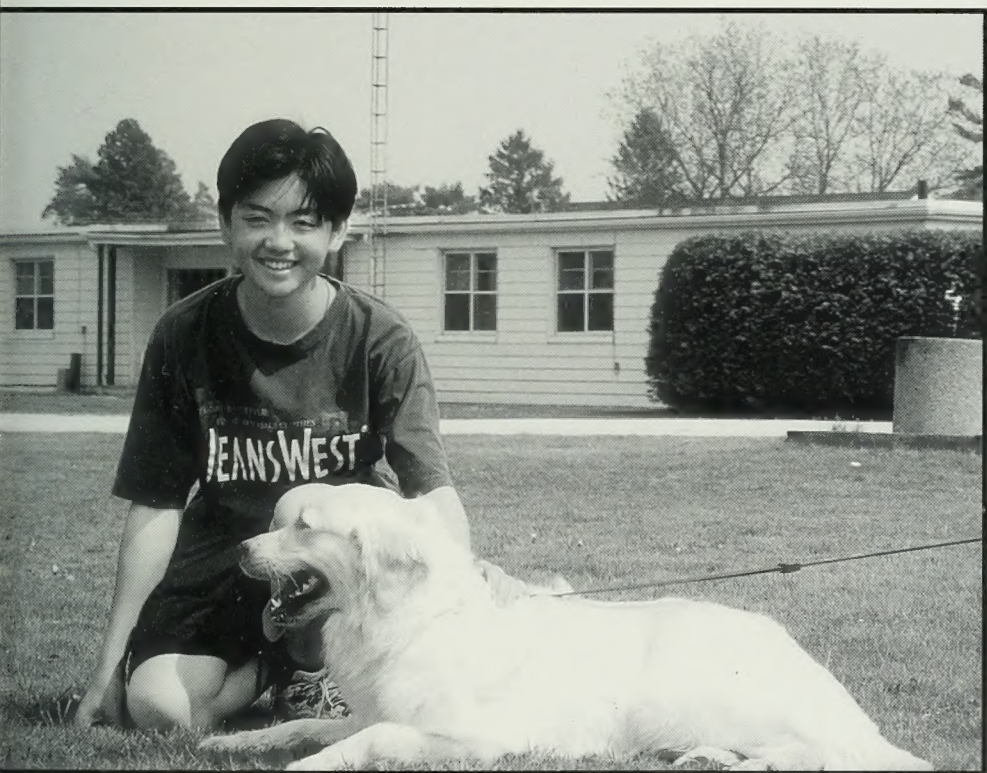

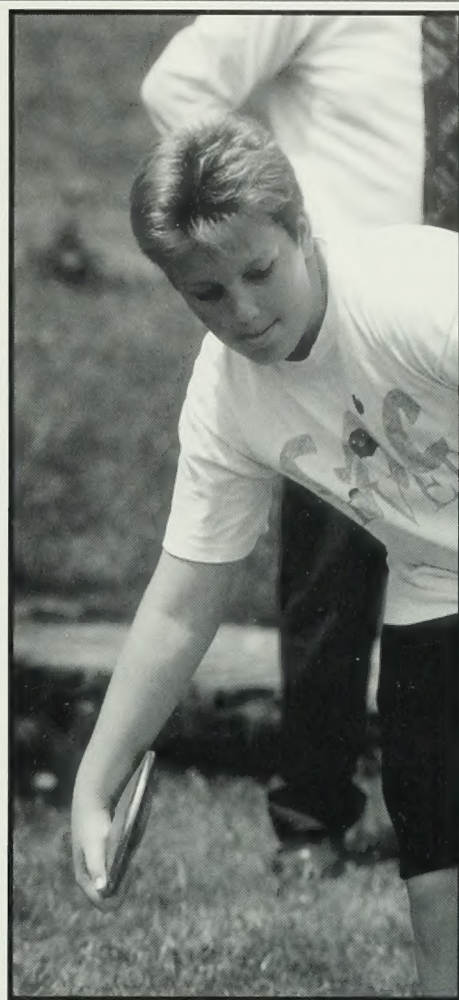

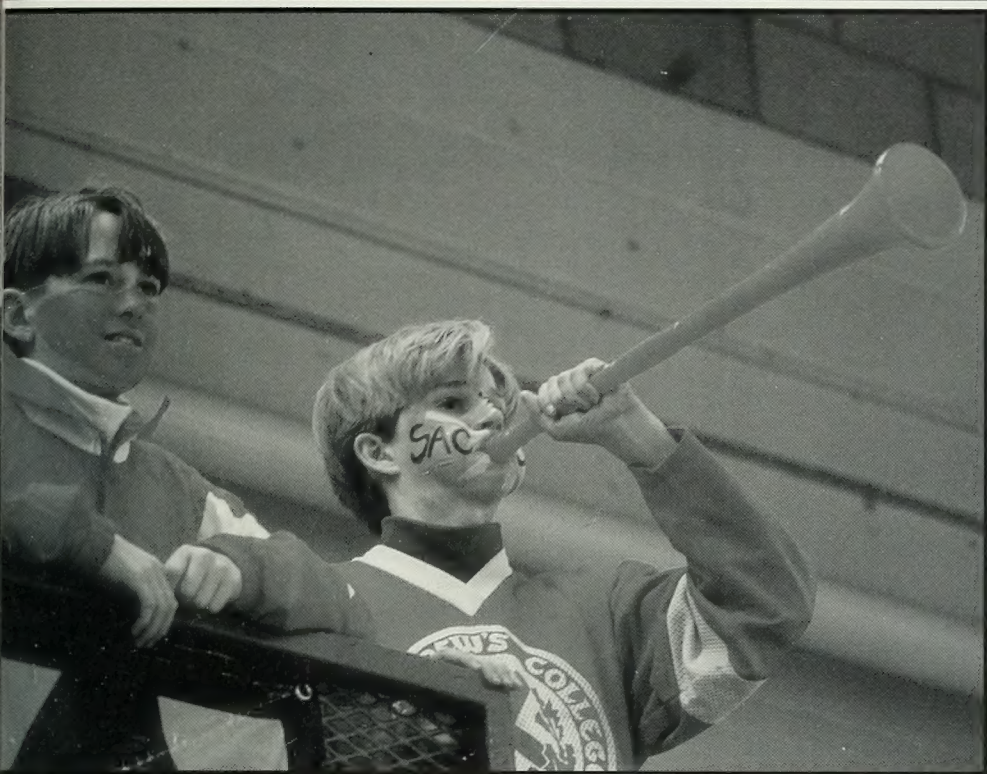

LAIDLAW HOUSE

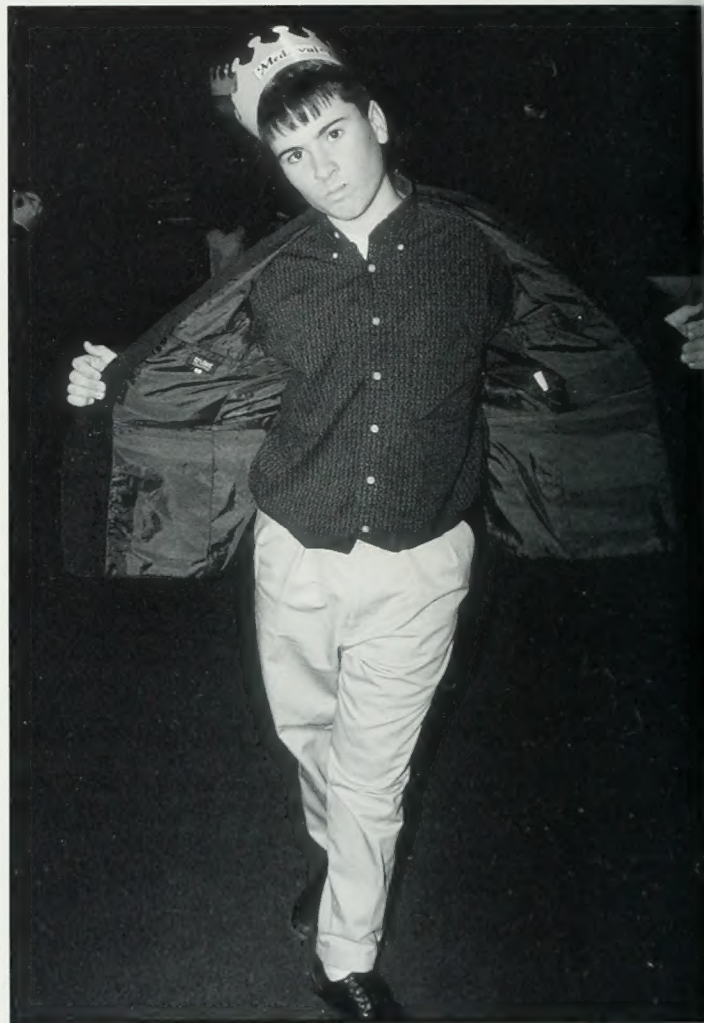

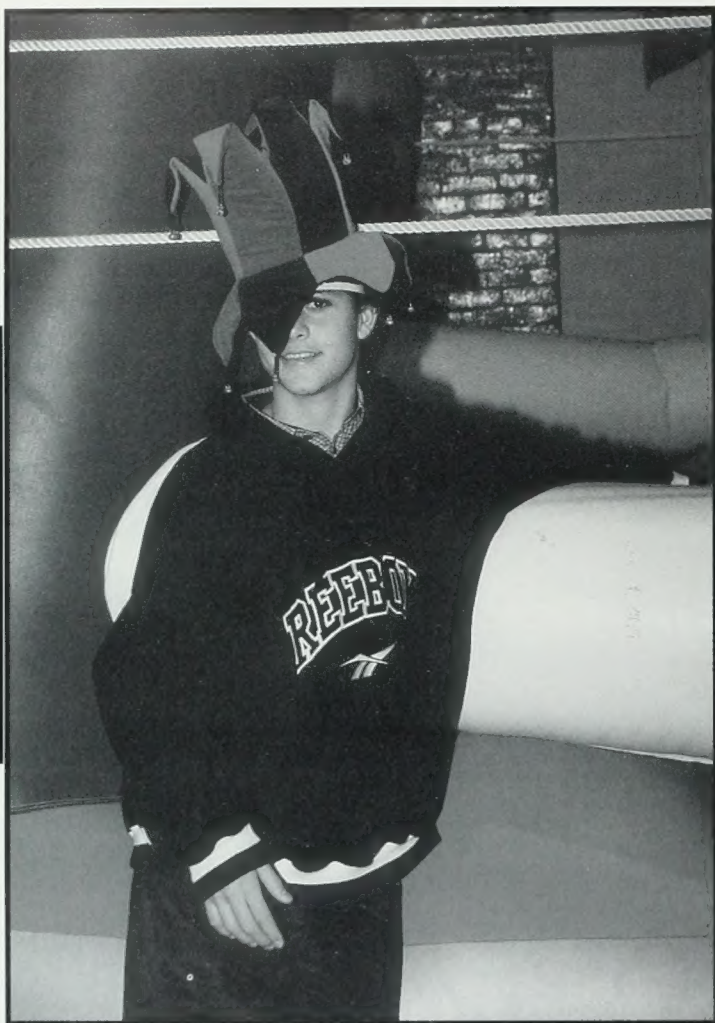

This was the first year of division in the house. It was the house of Laidlaw 1 and Laidlaw 2. Mr. Kimmerer at the helm at one and Mr. Cowell at the other. This was also the first year without the leadership abilities of Mr. Whitehead.

Luckily we kept going and during this last year at Laidlaw house, we had fun. We had fun going to Laser Quest and having Barbecues in the courtyard. With over 70 members overall we were the largest lower school house. Thank you to Mr. Cowell and Mr. Kimmerer for your devotion of time and effort organising activities for our pleasure and thank you to the heads of Houses, Oliver Radley-Smith and Greg Heward. These two thought up and planned the barbecues and were the first ones to cheer on the guys. This was really a great year where we have really shown that we can acquit ourselves as men and that we are strong.

MAC HOUSE

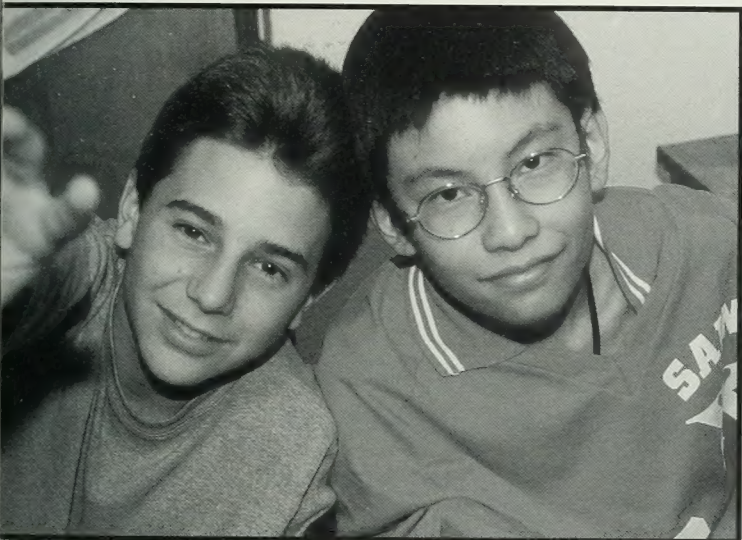

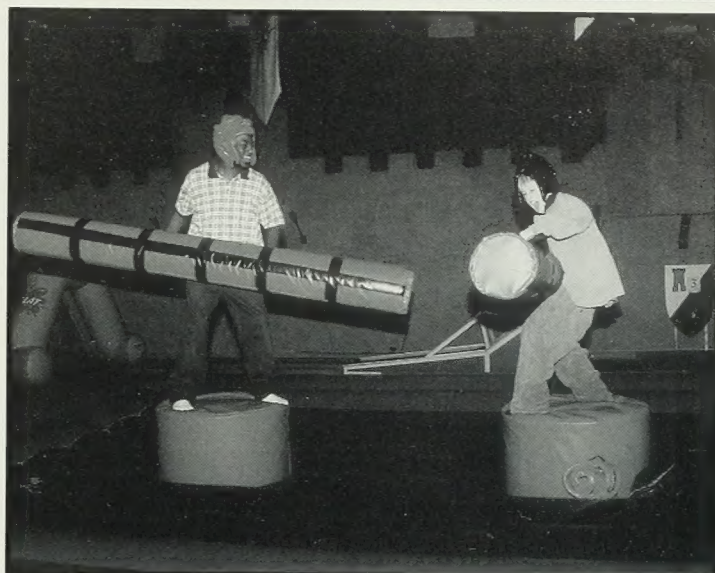

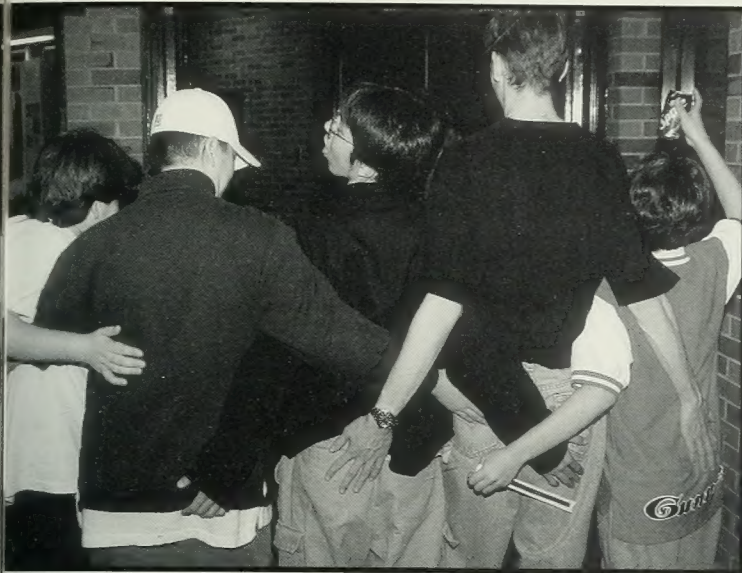

A new year began with many new boarders arriving in September. A large delegation from Mexico immediately set the tone for the year by enlivening the halls with their upbeat attitude. Friendships were made, routines were learned and games were played. We also had to tame a few beasts who made study and bed time difficult.

The year will be remembered for the trip to Medieval Times, a very short skating season on the triangle, movie nights, treat nights, Birthday cookies, cries of "STUDY", "is the tuck shop open" and "in your rooooooms" as well as pickup games of soccer and basketball and Godzilla. The Christmas banquet in the library as well as the bar-b-ques were big successes. The indoor soccer league composed of six teams kept many emotionally and physically active in the last term.

This year's award winners were representative of the many talents which were seen in the House. Senior athlete was Bryan Dickins, junior athlete was Diego Salas and winner of the Manny Cominsky award for the second year was Brendan Farrell. The most distinguished clan, Montrose was presented with the Rupert J. Ray Trophy. Our most distinguished awards, The Edith Grant Trophy was presented to Patrick McGrath and The King Memorial Trophy to Ryan Chan.

Special thanks to all those who made things run smoothly throughout the year, the Heads of House, Tom Takada, Amal Jeevanandam and Jon Ahee, the House Captains, the Duty Masters, the custodial staff and especially Mr. Tsioros.

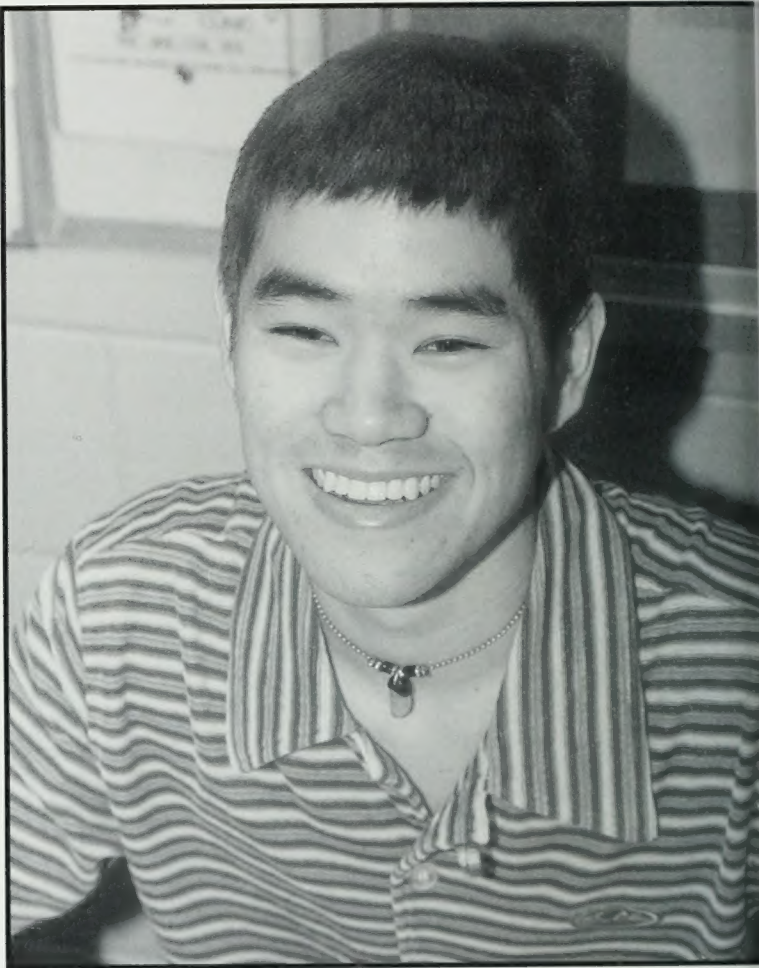

MEMORIAL HOUSE

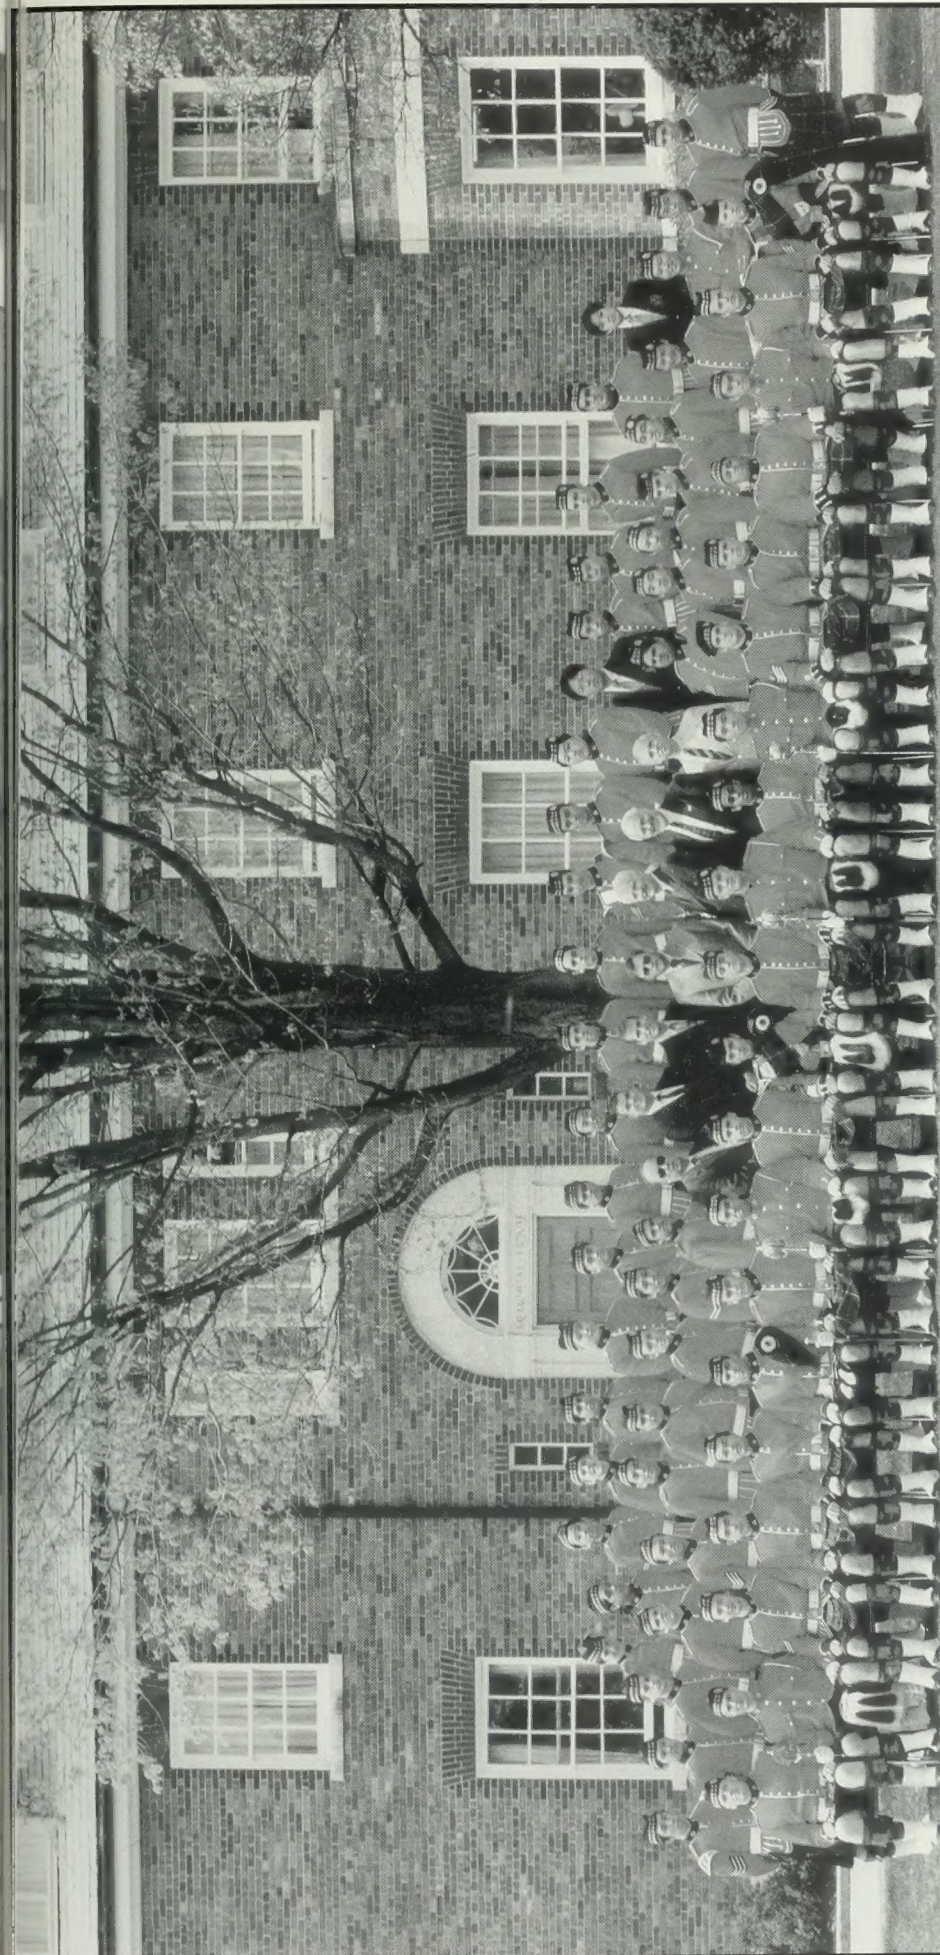

Did you hear Ferris' new stereo on Homecoming? Have you read Alvin's THE magazine. That's Memorial House. A place where, somehow, the odd have clumped together. This year, more than any other, our house was, not only a rebuilding year, but also a diversifying one. We had many arrivals, and sadly, several departures; but overall, it was a good year. We had more than our fair share of BBQ's, sleep in breakfasts, and sundae nights. We had some of the more memorable characters to graduate from SAC this year (some of them in weird ways) with Ferris, Lariviere, Sim, Max, Evans, Albert Tsai, Torri, and Gooderham.

We did fairly well in sports, excellent in academics, winning Best Company, under the leadership of C.MWO Justin Scott and C.Cpt Albert Tsai. We had dwindling membership, unfortunately, more so towards the end; but we held our ground as a clan, coming third overall.

Next year, our Heads of House will be: George Brown, Alex Christie and Chester Lo. A last thank you, and farewell, to Mr. and Mrs. Perrier; a couple who, without, the house would not be what it is now.

NEW HOUSE

During this school year New House went through many changes. From the new House Master to the new ways of signing or not signing in. Despite all these new changes and constant ridicule from the other inferior Houses, New House triumphed as the winner of the prestigious upper-school clan trophy; with Ramsey House as the first loser. Thus proving my long spoken theory that the dayboy houses have always been better than the boarding houses; and of those dayboy houses New House reigns supreme. Don't get me wrong, it wasn't easy becoming number one. It took many years of planning and intense strategy thinking on the lower levels of the library. First off, of the 10 prefects this year, 6 of them were originally New House members. We figured this would be poor strategy to let the other house know how stacked our house was; for we all know the best attack is one which you don't see coming. So to counter this blatant display of our power we sent out spies to infiltrate the other house. We sent two of our prefects (one of which was a Head of House, the other one of the few Italians in OAC) to the strongest of the three pathetic houses: Memorial House. For the other houses there was only one which posed a real threat to us: Ramsey House. In this situation we could only send our best spy to do the job. So undoubtedly Matt Fordham ("the Green Hornet" riding in stealthy but powerful Red Ranger) was sent to control the situation. Now that all of our spies were in place our victory was guaranteed. All we had to do was come in a close second place in all the school events and the rest would fall into place. As the prophecy stated, on prize day the trophy was given to those who most deserved it. The thing that counts most is that we had fun on the way; destroying all the other clans in the points race is just icing on the cake.

Next year I know the leaders of New House will follow in the tradition of the "Old Breed" and will keep the House's position as reigning champion of clan points. As for Ramsey House and Mr. Swan remember the famous words of Slider from the movie Top Gun: "There's no points for second place!"

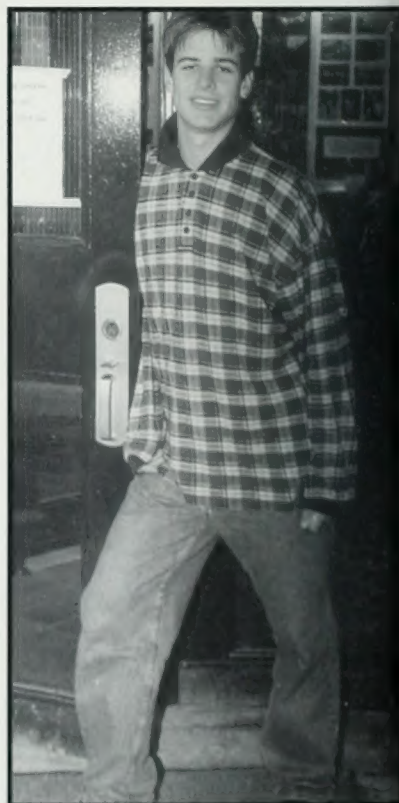

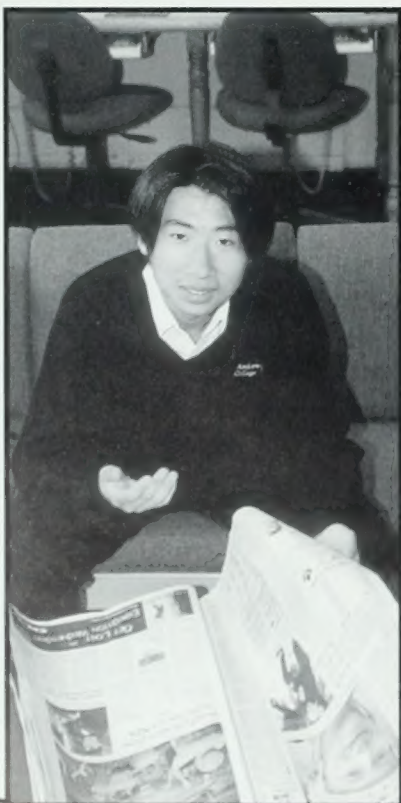

RAMSEY HOUSE

With respect to the annual clan competitions, Ramsey House entered the 1997-98 school year with overconfidence reminiscent of UCC. With the best clan award under our belts for several years running, and athletic powerhouses the likes of Dan Wells and, uh, Malloy, we were the fear of every house in the school; and we knew it. As always, Mr. Swan would not be satisfied with anything less than the best clan title. But it was to the surprise of the entire school and the disappointment of all "Ramsinites" that the house came up short of the victory this year. Nonetheless, we are proud to be members of Ramsey house and will return next year in full form to regain our title. We would like to thank Mr. Swan as well as all of the graduating members of Ramsey who have contributed so much to the house over the years.

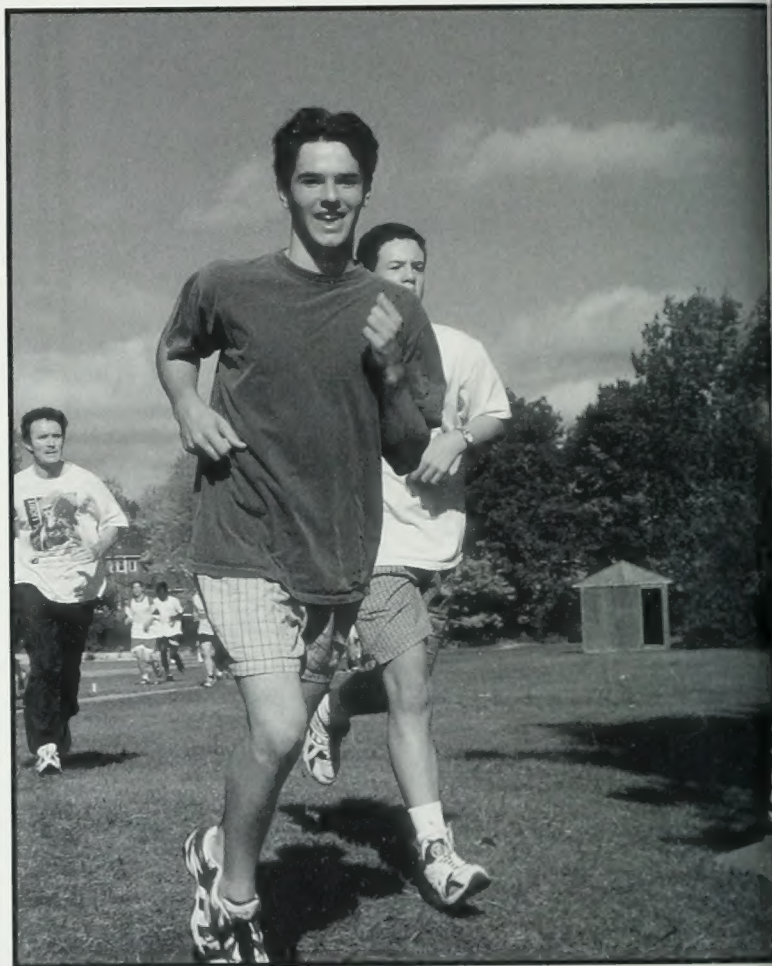

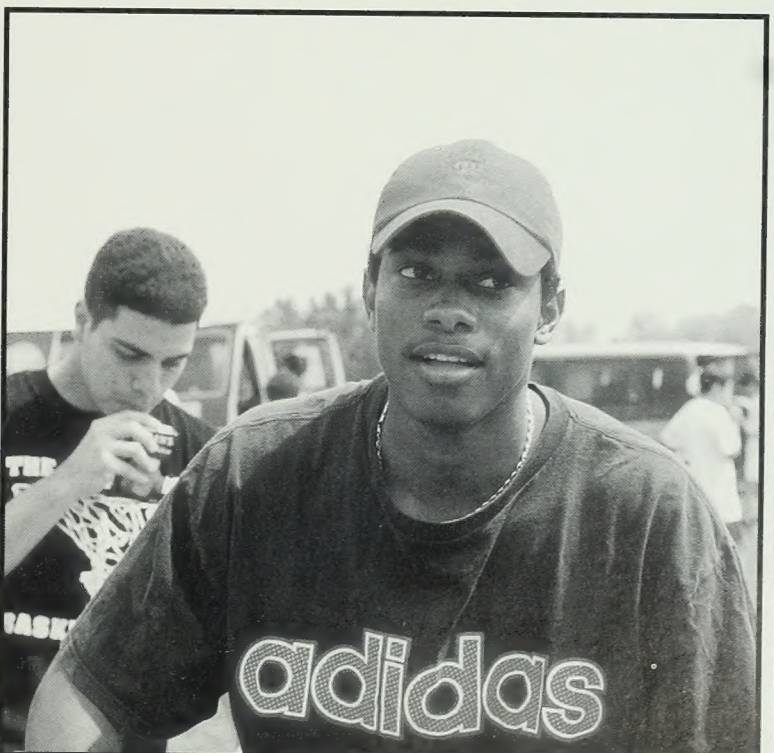

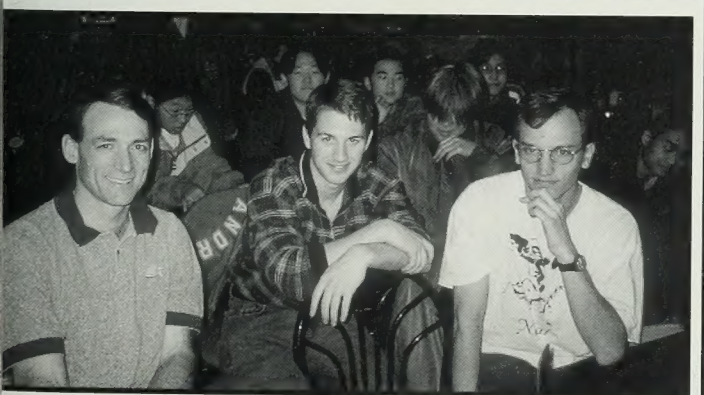

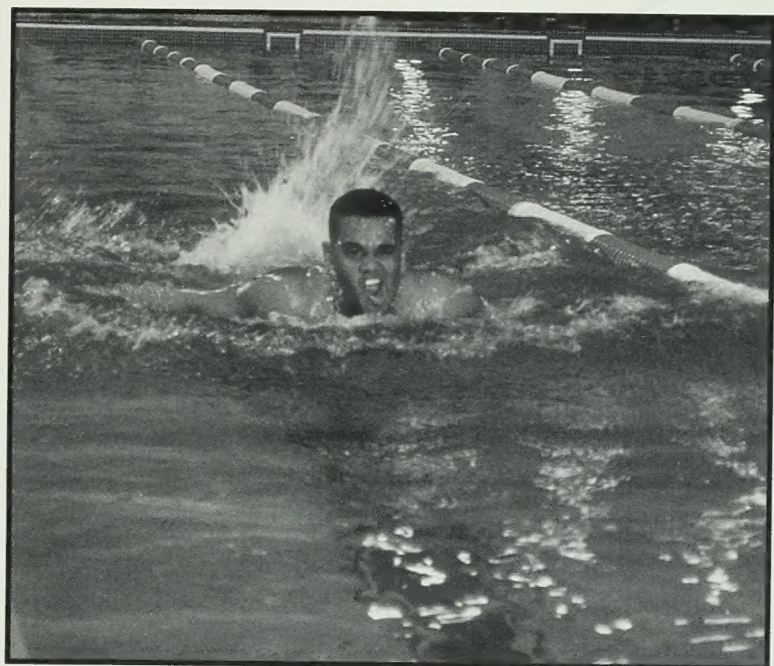

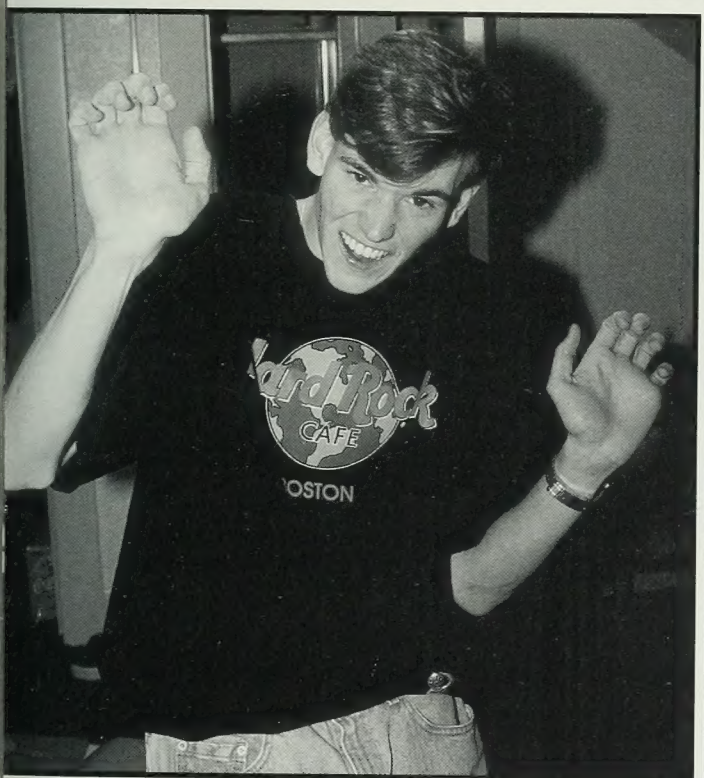

SIFTON HOUSE

Sifton House: now that's a place you can really hang your hat. This house had a very multicultural ambiance, owing in part to the Mexican contingent that would, without warning, descend upon the Common Room in droves, pizza boxes in hand. Word is they headed to Yuk Yuk's for their house trip, and have the most modern pop machine of the boarding houses. The spirited group also placed well in track and field day, and had many top finishers in the cross-country run. As if that weren't enough, the reviewing board that inspected the school last year have finally tabulated the results, and it turns out Sifton House was at the top of the "Cool House" list, with Mac House a distant second, and Flavelle and Memorial tied for third. The day boy houses were pretty far down the list, unfortunately for them.

The coolest house in the school has a hard-hitting lineup of House Heads for next year. They are Leon Nakagawa, Mike Choi, and Russell Fraser. No doubt these guys will keep up the tradition of being the coolest house around, and will organize a few amazing trips into the bargain.

You might want to investigate this incredible house to find out just what makes it so good. Be forewarned though: upon first sight, you may have the irresistible urge to run right back to your room, pack your bags and move into Sifton. Sifton House will in no way be responsible for feelings of discontent in those who have to settle for living in another house.

Grade 7, the first and most exciting year at AC to most students. During the first term the grade 7 population gets introduced to SAC life and the way the system works. I in particular admire the position of Prefects and the kindness and friendship they have shown me. At the start of the year I was getting used to boarding life. The house captains quickly introduced me to boarding life. Into the year Mr. Giel ruled my life. I will always remember the night when Aaron Styling and Amal kept me up until 12:00 standing still and if I moved I would do pushups, because I would not allow Amal to shut my door. During expansion week as we visited a lot of places, the grade 7 classes got to know the other classes. In the summer, I enjoyed many soccer games with the Mexican students and on occasion Greg Meuser would join in. I will always remember an ultimate frisbee game with me, a Mexican (Juan Gutierrez), Andrew Camargo, and Greg Meuser. We had a very competitive game. In the end I was introduced to a new community. I have made a lot of friends.

What a year we had! From trips to Laser Quest to more academic trips to the Young People's Theatre to see A Christmas Carol. With Mr. T. and Ms. K we went on a time travel trip to visit the Mennonites -Ontario's own version of 'Amish Paradise', and later we visited the ancient Greek section of the R.O.M. – certainly the grade eights really got around. We were a very diverse group: some names to roll around in your mind included: Chan, Marcos, Hassell, Goldhar, Kaptyn and Krock- add the cultural spice of our Mexican contingent and no doubt SAC will remember us for a long time to come! We were a force to be reckoned with! We had our academic giants: Toms and Tsui; our hockey greats: Zoratto, Thompson, Frame and others; our basketball heroes: Lorrیمان, Lin ,Nei, and Tsioris to name but a few, and last but not least, our sprinkling of talented musicians, actors and artists. To the teachers of grade 8, thanks for a great and memorable year – look out SAC, grade 9 here we come!

It was ten months ago that I arrived at the school known as St. Andrew's College. I was not quite sure what to expect and was prepared for the worst. But surprisingly, I found it to be the complete opposite. Within days, I had met friends and began a sport that I had never played: football. I played the corner position on the defensive line and enjoyed my first term very much. Another change, was coming from a school that lacked a strong emphasis on academics to one that insisted on it. I found it difficult to carry the work load but soon it became second hand.

As I look back on this year I remember events like Homecoming, the Cadet Parade or the Mayfest Dance. The most memorable event belonged to only a few of the grade 9 students that played rugby. Rugby was new to many of us but we worked hard all Spring on skills and plays that Mr. Smith and Mr. Jamieson kept insisting had some importance. Although we got to the final tournament in May, we were eliminated in overtime in a semi-final match.

As you can see, this year has meant a lot to me and I am looking forward to great years ahead.

When asked to compose a short paragraph about life in Grade Ten for the yearbook, I was faced with a dilemma because I had never really contemplated Grade Ten as a unique experience. On closer examination, however, I did discover that there were indeed some differences that separate the Grade Ten experiences from the Lower School.

Any member of the seven-year club can tell you that the first two years of a St. Andrew's education are spent acquiring social and academic survival skills. These years are also spent working one's way up from low man on the totem pole to the more comfortable vantage point that exists in the Upper School.

In Grade Nine, I observed that students were beginning to show a growing maturity in the resolution of conflicts. Students at this level are becoming more capable of solving problems between one another without the intervention of a teacher. Of course, there are always exceptions to this rule!

Grade Ten shows other developments that are particularly interesting. As the Grade Nine student enjoys the position of 'King of the Lower School', conversely, the Grade Ten student suffers the position of 'plebian' of the Upper School.

When house matters and suggestions are to be addressed, the opinion of the lowly Grade Ten student is never really acknowledged. However, other advantages at this grade level quickly redeem its shortcomings. For instance, course selections are more diverse than in previous years. Students require less assistance from teachers and are encouraged to work more independently.

One of the most positive changes I have observed in Grade Ten is that teachers really try to treat students more like adults. There is no doubt that courses are more involved and slightly more challenging. Occasionally, there seems to be little time for extra curricular activities.

In Grade Ten, a student can actually see a vision of University at the end of a long academic road. Interests definitely become more focused at this grade level. The exciting part of grade ten is that for the first time in one's academic career, the future is at the initial stages of becoming a reality. Such a realization is not only awe inspiring, but humbling as well.

Thinking back on this long year, I realized that the teachers had left us with a lot of questions over the year. These questions are not normal questions like how to get the program to run in a computer science course, but what road will you pick for your future. These kinds of questions are not asked in a moment of time, but throughout the whole year. With a lot of patience and thought, I learned the most important thing to surviving in this life, how to make the right decision. With this I have learned that adults' decisions are starting to make a little sense. However, I still think there are a lot of bad decisions that adults make.

Another thing I realize about this year, grade 11, is that we were everywhere. Whether it was in cadets, sports, or academics we were one of the major parts in this school year. In cadets, more than 10 people had their silver stars and Ken Tsui had a gold star, he is also an instructor for the green star program. Some of us might be lieutenants or some other major role in the St. Andrew's cadet program next year. In sports, two-thirds of the 1st hockey team are in grade 11, the 1st volley ball MVP was Jason Cheung, and 1st badminton MVP was Ricky Luk who will be leading our school to get a couple more CISAA championships in the future. In academics, we do not have the most scholars but we have the student with the highest average in the school, Adrian Chan. With an average of 96.3, he will be able to break the record of 97.6 average within next year or so. Therefore, next year we are going to make this school into a stronger and better school as the year goes on.

In the end we have learned a lot of things throughout this year and these things are not only the things we won't forget but the things that become a part of us and our lives.

As the year comes closer to the end, it is time to reflect on the year that has quickly passed through us. It is time to see what we were able to catch during these very fast 10 months that we call Grade 12. I still remember all those speeches I used to hear in Grade 9 and 10 about taking advantage of what's at this school because we'll be gone before we know it. I remember sitting in the chair thinking "OK, not this speech again...". This proved to be a big mistake. I have experienced what they said would happen. They were right and I was wrong, I guess I should have listened more carefully to what was being said. I never thought it would be this fast. I look back, and I still remember the first day of soccer camp this year and seeing everyone's faces for the first time in three months. The days, the weeks, the months went by in a flash, and only when I look back at it, I truly realize the value of time.

Everyone knows what the Grade 12 year is all about. It is about earning prefect votes and head-of-house votes. Although the big question still remains a mystery, we have all made significant improvements in becoming future leaders. Sports, Cadets, and being House-Captains provided us all with the experience to be in control. This also proved to measure the value of time because I can still remember the day when the house-captains ruled over us lower school kids, and we looked up to them so much. Metaphorically and literally. Although I think many people found it hard to look "up" to me. I certainly hope that the Lower school can say that the house-captains this year were great role models for them because our grade is certainly filled with many. As the year progressed, it was evident that next year will be a very productive year with our grade at the helm.

Academically, our grade filled up many of the OAC classes. We have people taking 5, 6 and in one case 7 OAC courses this year. However it seemed that the number of scholars was inversely related to the number of people with a license. This may be a coincidence but the number of scholars, for some reason, has definitely decreased from a year ago.

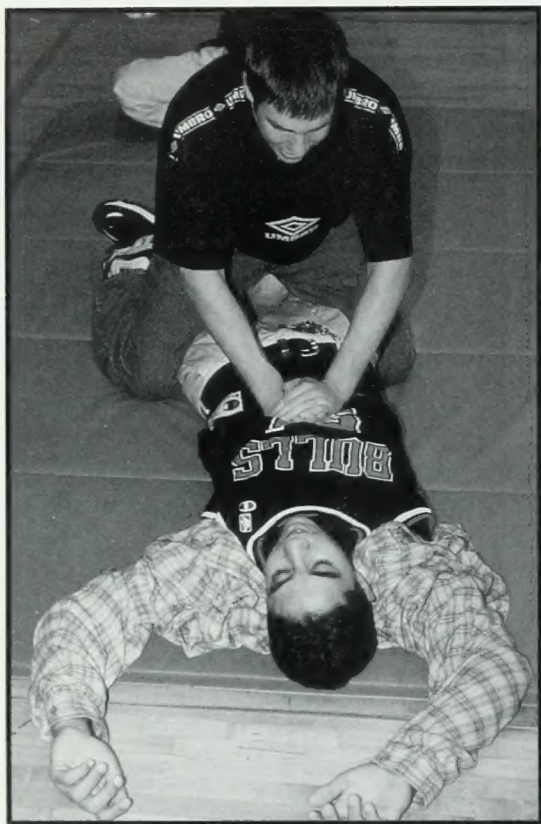

In athletics, the 1st team rosters were filled with Grade 12's, many were starters and key players to their respective teams. Although there are only a select few with leather jackets, I am sure that this number will increase in time with these players returning for one last try. There will be many championships banners on the Ketchum stage when athletic assemblies roll around a year from now.

With the Centennial celebrations quickly approaching, everyone is very anxious for the upcoming year, but let us not forget about what we've been through. This year has been great, a testament to the persistency of our OAC class. We will forever remember your support, leadership and most of all, your friendship. Your names will be remembered and talked about in the years to come. And now the time has finally come, our OAC year: the Centennial year. Get everything you can out of it, it will be over faster than you could possibly imagine.

This year's success is measured by personal development, physical growth and a lot of fun, not the win loss colum. We were a young team with only a few veteran players from our last year's team.

One thing was for sure, our boys were a great group of athletes to coach. They practiced hard and gave us all that they had at every game. They have a lot to be proud of. Our season started with a good scrimmage in Montreal against two local high schools and a team from the Boston area. We then played two exhibition games that we won handily, the first against Emery High School and the other against Fenelon Falls. This brought us to our first match-up against a CISAA team. The game against TCS was full of great plays but two come to mind: The tough defensive goal line play lead by Tom Larivière and the final play of the half from Paul O'Hea. The final score was 18-12 for TCS. We left the field disappointed but with the feeling that we definitely played with heart.

Our next game was an exhibition against Ridley College. It was a beautiful fall day and we dominated the game. The team was lead by Rob Cousineau's tough running, and powerful tackling from Mark Andrew Scott. We had a good day offensively and defensively. Both of our lines, lead by Andrew Camargo and Torrie Ferrulo on defense and Max Woods and Justin Scott on offense, were very successful and gave us this solid win. Our following game was homecoming. Our opponent, that so important to us, was UCC. We had a great crowd and the school was vibrant with activity, but we were unable to play at par. Even with individual efforts from John Lowes and Jamie Macpherson, our young, nervous team fell short of our goal. The score at the end was 18 to 10.

Our CISAA semi-final opponent was UCC. The game started with a seesaw battle, but at end of the afternoon, UCC was just the better team that day.

We would like to thank the two captains, Tom Larivière and John Lowes and our two assistant captains, Max Woods and Torrie Ferrulo for their leadership and commitment throughout this challenging season. We would also thank the whole team for their positive attitude that they showed this season. For the graduates, good luck in your future endeavors. For the returning players, we will definitely get them all next football season!!

It was a season of learning for the U16 football team. While many of the other teams in the league focusing on winning at all costs, our program was concentrating more on development for the first level. Despite a losing record, the team had many great moments such as the combined running game of Jamie Giles and D.J. Bennett, or the bone crushing hits courtesy of Robbie Carter.

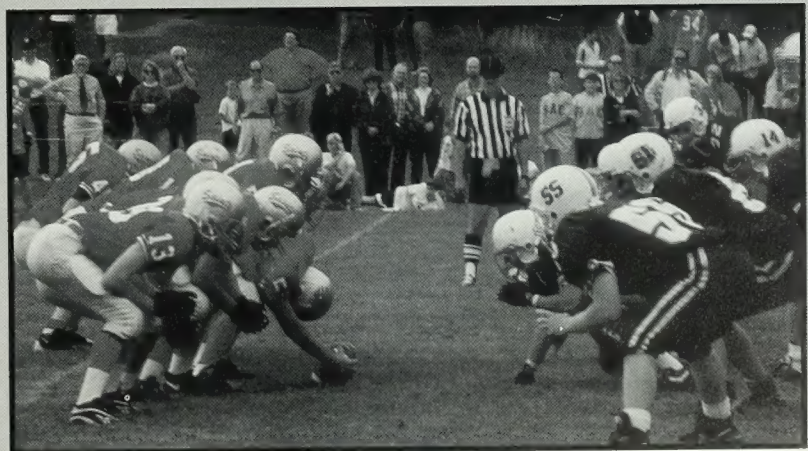

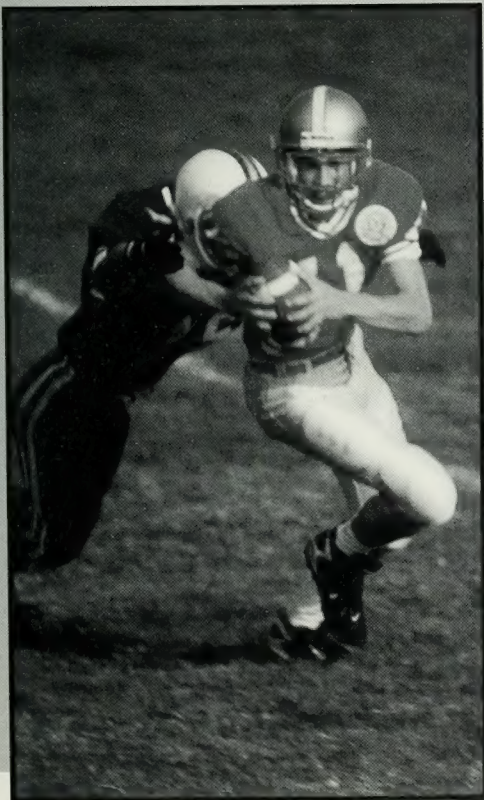

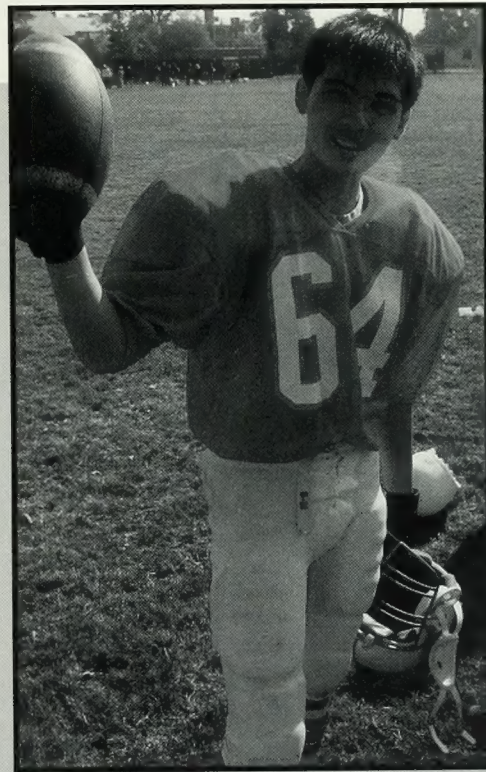

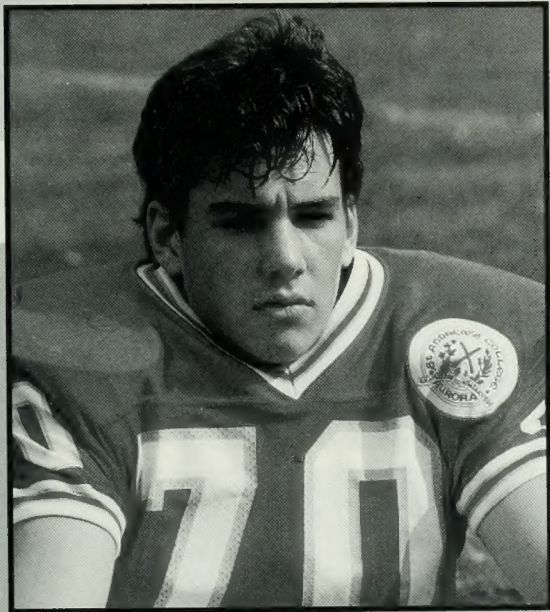

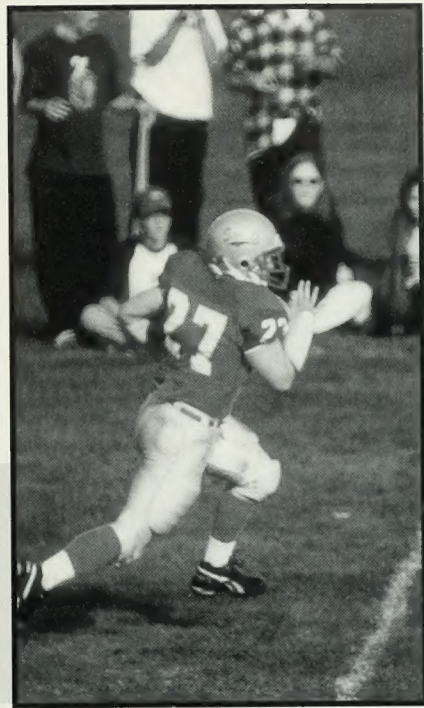

All in all, the season was a success, with 5 graduating players having a strong chance of making the first team next year. The team would like to offer special thanks to coaches Mr. Kinney, Mr. Smith, Mr. Cowell, Mr. Walden, and Mr. Jamieson, who all contributed in making the year a success both on and off the field.

SO CLOSE BUT YET SO FAR . . .

This was a season of many experiences and many emotions. It was a fun season; a funny season (just ask Bobby-Bear!); an exhilarating season; an intense season. Players and coaches experienced "The Thrill of Victory and the Agony of Defeat" but in the end we had the satisfaction of having given our very best, of acquitting ourselves.

Apart from a successful season, the CAIS Tournament in Montreal was definitely a highlight for the First Soccer Team. This was a weekend when all of the things we had been working towards came together. With perfect weather and high spirits we won our division handily. Perhaps the sweetest victory was against Hillfield Strathallan College to whom we had lost to in our previous three encounters. High hopes for our semi-final game against rival UCC were dashed, however, in a disappointing overtime loss.

The weekend concluded on a positive note with a friendly match against St. George's Vancouver.

In the ISAA league our proudest moment came in the semi-final game against UCC, where, with two of our best players injured and unable to play, we emerged victorious; winning in overtime with a superbly headed goal by Leon Nakagawa on a cross pass from Yamato Yoshioka. As coaches we realized at that point that the whole was greater than the sum of its parts.

We have eight graduating players this year:

Mark "Dirty Laundry" Landry - Mark was a tireless player. I have to admit that I didn't always find him to be the most graceful player. At half-time or sometimes even mid-game I would wave him over and ask if he was ok because of the way he sometimes "hobbled" around. In the end I think it was just a ruse to throw off opposition - it worked well, but it worked best on me!

Andrew "Hamburgler" Weedon - A positive and steady player, Andrew's strong attribute was his ability to control the pace of the game up front.

Matt "Wardo/Spam" Ward - MIP contender, Matt improved tremendously over the season. At the beginning of the season his play was sound but tentative; by the end of the year he had developed confidence and skill that made him an equally effective attacker and defender.

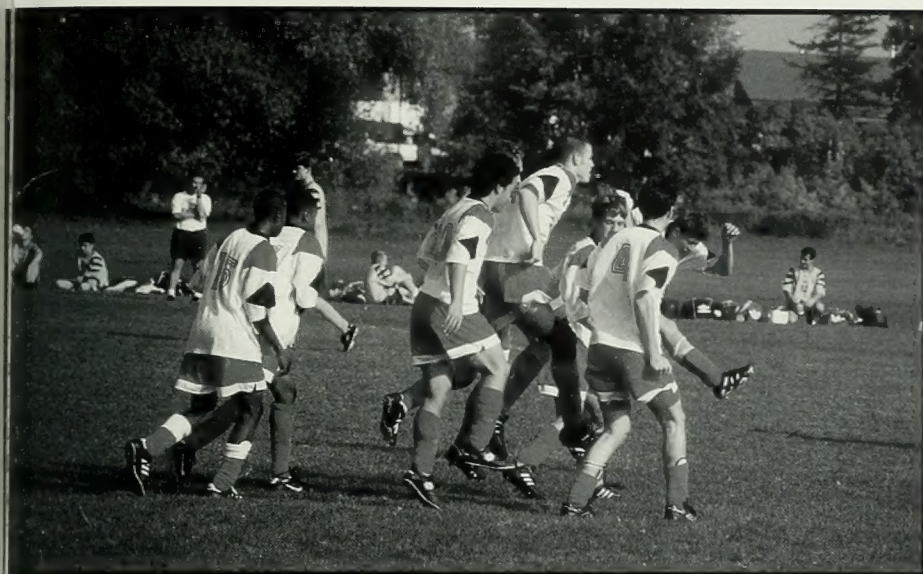

Jason "Pairs" Perrier - A "specialty player"; Jason's height, size and intelligent use of his strengths served us well in critical defensive situations.

Back Row: I.I. Barry, B. Hew, I.Y. Kadiri, J.R. Perrier, A.M. McNabb, D. Dawson (Esq.)

Ian Sinclair and team mates demonstrate the infamous "Bobby Bears" around some disappointed St. George's players. The team took on the name "Bobby Bear" for the new season.

Kevin Richards, the team's MVP, goes air born for a header, while his team mates look on.

FIRST SOCCER

Ibou "The Nose" Barry - "You can't keep a good man down!", Ibou made a spectacular come-back after a breaking his nose in the Early-Bird Tournament at Ridley. His tenacity was inspiring to the players and coaches and was best observed in the semi-final game against UCC.

Dan "Gynoo" Ginou - In many ways Dan was the teams "Wild Card". When things weren't going as planned Dan could/would always be "willing" to show us another way - often with the result of goal opportunities.

Greg "McStaple" Meuser - A tremendous Assistant Captain. Greg encouraged the team to reach deep within themselves to attain new heights. He is the only person I know that can spend more money on cab rides to an airport than on the flight itself!

Chris "Gump" Fusco - Our Captain this year - Chris displayed a lot of heart and sheer determination. Mr. Marshall and I thank him for his exceptional effort.

The choices for MVP and MIP have never been more difficult than they were this year.

Without a doubt, everyone on this team has realised the importance of good goaltending. Our MIP last year proved to be one of the most versatile players we have had at this level - playing superbly in both forward and defensive positions. With a strong forward contingent this year we were afforded the opportunity of trying this athlete out in net. He proved a quick study. With the support of our other goaltenders he learned enough to earn the spot of starting goalie. There can be no better choice for MIP, for the second year in a row, Chester Lo.

Several names came to our minds when considering the MVP; The unstoppable Yamato Yoshioka, the relentless Mark Landry, the severely focussed Greg Meuser, the unflappable Ibou Barry. But the MVP has to be the one player you do not want to play a game without. New to the team this season, this player quickly won the respect of the players, coaches and spectators. Quick, skilled and never selfish he proved to be the consummate team player. The MVP for 1997 is Kevin Richards.

We were privileged to have had Mr. Mark Marshall coaching with us. His skill in technique, his balance of humor and discipline, his pre-, mid-, and post game orations were truly an inspiration.

The team would like to extend a special thanks to Mr. Dawson for his valuable assistance and good humour.

This year the Saints began their season with a pre-season tournament at Hillfield-Strathallan. There we showed the league that we were contenders by leaving the tournament with four wins and only one loss, the one loss against Hillfield. With only three returning players we were a fairly new team but we set our goal for the ISAA Finals. Midway through the season problems arose such as injuries and the loss of our captain due to an unfortunate incident. This left a gap in our offence but we stepped up our play on the court and finished the season in fourth place. In the realignment, we reached the playoffs and ended the year in fourth place. With a young group of players remaining on the team, we should be a strong team in the league for the next few years.

This year's team was a very inexperienced team with only two returning players. For many of the players, it was their first time playing the game of volleyball. Although it was a team full of potential, the season ended before their skills had a chance to flourish. The future of this team looks very bright with all the returning young players, and good results are to be expected in years to come.

This year's under 16-volleyball team began and ended the season with a loss; however, the 15 games in between these bookend losses were all victories and had the team poised and peaking for the final tournament. Unfortunately, Crescent School proved a bit too steady for even our best hitters and we finally succumbed in an extremely close semi-final. This was a team full of talent and character which made coaching both fun and satisfying, and I thank them for their effort, for their eagerness to learn and for their unselfish participation throughout the season. I sincerely hope that those players leaving our team this year will continue to develop their volleyball skills and aim for a spot on the 1st team roster next year.

This year's U14 team didn't have much experience coming into the season, but they certainly had a lot of spirit. They slowly came together as a team despite the differences in their age and grade at the school. Quickly, they learned the basic skills and impressed the coaches with the strength of their serves. After a somewhat inconsistent season, the team managed to move from 5th place to third in the final tournament.

Our captain, Jarryd Stock, one of the youngest players on the team, was also our most valuable player. He was quick on the court, an excellent setter and despite an unusual stance, had a "wicked" serve. Eric Nei was also a strong player and very dependable. Ryan "what's this" Lo had some success with his "spikes" by the end of the season and nobody could "bump" the ball better than Daniel Chen. Brian Lin, our other setter, was agile and had a deadly serve, and Andrew Steeves, our most experienced player, really contributed to the team's success in the final tournament as did Liam Switzer, who could always be counted on for a good serve. Nobody could block the ball like David Wang (also the tallest member of the team) and nobody showed more team spirit than David Trott, who is young enough to play at this level again next year.

Good luck to all those team members moving on to the Under 16 level next year and our thanks to all the boys for an enjoyable season.

The SAC Senior and Junior Fencing teams made good progress this season as all members worked very hard during practices to develop their fencing skills. By attending two tournaments, both teams got a chance to fence against the Canadian National Team players. This provided an excellent opportunity for our fencers and allowed our coaches to set target levels for the following season. Our program is continuing to gain strength and experience which should stand us in excellent stead in the coming year. The Senior boy's cross country team was bolstered this year with a couple of new faces coming out who hadn't run in years past. Ben Wood made the switch from soccer to become our third runner, and others such as Anthony Dougall, Amaz Taufique, and Elais Zeekah also came out to lend a hand.

As the season started we were without one of our key runners, Jeff Mesina, who was out with an injury. Despite this setback, we still had a strong team as seen by our top 5 finish as a team. Soon with the return of Jeff, we really started to do well. At the Sunnybrook Invitational in finals for two weeks. This decision, didn't allow Daniel We to compete in Ottawa as he was in Australia for a triathlon. OFSAA, the team lead by Jeff Mesina, Ben Wood, Anthony Dougall, Justin Lin, and Elias Zeekah raced through a foot of snow in cold wintery conditions. The race turned out to be very beneficial for the whole team, lead by Jeff Mesina in 70 place.

We will miss our graduates next year, Jeff Mesina who has been a key member and leader for the last 5 years, Ben Wood, our new member who helped out a lot this year, and Anthony Dougall, Elias Zeekah, and Amaz Taufique all of whom lent support in the critical 4th and 5th man positions.

The 97 - 98 season for 1st hockey can be defined as the season of the narrow margin. The team worked very hard and prepared well for the 10 game shortened York Region schedule finishing in 1st place with a 9-0-1 record. The more competitive CISAA league proved a more difficult challenge and the team had to settle for a 3rd place finish and a semi-final playoff with 2nd place Ridley. This series was one of the highlights of the season. A high scoring team, Ridley jumped out to an easy 2-0 lead in game one. We managed to avoid any early panic and in fact, placed Ridley on the defensive as we fought back to win game one 4-3. The trend continued at Ridley in game 2 and we ended the series with a 4-0 win in one of the most satisfying games in recent memory. We outworked them and showed tremendous team confidence. That we lost to UCC 2-0 in the championship game didn't hurt our confidence. We fully expected to get one more shot at them during the OFSAA championship in Etobicoke.

That opportunity came our way courtesy of two very nerve wracking and heart rendering series with 1st Brother Andre and then Sacred Heart. Both series included overtimes that ended with curfews (both 1-1 games). The Sacred Heart series was especially challenging. Down 2-0 in the 3rd period of the fourth and final game, things didn't look very good for our team. We fought back to take the lead on an Ian Sinclair goal with only a few minutes remaining, only to lose the lead with 42 seconds left. It took an overtime goal by Mark Gooderham on a nice feed from Yamato Yoshioka to give us our OFSAA berth and another shot at UCC.

That shot came in the quarter finals and we were ready for it. In a classic game, we rode the phenomenal goalkeeping of Ian Snider to take UCC to the limit before losing in the 3rd overtime 2-1. It was a game to be proud of and a season to be proud of. Best of luck to the graduating cast, captains John Howes, Jason Perrier, Jamie Taylor, Andrew Weedon and Andrew Malloy. Thanks for your leadership.

The season began on a high note with SAC winning the TCS Pre-season Tournament beating the powerful Crescent team twice including a thrilling 4-3 final. Robbie Carter and Paul Perrier lead the team in scoring with 10 points each in 5 games.

The rest of the U16 season went as planned with little competition except for Crescent and UCC. Our only losses in the last three years have come at the hands of UCC. This year being no exception we lost 3-1 during the season's exhibition schedule. (it was a bad game!!!)

Along with a couple of players from TierII, Jason Kaptyn and Scott Murdock and goaltending help from Graeme Brown and Matt Tsuji we competed in the York Region U17 league and while wins were hard to come by, the experience and tougher competition helped develop a much stronger team for the CISAA final tournament.

On the final weekend the U16 Hockey team won the CISAA U16 End of the Year Tournament in the most dramatic fashion. After finishing the round robin portion with wins against Ridley(8-0) and Crescent(5-2) and losing to the dreaded UCC (5-0) SAC entered the Semi-finals against the No.2 ranked Crescent and beat them for the 4th time this season (8-5). Finally we reached the finals against the No.1 ranked UCC, who as usual expected to win. SAC played a near flawless game, ending regulation time 1-1 yet dominating play. After a scoreless overtime the two teams went to a five man shoot out where SAC hit a crossbar and a post but neither team could score. Finally with 4 shooters in a sudden-death shoot-out, Wes Swanson scored a goal reminiscent of Peter Forsberg's gold winning goal against Team Canada a number of years ago and Mike Campbell made the biggest save of the season on UCC's next shooter. SAC won for the second year in a row.

The coaches would like to thank all the members of the team. Everyone had a role and made a contribution to the successful conclusion of the season. A special thanks to the players graduating to the next level of play Jack Popiel, Kyle Walsh, Robbie Carter, James Allen, Paul Perrier, Stephen Garipey, Eric Mancini, Ross Marshall and Mike Campbell.

The voting was extremely close for the MIP award with Peter McClelland and Nick Weedon getting a lot of votes for their improved play but the one player who towards the end of the year had become a consistent scorer, good penalty killer and fine checker and winner of the MIP award was James Allen.

The voting was also close for MVP between two close friends. In the end only one gets the prize but both are deserving. Finishing second in the voting was Robbie Carter who led the team in goals, many were scored when they were needed most. He was a positive, funny and intense leader and a pleasure to coach. Thanks Robbie! The winner of this year's MVP was this team's leader in the dressing room, on the ice and on the score sheet and I predict a future leader on 1st Hockey, Paul Perrier.

This was an enjoyable season but a championship or tournament win was never in reach. Realising this we focused on playing everyone and improving skills. Each player was a better hockey player by the end of the season. No one improved more than our MIP Andrew Steeves who moved back to defence and earned a regular shift.

Unlike years ago we have no trouble finding goalies these days. We were fortunate to have two strong goalies in net with Tyler Hurst and Andrew Gosbee. We did not have a lot of offence but we could always count on Steve Thompson and Brent Brandham to put the puck in the net.

Our MVP goes to the most talented player to play for U14 hockey in several years. Luc Zorratto is fast, tough and a great play maker. Many opposing defencemen found their pocket picked by Luc as they underestimated his speed. Everyone enjoyed the opportunity to play with Luc and so it is fitting that he earns our MVP award.

This year again the team was a nice mix of veterans and rookies. The competition in the league was strong and the team went through both good and bad times. We were lead by our top scorers and fastest skaters, Paul O'Hea and Mathieu Soulie, and the defense was anchored by Joe Farrugia, Dan Reid and Rob Cousineau who checked every opponent in our zone. Between the posts, the job was well done by our two goalies, Chris Draper and Chris Wakefield.

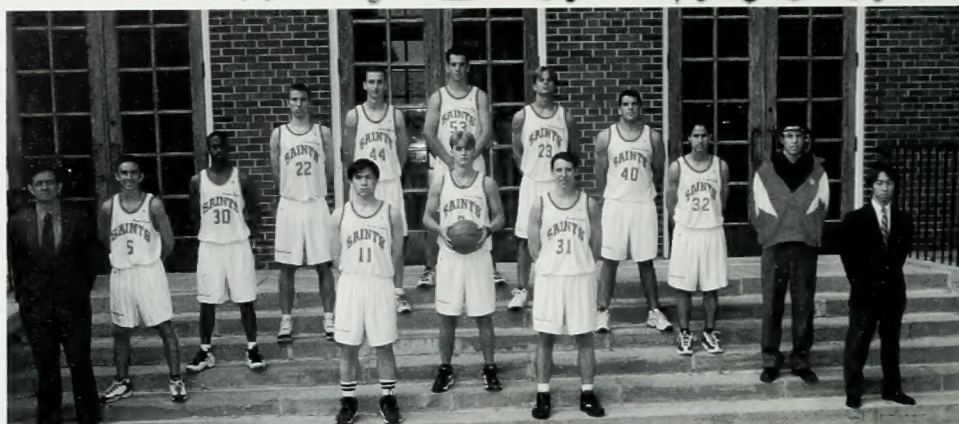

The team did something special this year when we went to Montreal participating in a tournament. We finished in the semi-finals and the team showed a lot of pride and strength.

The team would like to thank everyone who helped both on and off the ice, especially to Mr. Kimmerer, Paul Bedard, and Mr. Dudley.

The 1997-98 First Basketball season was different and exciting in many ways. Only three core players returned from the previous season; coach Josselyn would have to implement a radical new system to get the team back to the finals for the fourth time in a row. His patented five-man offence was discarded for a new full court, 10 man, 32-minute havoc inducing trap. The players for this trap had to be versatile and very fit. Mr. Kinney's daily abuse on the bikes whipped us into shape, allowing us to run our opposition into the ground. Our chaotic style confused and frustrated teams that had more talent but less heart and determination. Games during the regular season that seemed close or bleak could turn with one steal from our kamikaze defensive specialist Kevin Richards (MIP).

On defense two units stormed the court, creating turnovers and scoring chances. On offence, "Rock and Roll" set the tone. No fixed system let our players exert their creative talents. Anchored by MVP Kevin Liu's rainbow jumper and devastating post play, everybody contributed. Dan Graf played silky smooth, while Tom Bilecki constantly got his. Team captain Ryan Evans and flashy upstart Nick Abraham ran the point and spread the scoring. Our team chemistry yielded two interchangeable units that eventually over powered less conditioned teams. During one stint in the regular season, injuries and illness plagued our potential but not our moral. Coach Josselyn used his motivational skill and experience to push the team (often less than 10 players) to new heights. Piling up the victories, our exciting new style packed the house. Bringing diverse fans to see their hometown heroes. Dave Sutton and Adam Newton patrolled the paint and cleared the boards. Sylvain Desrochers chugged up and down the court making the perfect pass. Utility players such as Wayne Moyer, Matt Ward, and Brian Hracs used their versatile skills to exploit the opposition's weaknesses.

Memorable games against rival schools would later spawn our finest games. A brutal match with Huron Heights resulted in a one-point loss but a gain of valuable experience. Losing twice to league power Royal St. George's fuelled our vengeful determination. Games against other teams solidified our record, highlighted by a fifty point win over Newmarket, and a come back victory in overtime against Trinity. With balance and camaraderie, the Fun Police (as we were renamed), were ready for the playoffs.

Playing in two leagues meant a tough road towards reaching the finals for the fourth time in a row in the CISAA division, and an OFSAA berth in the York Region League. The two opening games were convincing and rewarding, beating Crescent by 30 at home and Aurora High with flavorful style. In the York Region League, highly favored Middle Field presented a formidable challenge, but the Saints gave them all they could dish out until finally losing by a marginal amount. Perhaps this game was to prepare the team for Royal St. George's. Downtown, confronted by a hostile crowd, the "Fun Police" came to perform. Kevin Liu dominated the game on offence, and the Saints trap pushed the pace to unprecedented levels. The team's superior conditioning really paid off as we literally ran them off their own court. Winning by 16 points the team and fans will always remember that game as the highlight of the season, as it exemplified the team's fun spirit and great teamwork. "We always played as a team, win or lose" was the motto, but unfortunately in the final game against a well-disciplined Hillfield squad, we lost the game, but not our pride.

The team would like to thank Mr. Kinney and Mrs. Perrier for all their contributions in keeping us healthy and running hard.

It was with great pleasure that I had the opportunity to coach the Under 14 Basketball team this year. With Mr. Somerville's retirement, I was able to move up to this level from the Under 13 league. As a result I received a chance to work with some players for two years and build upon our successes of last year. A special mention must be made of Richard Choi, Derrick Choi, Brian Lin, Ryan Lo and Brad Lorrimer who moved up with me on this journey.

As always we had a good addition of new students who added much to the above nucleus. Our season was one of much improvement. From a 32 point loss to UCC in November to a 6 point loss to the same team in the championship semi-final in February was a clear indication of our growth as a team.

Over the course of the season we compiled a record of 13 wins and 6 losses. Some of our highlights were the capturing of our own Invitational Tournament at the end of January for the first time ever and outstanding challenges to the eventual championship finalists, UCC and Crescent, in mid February. Our season came to a finale at Hillfield on February 28 we finished in a tie for 3rd place after an incredible performance against UCC.

I could mention some members of the team but really this was a fun group of young men who showed much class in all their performances. I do need to thank our team captains Ariel Absera, Derrick Choi and Brian Lin for their support and leadership this season. Three members of our squad deserve special recognition for their efforts this season. Our two Most Improved Players were Ryan Lo and Brad Lorrimer who have developed into outstanding players over the season. Our Most Valuable Player was Ariel Absera who at times had to carry the offensive point production and rebounding battle on his back. It is their dedication to excellence which makes coaching them so enjoyable. It is with a touch of sadness that I write this report as this fine team moves up the ranks and I wish them well in their future basketball careers at SAC.

This year's U13 basketball team had the distinction of being the smallest team in the CISAA, but they were definitely not the weakest. Throughout the season, they played with heart and hustle to overcome some teams with much bigger athletes.

The highlight of the year was the trip to Glenlyon-Norfolk school in Victoria, B. C. for the national U13 tournament. All 15 players on the team made the trip, as well as a few parents. They enjoyed hiking, site seeing, swimming and spending time with their billet families. They also played what was likely the best game of their season. They came within 2 points of a very strong St. George's Vancouver team who eventually went on to the tournament finals.

MIP goes to Mark Cheng who proved over the course of the season that he could hold his own against players literally twice his size.

MVP goes to Diego Salas who led the team from whatever position he was asked to play, from point guard to power forward.

There is more interest in swimming every year. This year fourteen schools competed at the CISAA meet for a total of 229 athletes.

SAC competed at three levels this year. The traditional First or U20 & Second or U16 teams were also bolstered by the Lower School program, which allows students to compete in U14, U13 & U12 age groups.

We also competed in the York Region High School League where we did very well and were able to qualify to go to the OFSAA Championships, which were held in Etobicoke this year. This meet is not one that the whole team is eligible to go to but one that individual swimmers must qualify for by meeting a provincial time standard. SAC qualified nine swimmers. There are two divisions that we entered, Open (for club swimmers) and the High School Division. We placed 8th out of 25 in the open and 19th out of 53 in the High School Division.

The U16 Team had nine swimmers with a wide range of experience but always seemed to run into difficulty with illness or injury and often did not have a full team on meet days. The swimmer that made the greatest strides to improve this year and was awarded the MIP was Victor Marcos. There was no MVP award this year. UCC won the final meet with 242 points and SAC came in 4th with 74 points.

The U20 Team had thirteen swimmers that proved to be a force to be reckoned with early in the season. Led by Captain Dan Wells, last year's members of Ryan Devald, Carlos Morodo, & Omar Sands were bolstered by newcomers Anthony Dougall, Matt Mallette, Alex Tanton, & Steve Amell. This year's team had the strength and depth to beat most other teams in the league. It became evident that the Championship meet would become a contest between UCC & SAC. Unfortunately UCC prevailed by a mere 8 points thus preventing SAC from back to back championships. The MIP was awarded to Steve Amell and the MVP to Captain Dan Wells by their teammates.

I would like to thank my three other Coaches: Geoffrey Smith for putting up with me for another year. Anne Shields for her energy & enthusiasm with the U16 and junior swimmers; and Amanda Thorne for her expertise as both a former swimmer and Coach of the Newmarket Sting Rays. We will miss Amanda next year but wish her well as she returns to finish her education degree at Waterloo.

Their determination to improve and do their best was evident in their successful finishing. Congratulations to all u16 players.

Under 14 Squash 1998 League Champions!

We are League Champions again, winning seven matches out of the eight we played through the season, and defeating UCC two out of three (though our arch-rivals deservedly won the final tournament).

Our best players were our keenest: Farhan Nathwani (our Captain & MVP), David Nudds & Brandon Donnelly were on court daily five minutes after classes; Patricio Musi wins the MIP, losing only once all season; Jaime Arrieta was our strongest player on the last day; Michael Bottomley wins the most eager award, and Ricardo Rodriguez our most sportsmanlike. Others enjoyed skiing on Wednesdays. A great year.

1998 Senior Squash Team

This year's Second Squash Team was a good group of players who worked hard to improve their skills each day. They did very well all year long in the ISAA league, but unfortunately we were not at our best for the actual final tournament and finished fourth overall. I would like to mention Jeff Thompson who is graduating this year and played number one for the entire year on the seconds. Two other players that need to be mentioned are Peter Balls and Royce Lo who improved tremendously this year. The MIP Award went to Elias Zekiah as he has shown great improvement in his game and he was fully committed to becoming a better player.

First Team

Our First Team's goal this year was to win ISAA Championship and nothing less. Every player committed himself to this goal and worked extremely hard at each and every practice. We dominated the league meets all season long and came in second to Choate at our first SAC Invitational Squash Tournament. We also traveled to play three New England private schools, which gave us the opportunity to have some great exposure to good squash playing. Our Firsts Team included Amaz Taufique, Anthony Dougall, Alan Leung, Asad Haque, Ben Hew and Ryan Brandham.

In the ISAA Squash Final, we had a fantastic day. Both Amaz and Anthony had strong competition and accumulated important points for our team. But at both the other flights our players dominated: Alan won the B flight and Asad was the finalist and in the C flight Ben Hew was victorious and Ryan the finalist.

It was a great moment when we realized that we were in a position to achieve our goal of ISAA Champions.

In such a season of hard work and dedication it is difficult to single out a most improved because all players improved tremendously, but this year's MIP was awarded to Asad Haque. I believe that he has made a big step to becoming a great player.

I would like to thank Anthony Dougall for his support and effort through out his career at SAC, as he played on our First team for the last three years.

This year's MVP had an outstanding year. His hard work on court and his help and support in the squash program was simply first class. Thank you, Amaz Taufique.

The SAC Cross-Country Skiing team has been one of the most successful teams over the past years winning three consecutive ISAA and York Region Championships. This year was supposed to be the fourth allowing us once again to climb to the top of the podium in the Independent School's race and to qualify for OFSAA by winning the York Region title.

The season began with the most discouraging problem, a lack of snow that required the team to find other ways of training than the actual skiing. At some point, we knew, the snow would arrive and all the cardio and weight training would pay off. It was a great demonstration of team spirit to deal with this situation and work hard until the snow finally came.

Once the racing season had started we were focused on repeating our past successes which didn't seem easy as we only had five racers, two of whom had never before experienced the joys and pains of cross-country skiing. The lack of snow had also cancelled races necessary for our preparation, so it turned out that ISAA was our first race. Despite valiant efforts from our MIP Matt Mallette, and Dan Wells, our MVP, we had to settle with a second place behind a strong TCS team. Nobody, however, could keep us away from winning the York Regions title and qualifying for OFSAA in which Dan Well finished 16th among the best skiers in the province.

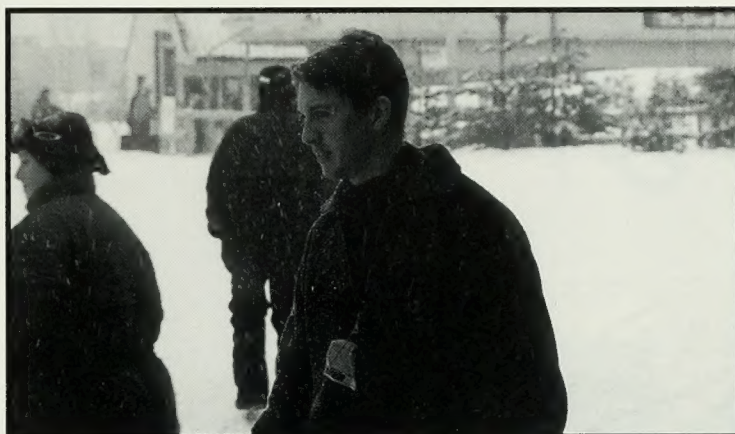

A different kind of race was the Algonquin Lopet, a 27km race in which Matt Mallette, Greg Meuser and Ben Wood participated. It turned out to be a rough and narrow course with steep up-hills and dangerous down-hills that presented all of us with a new challenge that everybody mastered. Without a doubt future skiing teams will return to such an experience that is a little different from the normal highschool races.

Besides participating in races our team had its usual share of interesting experiences. From Greg's unexpected trip to Haliburton and his baby toothbrush to interesting driving experiences that included loose hubcaps and an icy driveway, to our meal at Godfather's Pizza that is turning into an annual Cross Country skiing event, we had almost as much fun on the road as at the races themselves. Many thanks go to Mr. Gaertner who never ceased to share his experience and enthusiasm for the sport with the team and always drove us to the races safely.

It was the most challenging season I have coached in 14 years at SAC. As defending OFSAA Champions it was obvious from the outset what the greatest challenge was going to be - to repeat. We had set a new standard for ourselves, and the players were very aware of this. They worked hard, and on our day, proved we were capable of beating the best in the province this year. But it was the inconsistency day-to-day that was most difficult. We faced constant ups and downs - injury, ineligibility, unreliability - sometimes just bad luck. Putting the same XV on the field two days running never happened. However, after Ridley, a game we lost in the last minute, in the next four weeks, we had a run of 7 wins and a tie. In one week we beat TCS 27-0, and UCC 12-6. But playoff time proved to be too much. We were spread too thin. We lost to UCC in the semifinals, and Fr. Bressani in the York Region playoffs - two teams that ended up playing each other in the OFSAA semifinals. John Lowes and Brad Ferris were fine, inspiring co-captains, and the team was well lead. Rob Cousineau brought his experience, power and presence to the field wherever he was allowed to play; with him (and Tim Jackson last year) you can now see that it is well within your reach for a talented, committed player to reach international World Cup standard at the under 19 level. The path is clear: SAC, summer club rugby, Ontario, Canada and the world. Thanks from John MacMillan and I to these three and the 11 other grads who played. So on to next year. Many fine players returning and others waiting to advance, the prospect of a tour, and our centenary expectations all combine to make it a year to savour.

The last couple years have been known as "rebuilding" years as the track team tried to get back into its winning form. The past two years we managed to come in a close second, which would be good for any other school, but not SAC. After losing by 16 points the first year and 4 the next, a rivalry was building between the green guys from Toronto and us.

Over the last few years the track program has been declining in numbers for the younger divisions and to regain our crown we needed stronger midget and junior teams, and key performances from everyone on the team. Our prayers had been answered as the team as a few new students joined the team and proved to be a worthy addition to the team.

Before the ISAA meet we had to prove ourselves at the York Region track meet. This would be the first test to see if we had what it takes to win our 7th ISAA Championship in the last 9 years. The team gave it all they had and earned a second place finish behind the always-powerful Cardinal Carter. This had been the best result for SAC in the York region for a long time. Not only did we do well as a team, but we managed to have 11 athletes qualify for the Central Region track meet. Justin Albury, Ibou Barry, Marc Hodges, Pete McClelland, Wayne Moyer, Tat Musewe, Mike Palmer, Kevin Richards, Zach Russell, Dan Wells and Ben Wood all qualified in their respective events. The Central meet was also filled with excitement as two athletes qualified for the Ontario Finals. Dan Wells for 1500m and 3000m and Kevin Richards for triple jump, both managed to get 16th in their events.

With a heart-felt speech by team veteran Jeff Messina, the team went to the ISAA meet with a hunger for first place. In the end the track team managed to squeak a win. After a two-year absence from the SAC trophy case the Track & Field Championship trophy was back where it belonged. It will be tough next year to repeat this year's feat with the loss of some key athletes. But this year's team wasn't expected to win at the beginning of the school year, so we'll just have to wait and see.

The 1997-98 tennis season stood out as one of the most memorable ones in recent history. Starting the year as the underdogs, we practised furiously and surprised everyone as we streaked through the season undefeated . . . that was until we faced UCC.

Nevertheless, we entered the final tournament with a respectable ranking of second. Spurred on by the desire to win the championship, the team played at its highest level ever. From Kevin "Smiley" Richards zipping to every shot the whole day, to Edgardo Fenton and Leslie Wong taunting their opponents, to Anthony Dougal and Amaz Taufique playing textbook perfect serve and volley tennis (albeit bein12 without the important contributions by team members Wyn Cheong, Carlos Morodos, and Jose and by coach Ms. K, who we thank for guiding us through season (and also for calling the limo-thanks Ms. K! I will never forget the morning I saw it parked in front of the dining hall!!!) .

Best of luck to the graduating players and our Mexican "friends" who will be leaving us. With three returning players for the spring of 1999, we will work hard fulfil our goal of winning the championship in our Centennial year. Let's go Saints!

The second tennis team had quite an interesting season. In our very first game against HTS, we had an overwhelming victory, proving that we are not a team to be taken easily. Along the way, we improved our tennis skills and posed as a competitive threat to other teams in the CISAA. We were coached by the talented and experienced Mr. R. Bedard, who lead us in the right direction in every practise and game. We played our hearts out under his leadership and guidance.

The CISAA tournament that was hosted by SAC included 4 teams. In addition to our team, HTS, UCC A, UCC B made up the competing teams. We beat HTS in the first game, but we had difficulty against UCC A, in which their combination of first team and second team players pushed us to third place in the tournament. Our first singles player Ken Ho played his best, although he had to play against a provincial player in some occasions. All the players had confidence in playing at end of the season through the experience, and there were some great matches along the season. It was a great season for all of us!

The season began in incredible weather. Instead of shovelling the snow off the courts at the end of March, this year (thanks to El Nino...) we were able to start the season in pleasant, sunny, 20° weather, wearing shorts.

We had a great season, playing 8 regular season matches, and managing to win 4 out of the 8. Despite the strong competition, we looked forward to playing at the End-of-Season Tournament. We were hopeful of finishing in the top three, because we made steady progress, and everyone looked strong at the level they played at.

Things however didn't go too well, and we failed to advance with a record of 2 Wins and 2 Losses. Everyone played very hard and I compliment them for that! I thank all the players on the team for making the season a rewarding and enjoyable one!

Attendance, behaviour, enthusiasm and effort were all constants, making it a pleasure showing up at practice and matches.

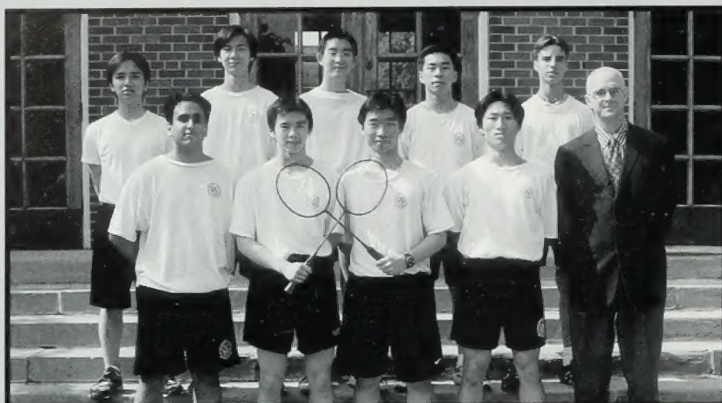

Given the way we performed at the final tournament, the M.I.P. could have gone to anyone of the players. This year's award goes to Patrick Harris.

While Jaime Arrieta won 80% of his matches, the M.V.P. is awarded to a 3 year veteran of U14 tennis. He improved leaps and bounds this year and will have a shot at making 1st tennis next year. - Derrick Choi.

Without a doubt, this was our most powerful team to date. Led by Samuel Lam (two time OFSAA "A" Flight Gold Medalist), we ended the regular season undefeated. Our line-up (for most matches) was as follows:

1st Singles: Samuel Lam
 2nd Singles: Ricky Luk
 3rd Singles: Dan Thorne
 1st Doubles: Chester Lo & Asad Haque
 2nd Doubles: Royce Lo & Albert Leung

In the final tournament, however, we finished in 2nd place. Having decided that we had 1st and 2nd singles sewn up, other schools moved their talent into doubles play. Nevertheless, we still had a good chance of taking that crucial 3rd slot needed to clinch first place. We were looking to either 1st Doubles or 3rd Singles to win the day. However, both entries buckled under game-day pressure and came up empty. Some lessons have to be learned in composure and honing the winning edge of we are to defeat our rivals from the school down south next year.

Congratulations to our graduating players Royce Lo and Howard.

Lam and Luk Smash Their Way to OFSAA Gold

Samuel Lam and Ricky Luk were simply overpowering on their way to winning OFSAA gold in the "A" Flight of the men's doubles competition played from May 1st through May 3rd at York University. Entering the tournament as second seeds, Lam and Luk faced off with the first seeded team from TRICITY for the golden game. Up to this point the fearless Saints were undefeated not only in matches, but carried a clean sweep of individual games.

Luk had been having some difficulty with short serves that were just a bit high and suffered the insult of having the bird promptly smashed back at him for a few times. Although it was difficult to coax emotions out of this stalwart crew before the final smash had fallen, it never seemed to be a factor as Lam returned to OFSAA to follow-up his gold medal singles' performance in 1997 and Luk took to the boards for his first appearance.

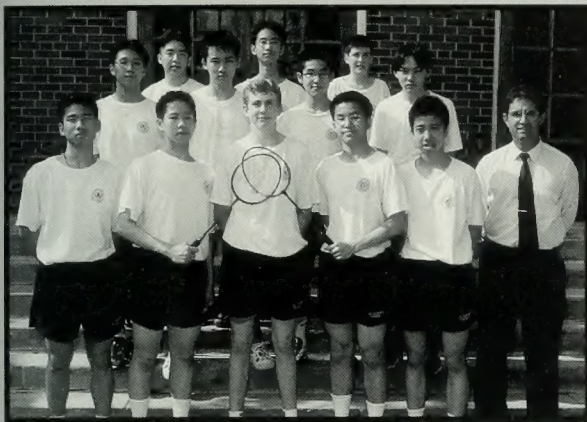

In the final match however, all nerves were set aside and both players flawlessly executed a barrage of smashing and deft play that left the opponents reeling. The match concluded to warm applause from a large audience of badminton enthusiasts who came to watch the best from around Ontario: Lam/Luk defeated Tai/Chin 15-7, 15-8.

Congratulations!

This year's team was made up of 12 players with everyone playing at some point in the season. A lot of experimentation and a lot of 7:30am practices resulted in a pretty strong team, although we knew that Crescent and Royal St.Georges were the powerhouse teams this year. At the end of the year tournament, we had outstanding results from, our 1st doubles team of Kenneth King and Louis Leong, 3rd singles William Cheng and 1st singles Paul Perrier who all won the consolation finals pushing the team to the expected third place finish.

William Cheng worked extremely hard all season to improved his play- he almost won the belt! His efforts earned him the MIP award.

Paul Perrier's victory in the consolation final was especially gratifying because his win came over the player who beat him earlier in the tournament and it was the highlight of the U16 tournament. Paul was ahead in the 3rd game 13-11 when muscle cramps hit both his legs and the match looked to be doubt as he collapsed in pain on the floor. But after a 10 minutes break, Paul quickly ended the game, taking away 1st place overall from RSG at the tournament. His leadership and consistent efforts all season earned Paul the MVP award.

Well done guys and thanks for your efforts!!

The U14 badminton team had a very successful season. Despite the lack of practise time, all players were committed to improving their skills.

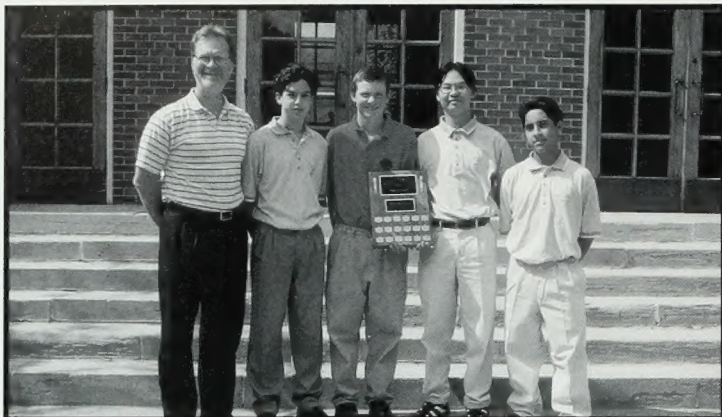

We did not lose a match in regular season play and were confident of a strong finish at the final tournament. Brian Lin and Eric Nei won the first doubles division and Richard Choi won the third singles division. Unfortunately, this victories were not enough to topple Crescent School, who beat us out of first place by only 4 points.

The team would like to offer special thanks to Mr. Fines and Mr. Kimmerer for their assistance this year.

This year's MVP, as chosen by their teammates was Richard Choi. The MIP award goes to Ryan Lo.

JUNIORS

The junior golf team had a successful season last year. During the tournaments on the season, St. Andrew's junior team won once, tied for second and first, and came second. Quite consistent results!

The ISAA championship was based on the most consistent team instead of the team who won the ISAA final tournament. The junior team was successful in edging out Appleby College in the final to win the ISAA's.

The team consisted of two members, Brent Brandham and Diego Salas. In the first tournament, Diego posted an excellent score of 80 while Brent posted an 81 to win by over 20 shots! In the second tournament, Brent's 83 with Diego's 85 came up short against Appleby. We tied with UCC in this tournament but they ceased to be a threat by not placing well in the tournament.

In the third tournament, Brent and Diego each posted 83's to tie for our first win against Trinity, who came out of nowhere. In the ISAA's, Diego's 83 with Brent's 81 resulted in a second place finish behind UCC.

The 1997-1998 golf season was arguably the best in the College's history. At the beginning of the term we had such a strong showing at tryouts we decided to field two First Teams instead of the traditional one. The first tournament went incredibly well with the Senior (A) team (consisting of Matt Tsuji, Liam Donnelly, Jason Kaptyn and Ryan Brandham) destroying the field of twenty teams by ten shots. The Senior (B) team (consisting of George Brown, Rob Gray, Scott Murdock, and James Lee) also fared well placing third, two shots out of second.

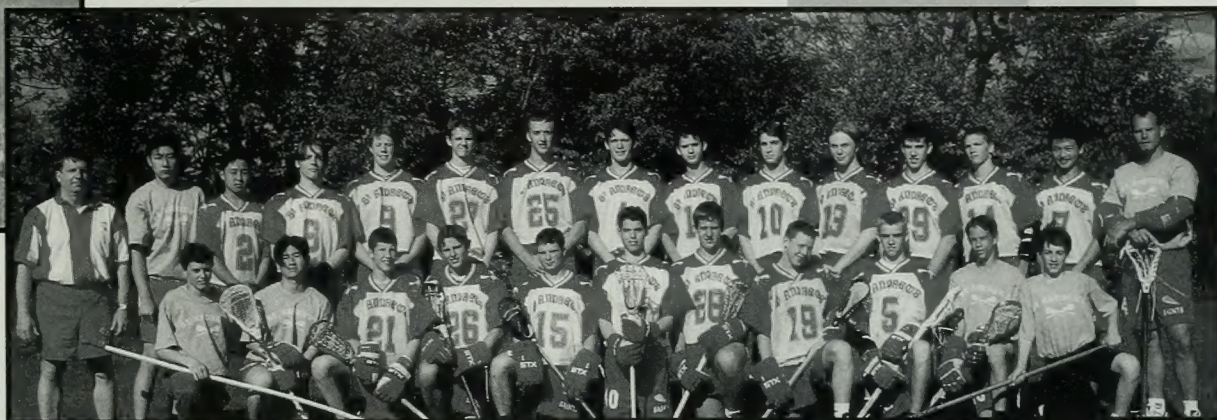

Our second tournament was the best of the year in which the Senior A team placed first by 15 shots averaging 80.5 per round. Entering the final tournament our Senior A team had won every tournament by a minimum of 7 shots. Our Senior B team was in third place overall and looking for a strong finish to knock Ridley out of second place. As was the constant all year, our Senior A team destroyed the field once again (this time by 25 shots) claiming the ISAA golf championship. Unfortunately the Senior B team was not able to claim second place position but finished a strong third in front of many other schools' Senior A teams.

The team would like to thank Mr. Gaertner for all his hard work in organizing tournaments and leading us to victory. We have no graduating players this year so hopefully ISAA championships will become a regular occurrence for SAC golf teams.

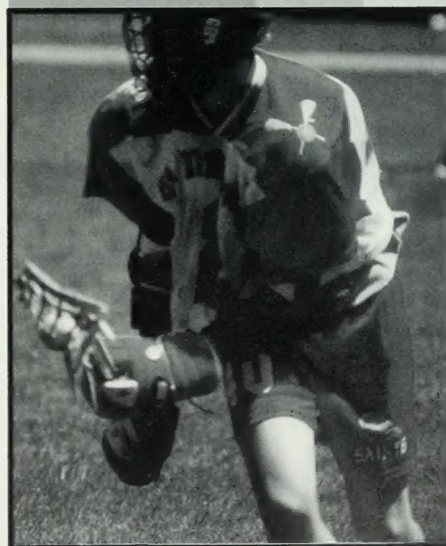

LACROSSE

This season was one of our best as a team. As I stood at the podium delivering my final sports term speech I mentioned that there weren't any pretty garlands for us, no plaques or trophies, no crazy ribbons - just our pride. Saints Lacrosse had finally come into its own this year. We are no longer rebuilding. The empire has begun. With so many enthusiastic new players coming along each year we are in an enviable position. Lacrosse is a highly competitive sport. We played 12 games split between two leagues and faired well.

It was true that our competition was better than we were. But only marginally. We stepped up to the challenge most days and did ourselves proud. That is our reward. We scored 43 goals and only allowed 54. Our goalie situation underwent a drastic change with Jon Price stepping between the six foot pipes in mid season. We owe him much. Our defence wielded their awe-inspiring 8 foot sticks at foe and friend. Sometimes even hitting our own players, refs, goalies and grass alike. But we held our ground and did it well.

This year marked our largest squad, carrying around 25 players. We bid farewell to a few key players as well: Jason Perrier, Captain and lead defence, Andrew Malloy, Captain and left shot on power play, Jon Price, goalie and the most bandaged player in SAC history. As we say goodbye to those who played hard we welcome the new batch of athletes. Look for a team picture board soon.

The softball team this year was great. At the beginning of the season, the team's winning potential was quite evident. We beat Ridley and lost a close game with Appleby, who won by only one run. During this time the players were enjoying themselves and having fun. Jeff Thompson led the team with the highest batting average and always struck the ball well and with confidence. Albert Tsai, a new and improving player, was superb in the outfield when everything was on the line.

The captain of the team was Colin Hsu, who was extremely skillful in all aspects of Softball. Both his leadership and his skill earned him the MVP. His brother, Orson Hsu, earned the MIP for his consistent improvement in all facets of the game. Wyai-Ruan and Kent Pitken were two other players that showed a great deal of improvement and commitment and should be congratulated for their efforts. Other big hitters include Michael Cheng, Joey Yeh, and Mike Terrence Liu for giving us hope when we were losing games and to Warren and Tom for their efforts and contributions.

A special thanks goes out to Mr. McGee, Mr. Dunford, and Mr. Bedard for their commitment to the team and the long hours of coaching.

This year Cricket at St. Andrew's College was revived by Mr. Staunton after being dormant for the previous season. The season began in April along with the other 3rd term sports. Our everyday practise field was the remnants of the pole vault run-up. Suffice to say it was pretty sparse. But it did serve its purpose until the fields were dry enough to be played on. By the time May rolled around, we had moved to the Maple Leaf Cricket Ground in King City everyday to practise. Our skills and feel for the game had improved drastically since the first day by the time our first game drew near.

However, the heart of this team could make up for the lack of skills as we lost to Ridley in our first game. Through this experience, we as a team found out what Cricket in Canada was truly about. We also ended up losing games to TCS and UCC, but in the last game of the season, SAC Cricket came through and beat Ridley, ending the season on a much needed positive note.

Although it seems that MVP Devin Moosaie will not be joining us next year, we will return with hopefully some new blood to revive the Cricket team for our Centennial year. Good Luck to graduating players Anthony Dougall and Amaz Taufique.

DECA

DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) a club dedicated to teaching youth business skills in particular Marketing and Entrepreneurship, met at lunch once per week and more frequently as the 20th Annual Provincial Competition approached. There were approximately twenty members of this club who spent their time learning business language and marketing techniques.

The provincial competition took place during March break and a small delegation of 8 students represented the College. The competition took place at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre.

There were 1100 delegates from High Schools from across Ontario competing against each other in varying competitions. Each competition had both an oral and written component with judging being done by business representatives from various industries.

This year's delegation performed in stellar fashion with each delegate winning a ribbon for finishing in the top ten in the written competition for their category and Alan Leung finishing in the top twenty in both his oral competitions as well as in the top twenty overall. Steve Chee finished in the top twenty in Oral 1 and top twenty over all... Both winning a Provincial medal for their respective categories. A very successful day.

"Our Greatest Asset,

or our Greatest Enemy"

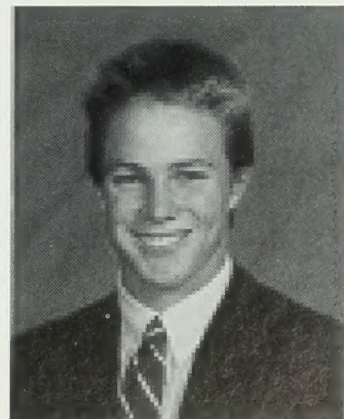

Steve Amel

Everybody knows this feeling... It's September 1st, and the new school year is fresher than the dew that morning as always we enter the academic year with "Great Expectations." My question is what do these Great Expectations do? Personally I always seem to start off the school year at a 98% clip, with aspirations and expectations of a top ten finish. Ah, what a great world it would be if my Great Expectations didn't always go unrealised, leaving my weak will power naked and exposed to the world. Great Expectations are supposed to give us something to shoot for, but in reality they are the reason we don't succeed.

This September, I wandered back onto the property of St. Andrew's College with a renewed sense of self-commitment. I was going to make the football team, act in Macbeth, eat more healthy food and of course get a 90% average. My expectations were so great that in a sense I rebelled against myself. Sitting up in my room at 2 O'clock in the morning doing homework, I needed something to curse at... It could be my teachers, but it wasn't their fault that I was up at such an ungodly hour. I thought about blaming my roommate for my sour state of affairs, but he was asleep and that would be no fun. The terrible fact of the matter was, that it was my Great Expectations that had driven me into the bowels of the morning. It wasn't my commitment to succeed but rather my desire to rebel that was driving me to sleep half way through my homework. I wasn't working for my own personal benefit, I was working for a shallow promise I had made to myself to reach 3 minutes earlier. That promise to reach to be a 90% student had become my biggest enemy.

I'm never going to be a 90% student, get serious. This is in reality because I'm not willing to give up the social aspect of my life. There is so much more to life than the number you get on your report card every June. Does that number really fulfil your great expectations? It might if your whole world is based on memorisation and regurgitation, so that you can have a perfect mark. But for the guy who gets a 75% and works his tail off, the most important thing is the moment you shake hands with that teacher on Prize Day, and thank him for making you a little better, and a little closer to whatever you want to be. That's what fulfils my "Great Expectations," and from this day forward that's what my Expectations will be.

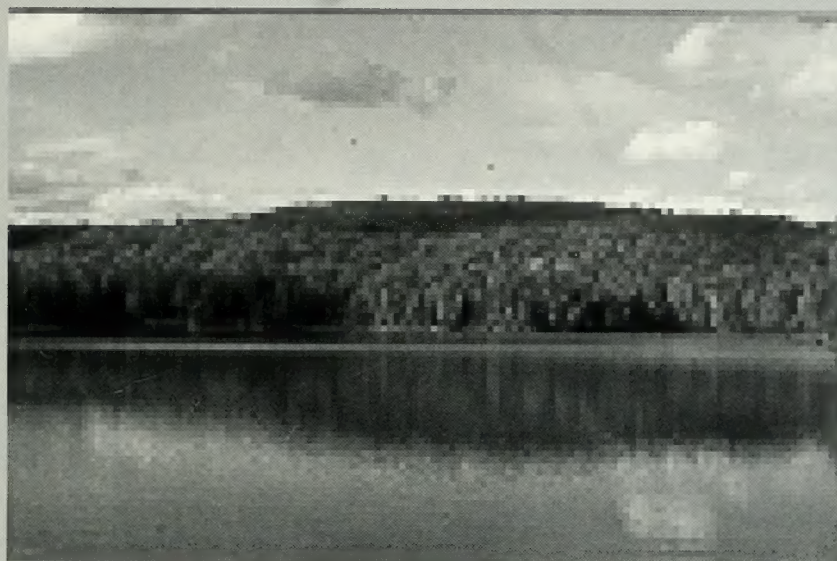

The next time I look at St. Andrew's College and admire its fields from the summer sun, I will lay down a new set of Great Expectations, that are based upon what I want to be. From now on Great Expectations will serve as a tool that will allow me to honestly look in the mirror every morning, with a solid sense of accomplishment. That's what my Great Expectations are, and if you're really honest with yourself, that's what your Great Expectations should be.

Haliburton Trip

The "ENVIRO CLASS" of 1997-98 once again took the ride up to Haliburton Forest to tackle their challenging environmental and outdoor activities program. This trip marked the sixth consecutive year that SAC has gone to Haliburton Forest and it was once again full of individual and team challenges, surprises and lots of fun. Student's visited the "WOLF CENTRE" and were able to see a pack of wolves being fed. The "mountain biking" over the hilly terrain proved very challenging for some, especially for Nick and Ian as they pulled each other by rope when Ian's bike chain broke. The forestry, outdoor skills and orienteering has always been one of the more challenging day's activities as students and group leaders split into groups, travel through the thick "brush" and for six consecutive years manage to find each other just in time for a satisfying lunch break. The "new" favourite activity for students now seems to be the "ROPES COURSE", which in some sections hangs over a cliff and "ROCK CLIMBING", in which students tackle the face of a steep cliff. All in all, students develop a lot of character and self-esteem over the four days and they will learn valuable lessons about our fragile environment. I look forward to the "ENVIRO CLASS of 1998-99.

SAC Debating...

Facilitating a speech and debate program is not that different, I guess, from coaching any other sport where you try to make the most out of what you happen to have. No point in wishing for what you ain't got. So your distinctions and accomplishments are somehow cyclical because some years you are lucky to have in your grasp certain individuals who are pure gold, and other years you are working with less colourful metals. They may not shine as brightly but they feel just as valuable.

Facing this year I felt a little deflated because I had lost a couple of crops of fine young men with whom I had been working for a period of years, and the impact of our shared experiences made it likely that they would be successful in the visible way that the world recognizes. This year I surmised that we wouldn't be winning too many tournaments; there were big shoes to fill and not too many seasoned bodies to throw on the field of battle. I guess that's what you call indulging in a mixed metaphor!

And yet as I look back over the years that I have coached debating, some of the seasons that I enjoyed the most have been those when we didn't pick up a lot of silver trophies, those in which quiet rebuilding took place and I saw certain individuals make wonderful or surprising progress.

BIG shoes to fill - Suitable feet found

For just about the first time ever I didn't have a "natural" Mr. President for the Debating Society. Because of that cyclical thing I mentioned there just wasn't anyone in the senior class who was seasoned and ready. In consultation with last year's graduating members, I chose Antonio Riva Palacio - not the most experienced debater by any means, not native in English - yet the one in whom we believed that integrity and leadership qualities resided. Antonio had shown these qualities in other activities at SAC, so why not debating?

Perhaps the most rewarding experience for my debaters, as with our First Hockey players, is to make the Provincials and maybe even, like Pierre Filion last year, the Nationals. I knew that I would be going myself because I continue to serve as a Governor and now Director of OSDU, the Ontario Student Debating Union. But I didn't expect that anyone else from St. Andrew's would be going with me. I was wrong.

In the English regionals my most experienced debaters tried hard but weren't having their best days, but out of nowhere a young grade tenner new to the school came in sixth and qualified to go to Sudbury. That is Andrew Martin and I anticipate a bright future in speech communication for him. Then we were asked to host the French regional tournament when another school withdrew and Monsieur Michel Cameron of our French department threw his weight behind the venture. One of the most useful additions to school life in the past three years has been the superb young men the Mr. Cameron helped bring to SAC from the province of Quebec. I have already mentioned Pierre Filion and in short order Mr. Cameron pushed in my direction Tom Lariviere and Matthieu Soulie. Mark Andrew Scott had already shown an interest last year, but he didn't really have the time to concentrate of public speaking. He would however show up for this one local tournament just two days before the musical hit the boards. Well, to make the long story shorter, Mark came in first and Tom came in fourth. Mark couldn't go to the Provincials because by the time that April rolled around he would be in Nepal, but Tom had qualified too! And the to top it off a new member of staff Mr. Joel Fines had shown a sincere interest in learning about French debating; with a phone call I arranged an invitation for him to attend as an observer -- so four guys from SAC drove in the red and white can to Sudbury -- amazing! The theme issue was a topical one, cloning and genetic manipulation.

None of us got to the CSDF Nationals this year which were held in Saskatoon, but we did run shoulders with the best high school debaters in the country who won last year's Nationals and were preparing to represent Canada in World Schools Debating Championship which took place in Israel in February. Along with UTS we undertook to help Team Canada prepare for their honour by providing them with three practice debates during their prep days in Toronto. Our debate took place in Chapel before the entire school and we gave them a good run for their money as we argued about whether we should beat our swords into ploughshares. It was extremely gratifying to learn in due course that Team Canada went undefeated through their first round of eight debates, and that the identified their debates in Canada as the time when they came together and really acquired confidence. They were knocked out in the semi-finals by Scotland who lost in the Championship to Australia.

The best way to solidify an over-stretched debating program is to spend time with the Juniors for that's where the future lies. And here I was fortunate to have the assistance of our Chaplain, Mr. Bob Arril. Early in the third term he took teams to a novice tournament at Ridley and to his delight Daniel Casas and Aladdin Diakun emerged as the top junior team there. Then we were approached by the Bermuda Debate Society: would we accept as our guests as we had one four years ago delegation of the best of their young debaters for a few days? You bet we would! Good for them and good for us, and there might just be another invitation to return to Bermuda in some future year. So it was that we played host to five persuasive young Bermudians and their two coaches for a series of five home debates, some tourist time in Toronto, and a taste of life at St. Andrew's. My thanks to the Newton, Chow, Toms, McGee and MacIvor families for being the best billets. Lots of experience for our novices and some fine new friendships. And, yes, we are going to visit their beautiful island over the Thanksgiving weekend this coming fall.

Each on or about the 23rd of April, the birthday of the Bard, the English Speaking Union in Toronto hosts a Shakespear on the Platform, a competition to which each school can send just one representative to perform one long soliloquy and one short sonnet before a distinguished thespian. Each year we have given it a good shot, coming in as high as runner up to the winner of on one occasion. Enter a director and an actor who don't usually have time to take on public speaking activities. The actor was our Head Prefect Greg Meuser and the director our own Mr. Will Scoular, and the result might have been predicted. Greg was chosen as best in the field and winner of the gold!

We, the faithful core of the society, continued to meet most Monday evenings to polish our skills and to plan our engagements. We accepted as many invitations as we could to tournaments at places such as St. Clemens School, Nepean High School near Ottawa, Branksome Hall and others. We maintained happy social contacts with the debate clubs at Holy Trinity School, Madonna High School and Havergal College. Russell Fraser, one of our vice-presidents, was the key person in arranging these. In the spring term we took part in the Nora McRae Public Speaking Competition, and in the Churchill Medals competition at U of T's Victoria University. Our delegate here was Gene Chiba, the other of our two vice-presidents. He spoke well, learned a great deal from the experience and hopefully will have another go at this one next year.

The other annual event by which we measure and challenge ourselves is the friendly but hotly contested home and home series of debates with the Toronto French School. We came out on top in one of the debates, they won the other, and the margin of judges convinced over the whole day favoured them by a hair! This is all part of the sport and gives us additional incentive for next year's challenge. It was very pleasant to resume our happy relationship with their interim, Mr. John Aimers, who is covering for Mrs. Beck during her year's sabbatical.

On Prize Day we recognized our most significant debaters with awards. To choose is never easy, but these names seemed particularly deserving. Best Junior Debater: Daniel Casas. Good luck in Mexico, Daniel, we are sorry to lose you! The Mitchell Prize for the best intermediate debater: Andrew Martin. The Craig Leslie Prize: Antonio Riva Palacio. And finally, the most prestigious of them all, the Brooks Trophy to Gene Chiba.

So what am I to make of this year after all? Certainly there have been disappointments. I still need more motivated candidates with whom to work; in some of our tournament appearances we have made other teams feel good; we had to drop out of the third term Fulford because it fell on the same day as the Cadet Inspection. But that said, I still shake my head in amazement at the vitality and unpredictability of it all. And a little contrary to my feelings at the start of the year, I still enjoy it as much as I ever did.

CLANS

The Changing of the Guard in Clan Supremacy

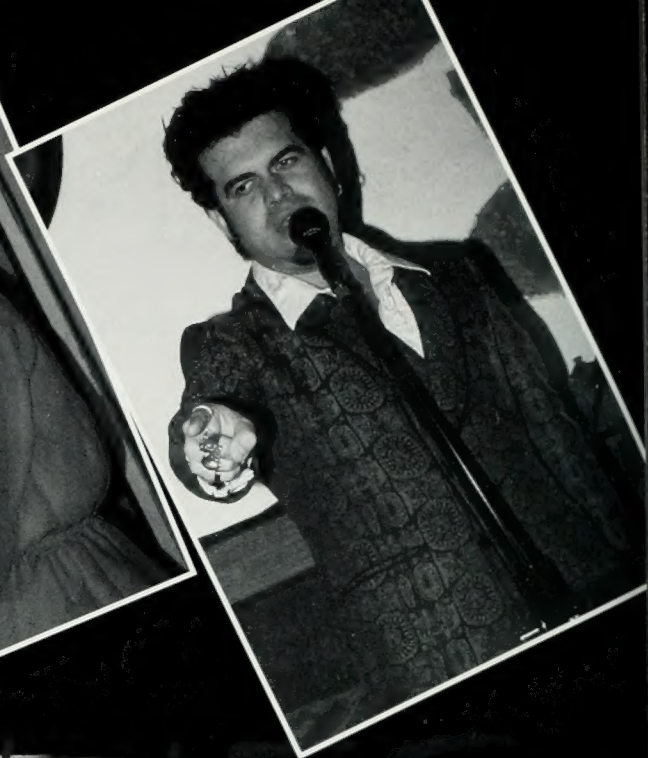

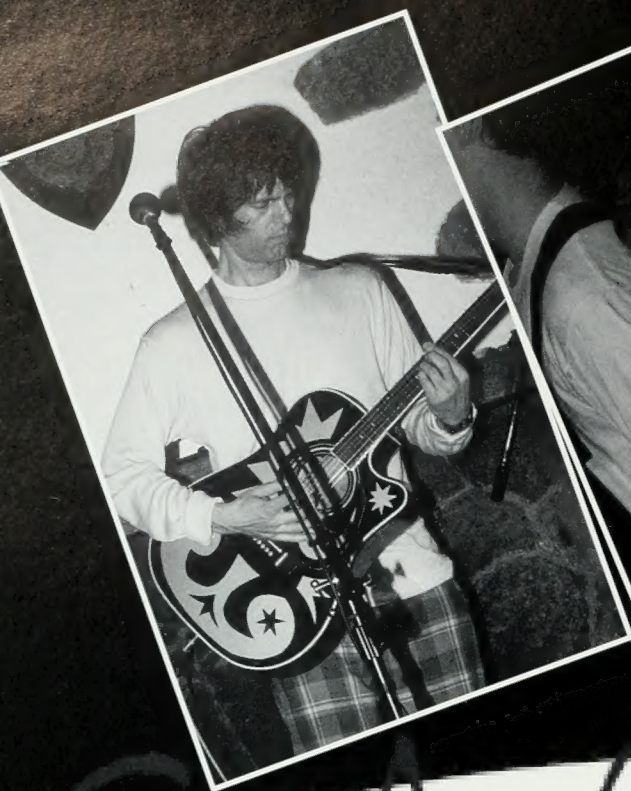

On the last day of the school year we made additional clan announcements and awards reflecting individual and group accomplishments during the academic year just completed. Both clan races were exceptionally interesting this year because in both cases the worm turned, or there was a changing of the guard. Tendencies which had been quietly emerging in the past couple of years came to the fore and resulted in major upsets. For ownership of the Housser Trophy in the Upper School, Leslie Clan of New House, building upon their superior performance academically at last displaced Ramsey as the top senior clan. Richard Lai came forward on Prize Day to accept the trophy on behalf of his clan mates. The most distinguished of the senior boarder clans once again was Buchanan Clan of Memorial House. Inexorably they are narrowing the usual gap between the dayboy and boarder clans.

The most spirited clan member in the Upper School and winner of the MacPherson Shield was Andrew Weedon who brought great energy to his every endeavour whether on the ice, in the hose or in the classroom. On Prize Day we present the Macdonald Cup to the young man who in his last two years has earned the most points for his clan. This is one of our most prestigious prizes, and it was somehow appropriate this time that the result was a dead heat between two best friends, Ben Wood and Greg Meuser, both of Stewart Clan or Sifton House.

The top junior clan in Macdonald House and winner of the RJR Trophy was Montrose Clan once again. They were clearly ahead of Wallace and because of the changing balance of numbers Bruce Clan has been given over to dayboys. Acting leader of his clan was Brendan Farrell who was doubly honoured because for the second time running he was chosen by his peers to receive the Manny Cominsky Award for his dependable decency around the house. As was the case in the Upper School the competition between the two original dayboy clans of Robertson and Douglas was very close, but this year for the first time in a very long while the outcome was different. Move over Robertson and make way for Douglas who were led by Graydon Stock! It is a gratifying to see these quietly developing trends come to fruition. So it was that I chose to title this part of the report "The Changing of the Guard".

This year, especially in the spring, more boys than ever applied for and earned clan colours on one of three levels of distinction signifying the extent of their contribution to life around St. Andrew's College. This is heartening indeed. I hope that each of you derived both pride and satisfaction from the clan system and the legacy of St. Andrew. In the words of St. Paul, we are called upon to acquit ourselves like men, to be strong and to do all our deeds in love.

PRIZE DAY

Headmaster's Speech

Mr. Chairman; Your Honour; Your Worship; Governors; Faculty; Honoured Guests; Parents and Gentlemen of St. Andrew's College:

Today is our 99th Prize Day at St. Andrew's College. A venerable occasion indeed, to which we welcome all our visitors, especially those from far away, who have come to mark the end of another school year, to honour the graduating class, and to recognize those throughout the School who have excelled in their endeavours.

I would like to begin my report on the activities of the year by thanking the School for its patience in enduring a new headmaster especially one who has been seen crawling through the underbrush behind the Chapel looking for smokers or suddenly appearing in the residences during evening study prompting the hasty removal of earrings. A change in headmasters is always an evolutionary step for a school and although I was one new face, one new person for you to learn, you were 460 new people for me to learn. Although that sounds intimidating, I can honestly say that it has been the best part of this intriguing job. Getting to know you, your talents, your ambitions and your opinions has been the one aspect that I really look forward to each and every day.

For instance, I never knew how budding morticians dressed until I ran into Nelson Chan one Sunday at Brunch. I didn't know they made football helmets the size of laundry hampers until I met John Knutton. I didn't know the human face could bend in so many different directions until I met Mathieu Soulie. I didn't know how someone could sleep standing up before I met Andrew Lee. But I'm really not one to talk because I thought that one wore a kilt with the pleats at the front.

But seriously, I also didn't know the true meaning of the phrase "emotional attachment" until I glanced We just received the results for the University of Toronto Biology competition. Our top student was Greg Meuser who ranked 170th out of 5360 participants, finishing in the 96th percentile. He was followed by would like to thank Paul Bedard, our Director of Athletics, for his cool and efficient handling of one of the most comprehensive sports programs of any independent school in Canada.

There were 56 teams in the school competing in 21 sports; 15 of these teams competed in both The Independent Schools and York Region events; approximately 650 games took place throughout the year of which we won very close to 70 %. An impressive record! 86 % of our boys played on teams against other schools. I think the fact that so many boys had the opportunity to play on school teams is one of our finest achievements.

We won four CISAA Championships; Cross-Country Running, Squash, Golf, and Track and Field and our cross-country team won the York Region Championship as well Independent School tournaments were won by our U16 Hockey, U16 Squash and Jr. Golf teams. Senior Hockey made us all proud winning this year's MacPherson Tournament as well as the York Region Hockey Championship; this trophy for the third year in a row and the fifth time in six years. We came very close on several other occasions; Senior Soccer lost an agonizingly close game to Ridley on a shootout after double overtime; Senior Hockey lost a very close final to a powerful UC team, our exciting Senior Basketball team finally met its match against Hillfield-Strathallen College and First team Swimming, Alpine Skiing, Nordic Skiing and tennis finished a close second during their respective seasons. In October, our highly skilled Under 13 Soccer team were finalists in the Canadian Association of Independent Schools Soccer Tournament in Toronto. The coming October, St. Andrew's will host this national tournament.

If there was a 'highlight of the Sports Year', surely it would be the Senior Hockey teams' gallant quarter final effort against the #1 ranked team in Ontario, Upper Canada College during the OFSAA Tournament in Etobicoke. Goalie Ian Snyder made 67 saves before a shot finally eluded him in triple overtime.

I would be remiss if I didn't mention some other individual successes this year. Dan Wells finished 58th in the world in the U19 triathlon held in Australia. He had to get special permission to compete as he is under the required minimum age. He is, currently, the #1 ranked under 19 triathlete in Canada.

Rob Cousineau represented Canada on the U19 Rugby team at the World Championships held in France. The team finished 4th.

Samuel Lam and Ricky Luk won a gold medal in Senior Boy's doubles at the OFSAA Badminton Tournament.

But St. Andrew's is much more than Athletics. Drama continued to play a significant role in the lives of many boys at the School. In fact, this was the year that drama became a contact sport. Performing an exciting duel scene from Macbeth for our Open House guests, Head Prefect, Greg Meuser zigged when he should have zagged, and his forehead met up with one of the more famous steel swords from Stratford. You can imagine the look on the face of one prospective grade 7 parent when Greg, bleeding profusely, was carried, from the stage, by his shaken cohort, Mark Gooderham who played the role of Macduff. I overheard the parent say to her young son, "Wow; they really go all out at St. Andrew's."

We are blessed to have one of the very best producers and directors anywhere on our faculty. Mr.

William Scoular creates extravaganzas every year and gets the very best out of his cast.

A total of 200 boys were involved in one or more of the productions this year; Macbeth, the Musical-H.M.S. Pinafore, and the Spring Celebration of the Arts, FOCUS. The cast of 'Pinafore' had only 15 rehearsals to prepare; yet Andrew Camargo, Jeff Messina and Mark Andrew Scott excelled in the leading roles. This is due, no doubt, to the leadership given by the husband-wife directing team of Mr. and Mrs. Clements.

Visitors to the campus during FOCUS week in May were treated to a wide variety of artistic performances. Special mention should go to Aaron Styling for his role in "For whom the Southern Belle Tolls", Rob Gray in "Keeping the Peace", and Nick Abraham and Justin Williams in "Gladiators". Also, Paul Perrier should be commended for his directing of "Gladiators". Ian Myrans and Ian Rogers worked tirelessly all year in terms of technical support for all the dramatic productions. But every boy in whatever role or job he had was an integral cog in the wheel of St. Andrew's outstanding drama program, and I congratulate you all.

In Music our bands, Concert, military, pep, jazz, and pit made solid strides this year and played for our enjoyment at many functions. Ross and Justin Lin, Scott Murdoch, Hyon Do Kim, Warren Lowe, Nhi Le, John Knutton and Andrew Lee were chosen to perform at The Independent Schools Music Festival. Warren Lowe was singled out to play for the select Jazz Ensemble at the same festival. Mr. Clements and Mr. McGee are responsible for fast development of our musicians. The Choir, under the directorship of Mr. Art Wenk, practiced faithfully every Tuesday and performed several excellent concerts.

Mr. Ray and Mr. Arril, our Senior and Junior Debating coaches respectively, report that their season was full of surprises. Originally considered a rebuilding year, out of nowhere came Newcomer Andrew Martin to win the Ontario Regionals and in the French Regional Tournament, Mark Andrew Scott and Tom Lariviere finished first and fourth respectively.

In Junior Debating, Daniel Casas and Aladdin Diakun were winners at the Ridley Tournament.

Each year, on or about the 23rd of April, the Birthday of the Bard, the English Speaking Union in Toronto hosts 'Shakespeare on the platform', a competition to which each school can send just one representative to perform one long soliloquy and one short sonnet before a distinguished thespian. Each year we have given it a good shot, finishing as high as second. This year, enter Will Scoular and Greg Meuser and off Greg walked with the gold medal.

Headmaster's Speech

Art is flourishing at S.A.C. and I am continually amazed and entertained by the Art produced at all levels of the School. Several of our grade 10 students entered the Royal Canadian Legion Poster Design Contest in the Senior Division, open to Grade 10-13. They won the top three awards and Andrew Park won the competition. The FOCUS exhibition showcased some incredible work and I congratulate all our artists for their creativity. Mr. Paolini, himself an accomplished painter, reports that this year's OAC class produced some of the best work in recent memory. This coming September, in honour of our Centennial, we will be featuring an Art Show of former students of the school who have gone on to become full-time artists.

There are many measures to gauge the stature of a school, but none is more reliable than the strength of its staff. Competent, conscientious, and confident in the role they play in upholding the quality of education in this school, our faculty deserves all the praise and support that you are able to give them. I thank all the faculty for their work in the past year, for the painstaking and sometimes tedious labour involved in kindling fires in the minds of boys, for their assistance as coaches, and for their inspiration and guidance in the many other activities outside the classroom. The School would also not function effectively without the dedication of many other staff members in the Development Office, the Admission Office, the infirmary, the dining hall and those responsible for building and grounds. I thank them all for their help this year. A special word of thanks to Members of the Administrative team for their counsel this year as well as to my assistant Gayle Petri who more than any other individual had to bear the brunt of orienting a new headmaster to the idiosyncrasies of life at St. Andrew's.

We often take our Ladies Guild for granted, but they are an integral part of "the community" here and I would like to thank outgoing President, Mrs. Pat Wakefield, the very hard working members of her Executive and the many volunteers for their commitment to S.A.C. Best wishes to Mrs. Nancy Near who heads this dynamic body next year.

Today, we say goodbye to four members of the faculty and staff. In your presence I would like to acknowledge the contribution to the quality of teaching at St. Andrew's by Mr. Fred Hiltz, our department head of physics who retires today after a career which spans 35 years. Acknowledged by many as one of the foremost teachers of secondary school physics in Canada, Fred has inspired many Andreans to undertake careers in engineering and related fields. No other school in Canada offers such an advanced and specialized graduation level course and that is because Mr. Hiltz designed the course and he is at St. Andrew's! It is due primarily to his exacting standards that Queen's University recently announced that they would accept S.A.C. graduates into the Faculty of Applied Science with averages in the low eighties and even high seventies, instead of high eighties, because of the track record of S.A.C. students over the years compared to students from other schools.

Mr. Hiltz also ran several successful scuba diving trips to the Bahamas during expansion week. Years ago he was the driving force behind St. Andrew's first Outdoor Ed. Program a real pioneer in this popular co-curricular activity.

As well, today Mrs. Doreen Hiltz completes 25 years at St. Andrew's as our English as a Second Language Coordinator. We are indeed fortunate to have Doreen with us for one more year and then she will join her husband in a well-deserved retirement. It isn't often that a husband-wife team can speak of a combined 60 years of exemplary service to one institution. Please join with me in saluting Fred and Doreen Hiltz.

Mr. Peter Jamieson, a teacher of English, history and geography for the past two years and Assistant Housemaster of Flavelle House returns to his native province of British Columbia to take on a position at St. George's School in Vancouver. We thank Peter for his hard work assisting Mr. Foy in the residence, with the Pipers, and with the Rugby team. Best of luck, to you Peter.

Headmaster's Speech

We also say farewell to Giles Makins, our Gap student from England who has very ably helped us in a number of important school activities and events and Amanda Thorne who heads off to her final year at the University of Waterloo Co-Op program after assisting us for the past six months. Thank you both for your fine work and good luck with your continuing studies.

Rose John-Scheder also retires after a decade at St. Andrew's College where she has kept the boys' Macdonald house in good order. She will be sorely missed. Much happiness in your retirement Rose.

Looking back on the School year, one of the more pivotal activities was the Strategic Planning retreat held at the School in November. Fifty-seven members of the Andrean community, consisting of members of the Board of Governors, alumni, faculty, parents, past-parents and friends of the school met to identify issues which might impact to various degrees on the future of this fine institution. A multitude of key issues were identified and an action plan developed, consisting of 80 initiatives, that should see St. Andrew's flourishing well into the next century. A copy of this Strategic Agenda will be sent to you in the next few weeks and I would be happy to talk with you at any time about our plans for the future. As to the immediate future, the boys' rooms in MacDonald House will undergo a major retrofit, beginning almost immediately and Dunlap Hall will be modified considerably to better suit our administrative needs. I think you will notice several significant changes on your return in September. Ms. Angela Phillips, who is here with us today, joins the Faculty as Dean of Academic Studies and Director of the Senior School. One of her responsibilities, in collaboration with the Department Heads, will be to create a distinctively Andrean four year curriculum by next September in preparation for the elimination of grade 13 in 2003.

Let me now turn to our graduating class;

The arrival of Prize Day will be greeted by these boys with mixed feelings, I'm sure. You must feel a sense of relief that at long last your secondary school days are over. As you look back, you will be proud of what you have accomplished and perhaps, a little wistful about what has been left undone. You have probably begun to realize that you won't be playing on these fields again, that you have attended your last chapel service and that you will be leaving behind these buildings and grounds which have become very much part of your daily lives. A good thing, did someone say? Yes, it is. Life must go on, and you must move on. As you say goodbye to the friends with whom you have shared so many experiences, the joy of graduation will be tinged with regret.

Henry Thoreau once said, "A man cannot be said to succeed in life who does not satisfy one friend." I think that you all realize that the friends you have made here will be your life-long friends. You have gone through this together- the surest bond of friendship is having enemies in common. I certainly hope that you have learned to get along with other people. This might be the most important thing that we could teach you. Class of 1998- good luck to all of you. Come back and visit us often.

In concluding, I would like to share with you my personal highlights of my first year at St. Andrew's. There are three; the miraculous operation and recovery of a young grade 7 Mexican student, Othon Canales from brain surgery in December; the courageous manner in which grade 12 student Sylvain Desrochers handled his broken neck injury, suffered in a Rugby game on our lower fields and the fabulous community service efforts of our Students and faculty in Nepal all performed at altitudes of 12,000 ft. or higher.

Othon will return to S.A.C. for his grade 8 year; Sylvain is well on the road to recovery and he was elected as a prefect for 1998/1999 and our St. Andrew's Society for Service in Nepal team are already planning for their return in February 2000. Our motto "QUIT YE LIKE MEN BE STRONG" as evidenced here is alive and well. Thank you

Michael Palmer.
He will do anything to get in a picture!

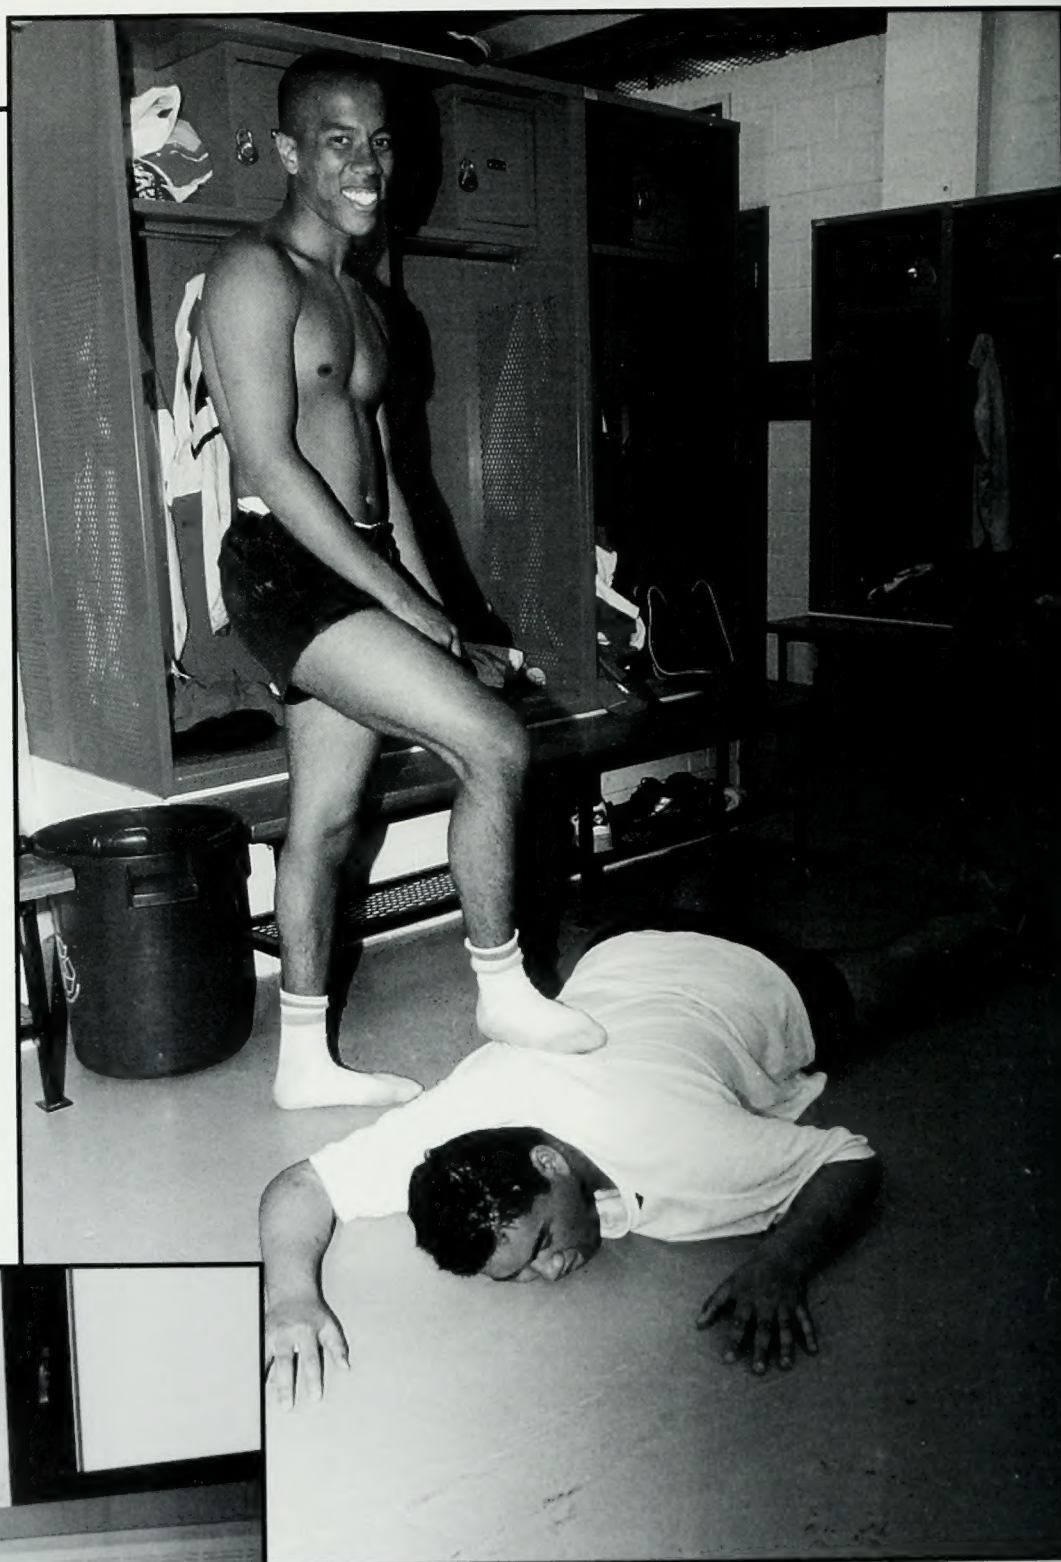

Khalil Braithwaite living it up in the halls of Sifton

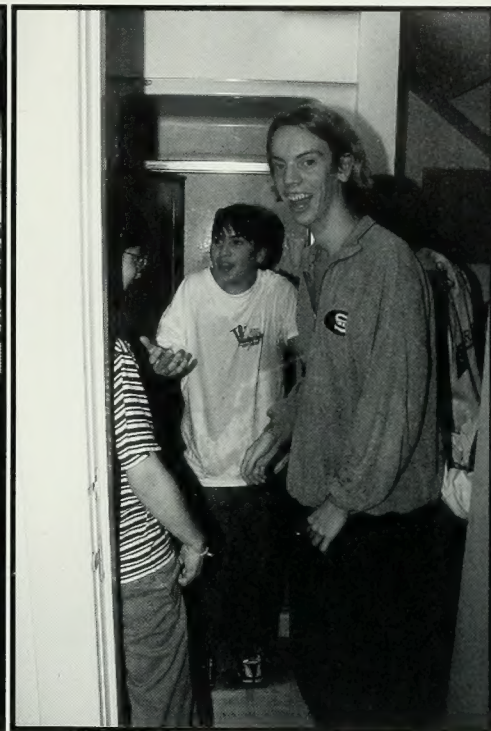

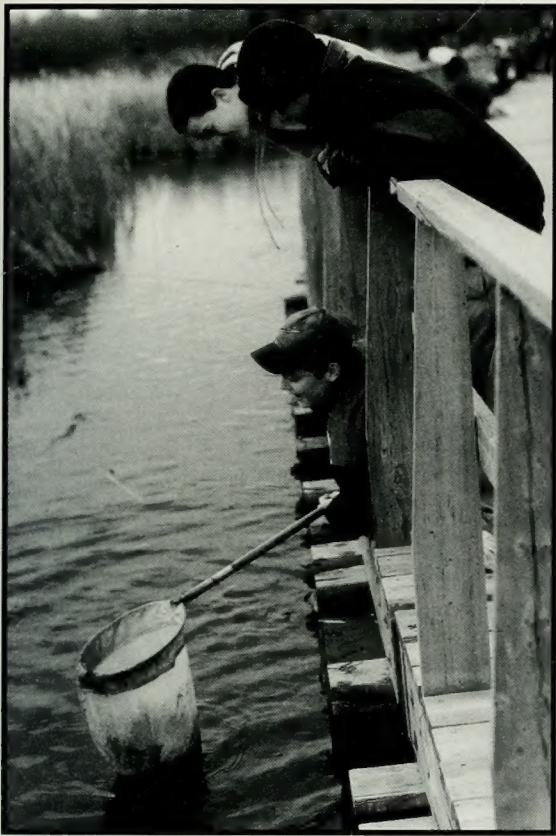

Richard Choi is swinging in the halls of Mac House

Richard Lai KO's Ron Cruz in a thirty second one round match many had thought would have gone much longer. "He ain't that tough" exclaims a jubilant Rich. When asked what his plans are now all he would say is that "I'm going to Disney Land. I'm the King of the World." Ron Cruz demanded a rematch.

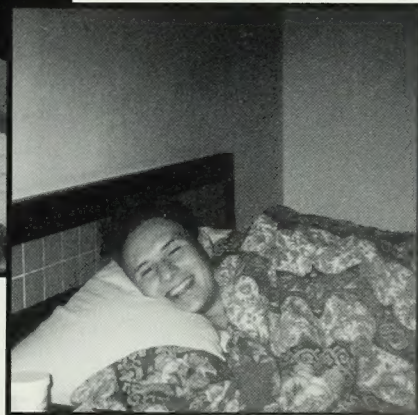

Andrew (I can sleep while standing up) Lee is awoken by a camera flash while he was dozing for the hundreth time in calculus class.

Tom Takada - striped shirt, Branden McGaffney - grey shirt, Colin Hsu - shirt with stars, Justin Hassell - white shirt

That's it.
